ANYONE COULD TELL A CHRYSLER!

Knew it was a Chrysler by its power and silence. Saw it come surely, safely to a standstill—admired its beauty of line. Watched it streak away quickly, easily the moment the road was clear. Saw it in the distance taking a corner—wondered at its steadiness and ease. Now, I'm going for a free trial run—to-day!

See three types of Chryslers 77—70 and 66; also now obtainable the new Chrysler Six, in our showrooms.

GARDEN, FARM, BEES, ETC.

CHRYSANTHEMUM TROUBLE.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Garden Correspondent says: A safe and certain remedy for both fly and thrip in the tender tops of Chrysanthemums, for which spraying solutions are possibly risky, is well dredging with tobacco powder, stocked by all seedsmen. As one of the vagaries of the season, we notice an early visitation in the early flowering varieties, but from now on none will scarcely escape, hence the wisdom of keen observation and treatment accordingly. Would that we could as easily deal with that more subtle foe, the White Fly, but that, as a rule, is more prevalent under glass, especially in Tomato houses, only effectually dealt with by the deadly cyanide gas, so deadly as to require expert handling, for it is far from fool proof.

TONICS FOR THE BIRDS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says: We all get "run down" a little at times—so do the hens that have been laying a long time, especially if confined. The best tonic of all is a change of run, if possible, out in the fields. This acts like magic, but in the absence of this there are some things that help. The old-fashioned iron tonic is always good. It is made by dissolving one pound of sulphate of iron and one ounce of sulphuric acid in a jug of hot water; then let it stand for twenty-four hours, and mix it with one gallon of water; smaller quantities in proportion. One teaspoonful to each pint of drinking water may be given once a week for three or four weeks at a time.

BLIN DISTRICT COURT.

AN ILLEGAL PICKET.

PREMISES "BESET" BEFORE DISPUTE.

(BEFORE MR. HANNON.)

Thomas O'Hanlon, Secretary and Organiser of the National Union of Vehicle Builders; Thomas Harris, coach fitter; Thomas Ryan, coach fitter; Thomas Ramsay, coach wheeler; Henry Ivers, coach painter, and Peter Keogh, coach body maker, all members of the National Union of Vehicle Builders, were charged on summons by Inspector O'Connell with watching and besetting the premises of the Magnet 'Bus Company at Aston's quay, with the view of compelling Mr. Norman R. Morrow, managing director of the company, to abstain from doing what he had a lawful right to day—namely, to employ Christopher Kelly, and other men at the company's garage in Corporation street.

Mr. Clarke, solicitor (Chief State Solicitor's Department), prosecuted, and Mr. Sherry (instructed by Messrs. Vincent and Beatty) appeared for the defendants.

Inspector O'Connell gave evidence that on the 5th inst. he observed four men picketing in the carriage-way at Aston's quay, outside the offices of the Magnet 'Bus Company. One of the men, Joseph Harris, was carrying a banner with the inscription: "The Magnet 'Bus Company employ non-union labour in repairing and painting their 'buses.—N.U.V.B."

In consequence of what he was told by Harris, he went into Mr. Morrow's office and interviewed him. He learned from him that there was no dispute between the company and their employés, and then went back to where the picket was.

The picketing was renewed on the following evening.

Evidence was given for the defence by Mr. Thomas O'Hanlon, one of the men charged, in which he stated that although there was no dispute at present between the company and the men, there was a dispute in contemplation. He added that there were non-union men in the employment of the company.

Mr. Hannon said that on the evidence he must convict the defendants. He allowed them out under the Probation Act, as there had been no previous convictions against them, the defendants to give an undertaking not to break the law.

Mr. Sherry said that they would give the undertaking not to break the law, but would not give an undertaking not to picket.

ADDED WATER IN MILK.

DEALER FINED ON SIX SUMMONSES.

Edward Wade, Rathbran, Grange Con, was summoned by the Dublin Commissioners for sending new milk to Dublin which was found to be adulterated by added water.

Inspector Tannam gave evidence of taking samples of the milk at the Kingsbridge Station. In one sample there was 6.5 per cent. of added water, and in another an addition of 5.9. Two samples taken on the 29th of April contained 8.8 and 8.2 respectively of added water, and two samples taken on the 30th of April contained 7.1 and 6.5 of added water.

Mr. Hannon imposed a fine of 10s. in each case.

IN BROTHER'S NAME.

TWO GIRLS CHARGED WITH FALSE PRETENCES.

(BEFORE MR. CUSSEN.)

Two girls named Eileen and Nora Bergin, who had been arrested at a boardinghouse in Northumberland road that morning, were charged with obtaining goods to the value of about £20 from Messrs. Pim's, Hely's, Elvery's and Crotty's by false pretences.

Detective Wyer, who gave evidence of arrest, said that Eileen Bergin made a statement to the effect that her brother, Mr. P. A. Bergin, who was an Excise officer at Belmullet, had failed to carry out a promise to give her £60 to take up nursing. She admitted getting the property involved in the charge against her, and said that she was wearing some of the clothing which had been obtained in her brother's name. She had two sets of golf sticks in the house at Northumberland road. She closed her statement with the remark that she did the whole thing "through wildness." Her sister Nora said that the statement was correct. At the Bridewell Eileen added: "I did not mean to defraud; the pretences were not false."

Evidence of the ordering of goods by the defendants was given by assistants in the premises alleged to have been defrauded, two of the witnesses identifying waterproof coats which the girls wore in court as the property of Messrs. Elvery.

The defendants were remanded on bail.

"FROM AUSTRALIA."

ALLEGED RUSE TO OBTAIN MONEY.

A middle-aged man named Patrick Flynn, of no home and no business, was remanded in custody, charged with obtaining £10 from Mr. Charles Byrne, South Richmond street, by false pretences.

Detective Scallan gave evidence of the arrest of the defendant from a description, and read a statement alleged to have been made by him. Flynn said that he was a returned Australian. One evening he called on Mr. Byrne and told him that he had been robbed of £70 outside one of the city theatres. On the strength of what he said Mr. Byrne gave him £10 to send a cable to Australia. The statement went on to declare that its author had been in many parts of Ireland, and that among other things which he did in the country was to break into a public house in Cork and take from it four bottles of whiskey. (Laughter.) He was very drunk then, and he was in the same condition when he called on Mr. Byrne and got the £10 from him.

Mr. M. J. Noonan, a guest at the Ormond Hotel, said that he had been in Australia. On Saturday last the defendant called and told him that he had been to Australia, and knew several people known to the witness in Brisbane. Subsequently the defendant told Mrs. Noonan that he had given him instructions to get £1 from her. Mrs. Noonan handed over the £1 in the belief that the defendant wanted to cable to Australia for money.

PAWNED CUSTOMER'S COAT

TAILOR ORDERED TO PAY COMPENSATION.

James Carroll, tailor, Heytesbury street, was charged with stealing a fur coat, value £12, the property of Miss Rita Smeltzer, Kimmage road, and pawning it for 12s.

Miss Smeltzer stated that she left the coat with the defendant for the purpose of having some alterations made. When she asked for it, he asked for money for other work that he had done for her. He failed to answer letters, and when she and her mother called he refused to hand over the coat. The defendant said that he ran short of money and pawned the coat.

In the course of his evidence the defendant said that he was 83 years of age. He agreed with the Justice that it was time that he gave up mending women's coats.

The Justice directed the defendant to pay 12s. to the pawnbroker, and ordered the coat to be handed over to Miss Smeltzer.

The defendant was then allowed out.

DUBLIN CIRCUIT COURT.

CLOTHING CAUGHT IN MACHINERY.

COMPENSATION FOR CHILDREN.

(BEFORE JUDGE SHANNON.)

John Byrne and Denis Byrne, minors, by their uncle, Christopher Byrne, of 8 Millbank, Lucan, claimed compensation from Messrs. Hill and Sons, Ltd., the Woollen Mills, Lucan, for the death of their father, Denis Byrne, from injuries received when his clothing caught in the machinery of the mill on the 3rd April last.

Mr. Cawley (instructed by Messrs. James O'Connor and Company), on behalf of the applicants, stated that Mr. Good, solicitor, for Messrs. Hill and Son, had mentioned a sum of £250 as compensation, and the applicants had consented to accept this sum.

Mr. Good mentioned that £300 was the maximum amount allowed under the Act. His clients would pay the costs.

Judge Shannon said that he thought that that was a fair settlement. Of the £250 he would apportion £140 to Denis Byrne and £110 to John Byrne. He directed that the money should be invested in National Loan for their benefit.

CONDITION OF FINGLAS PREMISES.

BUTCHER'S ACTION DISMISSED.

(BEFORE JUDGE ROCHE.)

Joseph W. Montgomery, butcher, of Main street, Finglas, claimed £100 from Patrick Joseph Flood for alleged loss and damage due to the defendant's breach of agreement to repair and keep in repair a house and premises in Main street, Finglas, and for alleged breach of covenant.

The defendant denied breach of agreement or breach of convenant.

Mr. Cawley (instructed by Mr. Archibald Clarke) appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Coghlan (instructed by Messrs. Kennedy and McGonigal) for the defendant.

The plaintiff stated that he took the premises, as a tenant, from the defendant in October, 1923. The defendant agreed to put the house in repair. A closing order was made as the result of a summons by the sanitary authorities, and the defendant then stripped the roof and put on an old corrugated roof. The rain poured in on the plaintiff's stock from 1924 till 1929. The defendant took down the wall in 1929, and left the premises open to the public. At present there were no shutters on the windows. A refrigerator was damaged, and dogs got into the shop and made off with a side of beef value for £5.

John Brophy, sanitary inspector, gave evidence that the premises had been in a bad condition since 1923, but that they were in good repair now.

The defendant said that after the closing order was made the plaintiff appealed to him to let him remain in the shop while the repairs were being done. The plaintiff had not lost any of the trade which the witness himself had when carrying on the butchering business there. The house was in good condition when the plaintiff went into it, and it was not until after the closing order had been made when the plaintiff asked him to carry out some repairs. The damage to the roof was caused by the plaintiff himself when he tore it off to look for a cat that got under it. (Laughter.)

Answering the Judge, the defendant said that the plaintiff inspected the premises before he took them.

Judge Roche said that he was satisfied that there was no bargain whatever between the parties at the time of the original contract that the defendant should put the house in repair or keep it in repair. The plaintiff had seen the premises before he rented them. Accordingly he would dismiss the action.

TWELVE MONTHS FOR FRAUD.

DUBLIN MERCHANT'S NAME USED.

At Sheffield Police Court, an elderly man named McAllister, alias Duncan McDonald, supposed to be a native of Sligo, pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to obtain goods to the value of £250 from various Sheffield firms with intent to defraud.

From the evidence it appeared that McDonald went to a printer's office in Sheffield, where he ordered a quantity of stationery to be printed in the name of J. J. McQuillan, 35 and 36 Capel street, Dublin. Having secured this, the accused man went to a scrivener's office, and had a number of letters typed. These were addressed to various Sheffield firms, and were supposed to be signed by Mr. McQuillan. They introduced the accused as a brother of Mr. J. J. McQuillan's named "Michael"—there being no such person—and authorised him to select and take with him goods which were required immediately for the fulfilment of a Free State Government contract.

The principal of one firm, familiar with Mr. McQuillan's stationery and signature, became suspicious and telephoned Mr. McQuillan for confirmation of the order. The result of the telephone communication was that when McDonald called back for the goods he found the police waiting for him, and was arrested.

He pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment.

TURNED DOWN.

EX-R.I.C. MAN AND CIVIL SERVICE.

A PRISON WARDER'S COMPLAINT.

The Civil Service (Compensation) Board met at 89 Merrion square, Dublin, yesterday. Judge Davitt (Chairman) presided, and there were also present:—Messrs. O. J. Redmond and F. Nally (representing the Finance Department), and A. McE. Kelly and T. J. Hughes (representing the Officers' Panel).

The claim for compensation made by Mr. Patrick Gaffney, temporary clerk, Department of Posts and Telegraphs, was heard.

Mr. C. Roche (instructed by Messrs. Roche and Son) appeared for the applicant.

The applicant, an ex-sergeant of the Royal Irish Constabulary, in which he had served 24 years, and from which he was discharged in 1917 on health grounds, was examined. He said that he was quite willing to remain in the Civil Service, but was turned down, and refused leave to sit for a certain examination. He entered the Civil Service in 1918, and was attached to the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction. In March of 1929 he was transferred to the Department of Posts and Telegraphs, and was dismissed in the following November without gratuity. He started in the Service with 35s. a week and bonus. The highest salary he got was £3 3s. 7d.

The applicant stated further that he was discharged from the R.I.C. when at Clones, Co. Monaghan, as medically unfit, and got a pension. He thought that he had been discharged from the force rather unfairly, being taken off duty, examined by a medical board, and let go. He protested against his discharge.

Mr. Crowley (Ministry of Posts and Telegraphs) stated that the applicant entered the Service in 1918 for a probationary period of six weeks, and could be dismissed at a week's notice. His employment was continued without formality. He handed in a document showing why the applicant had not been allowed to stand for an examination in 1929. After 11½ years' service the character and efficiency of the applicant were not questioned.

By Mr. Roche—The refusal to allow the applicant to stand for the examination cut him out of nine and a half years' further service and a pension.

The Chairman said that the document handed in was more or less of a confidential nature.

A VERBAL PROMISE.

Major John S. MacLachlan, Department of Local Government and Public Health, was the next applicant. He stated that when he had been appointed a verbal promise was given by Sir Henry Robinson that he would get Mr. Price's position when he retired. At the time of the burning of the Customs House in 1921 the witness was actually working with Mr. Price as an understudy, and was carrying out engineering work. He had drawn plans in connection with engineering work at Skibbereen, Schull, and other places. If there had been no transfer he would have been a Permanent Inspector and Consulting Engineer. He was connected with the Sailors' and Soldiers' Land Trust from 1922-1926, but also did engineering work.

Mr. Kelly said that if applicant had been discharged by the British Government a claim for compensation lay rather against that Government than the Free State Government.

The applicant was unable to produce evidence to show that he had ever been made a permanent officer, but had there been no change of Government he would have been an established officer. He thought that when he was transferred he became a permanent officer. It was his intention to leave the country.

PRISON OFFICER'S COMPLAINT.

The next claim heard was that of Thomas McBride, cook warder in the Prisons service.

The applicant complained that annual leave had not been given him in 1922, 1923 and 1924, that he suffered a loss of allowances, and, in reality, that his services conditions had been considerably worsened. Every obstacle had been placed in the way of the formation of a Prison Officers' Union to be associated with the Civil Service Federation, and he had been told by Mr. Sheehan that he could be either a prison officer or an agent for the Prison Officers' Magazine. He also complained in respect of other matters, including the fact that he had not got any promotion.

To the Chairman—If he had got promotion he would not have been here to-day.

In reply to questions, he said that he was threatened with dismissal if he did not give up the Prison Officers' Magazine. He was asked if he wished to be a prison officer or an agent for a magazine by Mr. Sheehan. He wanted to be let out with ten years' compensation if he did not get his previous conditions of employment.

Chairman—Have you an application before the Board for voluntary retirement?—No.

Mr. Sheehan, of the Prisons Board, stated that if applicant made application for leave in 1924 and 1925 he would have got it. Warders worked 96 hours a fortnight. The Governor had discretion in respect to giving warders Catholic holidays.

The Court adjourned to 11 o'clock to-day.

MAYNOOTH UNION.

ARCHBISHOP OF LIVERPOOL TO SPEAK.

This year's meeting of the Maynooth Union will be held in St. Patrick's College, Maynooth, on Tuesday, the 24th inst., immediately after the College distribution of prizes in the McMahon Hall by His Eminence Cardinal MacRory.

The first item on the programme is a paper in Irish by the Rev. M. Langford, M.A.

The feature of the afternoon session will be a paper by His Grace the Most Rev. Dr. Downey, Archbishop of Liverpool, on "The New Psychology in its Scientific and Ethical Bearings."

A series of class reunions will follow, and after dinner there will be conferring of degrees, Te Deum of Thanksgiving and Solemn Benediction.

SECRETARYSHIP OF A LEITRIM BOARD.

ECHO OF SEALED ORDER.

At a meeting of the Leitrim County Board of Health, at Carrick-on-Shannon, Mr. P. Reynolds, T.D., Chairman, presiding, the question of appointing Mr. W. Doyle as Secretary, on the recommendation of the Appointments Commission, to replace Mr. E. Walsh, Manorhamilton, removed from office by a sealed order of the Department, subsequent to a decision of Judge Sheehy, came up again for decision.

Mr. J. A. Pettit, solicitor, said an equity motion had been served for the next Circuit Court by Mr. P. J. Flynn, solicitor, on behalf of Mr. Walsh, claiming £208 6s. 3d. as salary due since 8th August, 1929, when the sealed order was issued by the Department, following the judge's decree, under which he then held Mr. Walsh was the Secretary of the Board. Mr. Pettit added that counsel had advised defending the case, and he thought that, as the Department's sealed order was being indirectly challenged, they should be asked to defend the position.

Mr. Pettit was instructed to defend the proceedings, and to have the whole case gone into if possible.

Mr. Pettit said that, arising out of the payment of £750 which had to be made Mr. Walsh on Judge Sheehy's decree, and the proposal of the Board to proceed against the Minister and Local Government Department and the Commissioner for recovery of same (owing, as alleged, to their bungling in the matter), counsel had advised that no action lay against the high officials. They were protected by the Public Bodies Protection Act.

On the motion of Mr. McGrath, seconded by Mr. P. Hedin, Mr. Doyle was appointed Secretary of the Board.

CHILD'S SUDDEN DEATH.

A verdict of death from natural causes was recorded at an inquest held by Dr. L. A. Byrne, City Coroner, at the Adelaide Hospital, Dublin, yesterday, on Michael O'Brien (7), of 35 Golden lane, who died suddenly on Sunday.

His mother stated that the boy had been involved in a motor accident two years ago.

EUROPE'S CENTRAL REPUBLIC.

STORY OF THE PROGRESS OF CZECHO-SLOVAKIA.

CONSUL'S ADDRESS TO ROTARY CLUB.

At the meeting of the Dublin Rotary Club in Clery's Restaurant yesterday, the speaker was Major Pavel Ruzicka, Consul for Czecho-Slovakia to the Irish Free State. Major Ruzicka is a member of the club, and speaks English fluently.

In an interesting sketch of his country, he said that Czecho-Slovakia, formerly known as Bohemia, is situated in the very heart of Europe. Side by side with a well-developed intensive agriculture, turning every little spot of land into a bed of blooms, stood a not less powerful and highly specialised industry exporting a large surplus of its output to foreign markets. Owing to its central position in Europe, all cultural influences and currents crossed there, as was shown in the architecture of its public buildings. Throughout the thousand years of existence of the Czecho Slovakia nation, St. Wenceslas had been the symbol of her strength, and the protector and patron of her people. As the father of his country, and a saint, the name of St. Wenceslas recalled even to the children of to-day the faith and religion of their forefathers. He surrounded himself by enlightened priests, and with their aid he propagated the knowledge of the Holy Scriptures, rooted out pagan superstitions, introduced Christian customs, and made a civilised land of Bohemia.

MAJOR RUZICKA.

In the fourteenth century, when her kings were even more powerful than the Emperors of the Holy Roman Empire, and when Charles IV. was crowned with the highest symbol of power known at that time—the Holy Roman Crown—he devoted himself to the development of culture, and so six hundred years ago he gave Prague a university, the very first to be established in Central Europe.

UNDER VIENNA.

Having touched briefly on the later history of the country, Major Ruzicka told how at the beginning of the nineteenth century the Hapsburg rulers transferred the privileges of the capital of Prague to their cherished Vienna, and exchanged the title of Bohemian King for an imaginary title of Austrian Emperor.

Happily, the Czech rural population did not become estranged to their mother tongue, he said. A handful of her sons, even though in German schools, were conscious of their origin, and burned with the desire to remind the nation of her past. The nation, from whose cultural evolution the whole of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries had been blotted out, rose again. The astonished and enraged Viennese Government was confronted with a flourishing nation which gradually enforced the return of the schools and the ancient university. Hand in hand with the cultural revival came the economic development. Foremost among the lands of Austria-Hungary was Bohemia, where rich industry sprang up, and whose products, labelled as Austrian, long before the war made their way into the world.

There had never been anything more just and natural in the history of nations than the return of independence to the Czecho-Slovak lands. Every Czech patriot saw in the Great War a decisive opportunity to break away from the alien yoke, and just as a hundred years ago, the nation did not lack cultural leaders, so during the Great War men of unusual courage and ability came forward to take up the political leadership. The unanimous and spontaneously acknowledged head of the movement was T. G. Masaryk, Professor of the Prague University, who is now President of the Republic for life.

NOT THE HOME OF GYPSIES.

There is nothing exotic about the country except her name, said the Major. It is a curious coincidence that in foreign languages the word "Bohemian" is synonymous with a gypsy or light-hearted and reckless way of living. In fact under the name of Bohemians, they were frequently looked upon as the disaffected gypsy population of Austria. As a matter of fact, the gypsies never were at home in Bohemia, moreover, they visited Bohemia only on rare occasions.

There are fourteen million citizens living within the boundaries of Czecho-Slovakia, proceeded Major Ruzicka. The comparatively short past of the Republic had witnessed a great deal of good-will in the cause of peace and intensive industry. There is a minority of three million Germans who have been won over for economic and State collaboration, and friendly relations have also been established with all the neighbouring States.

A PROGRESSIVE COUNTRY.

Mr. R. J. Kelly, K.C., who said he had had some acquaintance with the country, said that it was a particular pleasure to him to have listened to the address of his gallant and distinguished friend. There was not, he said, a more progressive country in Europe to-day than Czecho-Slovakia, which, when he knew it first, was called Bohemia. Bohemia owed some things to Ireland, and one of these was the potato which had been introduced to that country by a Franciscan priest from Dublin, and the cultivation of which had become one of the country's principal agricultural industries. In the fine Museum of Prague he was delighted to find one of its oldest printed books, the author of which was William Kelly, of Aughrim, County Galway. The very name he bore was sufficient to obtain for him (the speaker) a welcome in Prague, one of whose streets was named after an Irishman.

The President (Mr. F. M. Summerfield) said that the story told by Major Ruzicka afforded the members of the club much information and pleasure.

Among the visitors were several rotarians from different towns in England, and one from the Island of Jersey; also the Rev. Mr. Robinson, President of the Methodist Church in Ireland.

ROYAL HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The monthly meeting of the Council of the Royal Horticultural Society of Ireland was held at the offices, 5 Molesworth street, Dublin, on the 13th inst., the Right Hon. the Earl of Meath presiding. Correspondence dealing with the holding of a winter fruit show in October was read, but after serious consideration, with the probability of facing considerable loss failing financial aid, it was reluctantly decided not to hold it.

Instructions were given for procuring the large silver centenary medals, three of which will be sent, as previously advised, to each affiliated society for award at their own shows. Eight new members were elected, and a vote of thanks accorded to the Misses Bird for interesting hardy flowers from their gardens of Churchtown House, Dundrum, contributed to the meeting.

FREE STATE JUMPING TEAM FOR OLYMPIA.

In connection with the Horse Show which opens at Olympia, London, on Thursday, the following officers of the Free State Defence Force will compete in the horse-jumping competitions:—Captain O'Dwyer (in charge of the team), Captain Harty, Captain Corry and Captain Finlay. They left for London last night.

The ten horses which have been entered for competition were sent off by the mid-day boat to Holyhead.

DRUMCONDRA HOSPITAL.

The monthly meeting of the Committee of Drumcondra Hospital was held on 12th June, when the following members attended:—Rev. Canon Fergus W. Greer, M.A.; Dr. E. M. Fannin, Dr. W. F. Delany and W. J. Arnold, Esq. Apologies for unavoidable absence were received from Mrs. B. F. Eustace, Miss M. Poë and J. E. Robinson, Esq. The sympathy of the Committee was extended to Miss L. M. Montgomery on the death of her sister, and to Mr. J. E. Robinson on the death of his father. The following subscriptions were gratefully acknowledged:—A. F. Blood, Esq., K.C., £1; Messrs. Maguire and Gatchell's Employés' Hospital Fund, £2 2/-; Messrs. Edward Lee and Co., Ltd., £2 2/-; Messrs. W. and R. Jacob and Co., Ltd., £3.

'FERROCRETE'
FOR RAPID CONSTRUCTION OF FACTORIES

TIME SAVED IN BUILDING
EARLIER OCCUPATION—EXTRA PRODUCTION

Shut down a factory for a month and the annual productive possibilities are reduced by a twelfth and possible annual profits lost or seriously reduced. Take four months instead of three to build a factory and a month's earning capacity is lost. The sooner the factory is completed the sooner it begins to provide income; the sooner it is earning money instead of costing money.

Every manufacturer can procure the hastening of the construction of a factory by seeing that "Ferrocrete" the rapid hardening Portland Cement is specified for all the concrete work involved. In 3 to 4 days concrete made with "Ferrocrete" attains the same strength as concrete made with ordinary Portland Cement in 28 days.

Every architect and building contractor is familiar with "Ferrocrete" which has been used not only for petrol stations, housing schemes and private roads, but on some of the greatest construction schemes of this century, notably St. Paul's, Tilbury Docks, the G.P.O. and the roadway reconstruction of Piccadilly, Cornhill, Charing Cross Road, Strand, Broadway, New York, etc.

It only needs a word from you to speed up the building of your new factory, and that word is:—

THE "BLUE-STOCKINGS."

DR. JOHNSON'S CIRCLE.

LITERARY LADIES.

CONTEMPORARY with Dr. Johnson were several literary ladies of note to whose facile pens we are much indebted for information respecting the great lexicographer. During his literary dictatorship "blue-stocking" societies may be said to have taken their rise and attained their greatest celebrity. The term "blue-stocking" is supposed to be derived from the cerulean hue of the hose worn by the learned ladies at their meetings. Dr. Johnson was more or less interested in those literary coteries; he frequently attended their social gatherings, and had many a literary encounter with the fair members. The most prominent of the blue-stockings was Mrs. Elizabeth Montagu, who enjoyed the title of Queen of the Blues. At their meetings gossip and cards were banished, and edifying conversation on literary topics was the chief diversion, varied at times with a recitation from Garrick or some leading French actor. Though Mrs. Montagu was not so famous a writer as Elizabeth Carter, Fanny Burney and other blue-stockings, she gathered a distinguished company around her, and her parties were celebrated for their elegance and magnificence. Her wealth and social position gave her an undisputed sway, and she outshone others in conversation, though Mrs. Thrale considered herself a rival in this respect. Johnson, like other members of "The Club," was a frequent visitor at her meetings; but his relations with her were never so intimate as with Mrs. Thrale and Miss Burney. Mrs. Montagu's chief title to literary fame was "An Essay on the Writings and Genius of Shakespeare," written in defence of the national bard against the misrepresentations of Voltaire. This work was highly praised at the time, and passed through successive editions. Mrs. Montagu inherited the great wealth and extensive estates of her husband, Charles Montagu, and was noted for her entertainment of the London chimney-sweeps every May Day.

A FAIR HELLENIST.

Some of the other blue-stockings aspired to rival Mrs. Montagu as hostesses, among whom were Mrs. Boscawen and Mrs. Vesey. The literary parties of the latter included foreigners of distinction, and were considered very select, though Horace Walpole called them "Babels." A close personal friend of Mrs. Montagu and a lady of much more solid learning was Miss Elizabeth Carter, famous as a Greek scholar and the translator of Epictetus. Miss Carter was also noted as a poet in her day, and collections of her poems, like her translation of the Greek philosopher, passed through several editions. Dr. Johnson bore witness to Miss Carter's learning, and addressed an epigram in Greek to her, which appeared in the "Gentleman's Magazine" for April, 1738. Her friendship with him lasted for fifty years. She lived to 1806, reaching the advanced age of 88 years, and with pardonable pride used to relate how Johnson had once stated, speaking of a celebrated scholar, that he knew Greek better than anyone he had met, except Miss Carter.

Another blue-stocking acquaintance of Samuel Johnson was Mrs. Hester Chapone. She was born in Northamptonshire, and in her childhood was given the pet name of "The Linnet." It was not, however, as a poet, but as an essayist that Mrs. Chapone distinguished herself. She wrote for the Rambler, but her most important work was published under the title of "Letters on the Improvement of the Mind," which enjoyed much vogue and brought the authoress under the notice of King George III. and his Consort, Queen Charlotte, the King expressing the hope to her that the Princess Royal had profited by the perusal of her book. Mrs. Chapone was a great admirer of Richardson, the novelist, and corresponded with him in letters as long as his own. She can scarcely be described as a warm admirer of Johnson, for she thought his "Rasselas," on its first appearance, an "ill-contrived, unfinished, unnatural, and uninstructive tale."

TWO FAMOUS WOMEN.

With none of the blue-stockings was Dr. Johnson more intimately associated, and none of them gave him more pleasure and finally caused him more vexation and grief, than Mrs. Thrale, the wife of the great brewer. Johnson made her acquaintance in 1764, and afterwards spent much of his time at Streatham, where she presided over the hospitalities of her husband, which are well described by Boswell and others. As a writer, she is chiefly remembered for her connection with the doctor, and her "Anecdotes of S. Johnson," written after her marriage to Piozzi, which caused the breach of her friendship with Johnson, were bought so eagerly that George III. could not obtain a copy on the evening of the day of publication. Mrs. Piozzi also published Dr. Johnson's correspondence with her during the last twenty years of his life.

A blue-stocking who regarded Johnson with warmest feelings was Miss Hannah More, whose flattery the Doctor found too strong for him, and even remarked that she should "consider what her flattery was worth before she choked him with it." Miss More was a great favourite in the Johnsonian circle, and Garrick, the actor, nicknamed her "Nine," as an embodiment of all muses. Johnson, too, showed his high appreciation of her, and in his characteristic style pronounced her to be the "most powerful versificatrix in the English language." She wrote a poem, for which Cadell, a bookseller and patron of rising talent, paid her as much as Goldsmith received for "The Deserted Village," and a drama of hers, "Percy," had a popular run under Garrick's management. Later, Miss More eschewed the theatre and devoted herself to religious writing and philantropy. She is, perhaps, now best remembered as the friend of the youthful Macaulay.

FANNY BURNEY.

An even greater favourite of Dr. Johnson was Miss Frances Burney, the Madame D'Arblay who is the subject of one of Lord Macaulay's essays. Miss Burney is the most celebrated of all the blue-stockings, and famous as the author of "Evelina" and "Cecilia," popular novels in their day, and still read. After Boswell, no writer has recorded the sayings and doings of the great lexicographer more admirably, or given such a picturesque description of the society of that period. Her celebrated "Diary" is an invaluable record of the distinguished men and women of her time. She lived many years in Paris with her husband, General D'Arblay, and was in Brussels during the battle of Waterloo, which she survived nearly twenty-five years. In her old age she was visited by Sir Walter Scott, then past his prime, and delighted him with the early history of "Evelina," published fifty years before.

OBERAMMERGAU.

The article on Oberammergau, which appeared in our issue of Saturday, June 14, was written by Mr. F. C. J. Swanton, F.R.C.O.

A first edition copy of Goldsmith's "The Deserted Village" was sold yesterday at Messrs. Sotheby's to Mr. Gabriel Wells, of New York, for £450. It was printed in Catherine street, Strand, London, in 1770. A year ago a copy was sold for £1,200 in New York.

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY.

An Artificial Rainbow : Express Shaving : Dublin Jewry : Busy Beekeepers.
Treasure Trove : Cricket in Tonga : Trinity's New Fellows, Yachting Tacks.

The Colour Question.

A story is going the rounds about a well-known Dublin professional man, who often goes to play golf after his day's work is done. At the club-house he keeps a change of clothes. The weather being somewhat cold the other day, he pulled a pair of grey socks on over the black silk socks which form part of his professional make-up. After his eighteen holes, he hastily changed his clothes once more and boarded a tram. As he approached the city, he was replaying his game mentally, when he chanced to glance down at his feet. A grey sock confronted his gaze. "Confound it," he thought, "I forgot to change my socks." Casually he glanced down at his other foot. It was clothed in a black silk sock.

New Fellows.

Everybody was surprised yesterday when the Provost of Trinity College announced that two Mathematical Fellows had been elected. This is the first occasion on which such an election has taken place, and the addition of three new Fellows to the College roll is unprecedented. Many old College men will be delighted to learn that Mr. T. S. Broderick has got Fellowship. Mr. Broderick, like Professor Charles Rowe, is a Cork man, and studied for some time at the National University before entering College. He is a brilliant mathematician, whose published work has caused much favourable comment in learned circles. He has been a lecturer in Trinity for some years, and is highly popular with all who know him. Messrs. Duncan and McConnell belong to a later generation than mine; but both are very well known in College. They both were educated at Ballymena Academy. Mr. Duncan started off as a Classical man, and then switched over to Economics. Mr. McConnell is one of the finest mathematicians that Trinity has produced for many a day. He is a Doctor of Mathematics of the University of Rome, and, although he is only 27 years of age, is a Doctor of Science of Trinity.

MR. T. BRODERICK.

Busy Beekeepers.

The recent spell of hot weather has caused considerable commotion in the majority of beehives. At least this has been the experience of several friends who are keen apiarists. They have had to pay frequent visits to the hives in order to prevent the swarms from flying away. One man had a swarm a few days ago, and I noticed that he created a great clamour in the orchard by beating buckets and walloping tin cans. This din has, I believe, the effect of bewildering the bees. In any case they evidently decided that they had enough of community adventure, and they anchored on an adjacent apple tree. They were easily captured and placed in a new hive, where they started honey-making again. This man has already obtained forty pounds of delicious spring honey from his beehives. It is apple-blossom honey, and its flavour is wonderful. The upkeep of the bees is negligible, and they take up very little room in his orchard.

Tacks Take Time.

One thing that often puzzles the landlubber is the zig-zag course taken by a racing yacht. "Why not go straight for the winning post instead of dodging about all over the place?" he asks. If a yachtsman could sail straight into the wind, he would, but, as he has to rely on the wind to propel his craft, he must approach his objective in a series of zig-zags. Tacking, as it is called, is the most difficult part of the sailing of a yacht, and it is here that the experienced yachtsman shines. He plays the wind against the sea, at it were. The wind, bearing on the sails, presses the yacht's side against the water, and, by skilful manipulation of the rudder, the yacht is squeezed in a direction at an angle to the wind. The skill of the helmsman is the determining factor in the winning of a race. He must feel the effect of the wind on his craft, and give directions to his crew to adjust the sails so that all possible energy is derived from the force of the breeze. No matter how good a yacht may be, if it is mis-handled, it will never, of its own accord, win a race. Those people who watch a yacht race from the shore will get far more enjoyment from the spectacle if they observe the different styles of management of the competing craft. To speculate on the probable effect of a manœuvre is to add a hundred per cent. to the pleasure of watching a race.

Cricket in Tonga.

Great as has been the interest shown in the first Test match, it is doubtful if the folk of either Great Britain or Australia devote themselves to the great game with quite so much ardour as the people of Tonga. King George II. of Tonga, having learned to play and love cricket at school in New Zealand, introduced the game to his subjects, who took it up with such fervour that he had presently cause to regret his well-meant action. He soon found it necessary, indeed, to pass an Act forbidding play on more than one fixed day per week. But for the restriction a famine must have ensued, for the whole population had taken to playing cricket every day, and all day, to the neglect of the plantations.

An Artificial Rainbow.

An outbreak of fire which started in the rear of a house in South Anne street between 6 and 7 o'clock on Friday evening was the occasion of a scene of a very different kind. The fire was quickly subdued, but a hydrant burst or got out of the control of the fire brigade, who had been summoned to the scene, with the result that the water shot to a great height, and, as the sun at the time was shining brilliantly in the west at an altitude of about 40 degrees, and directly facing the water-jet, a beautiful rainbow was formed across the street. It proved a great attraction to the crowd assembled, though, when the water first suddenly burst forth, there was a general stampede, and the street around it was quickly deluged with the falling spray. All the prismatic hues of the spectrum were vividly shown, but I think the blur predominated. One end of the arch was brightly outlined on the footpath near the hydrant, and, by crossing to the opposite side of the street, the other end appeared equally vivid. I forgot to look if there was a secondary bow, usually seen under natural conditions, but the varying pressure on the water caused the picture to be unsteady, and prevented one noticing any supernumerary effects.

A Woman Educationalist.

The announcement that Miss Matier, the distinguished principal of Victoria College, Belfast, will relinquish that position at the end of the present college term will be regretted by many former students of Victoria College scattered all over the world. Miss Matier in 1911 succeeded the late Mrs. Byers, the founder of Victoria College, and one of the pioneers of women's higher education in Ireland, having previously acted as principal assistant to Mrs. Byers for a number of years. Miss Matier has been a conspicuous figure among women educationalists, and, under her skilful and enterprising management, Victoria College has attained a distinguished place among education establishments. In 1925 it became necessary to seek further accommodation, and Drumglass House was acquired, and in 1928 another branch was opened at Stratehrin, Belmont, to meet the need for a girls' secondary school in this growing suburb of Belfast.

While Miss Matier is to retire from the principalship of Victoria College, she will continue for the present to supervise Drumglass and Straterin, and will also act as one of the Governors of Victoria College. Mrs. Faris, M.A., a former pupil of the College, will be the new principal.

Dublin Jewry.

On a busy Saturday afternoon I found myself in a peculiar Dublin street. The majority of shops were closed—the butchers, the grocers, the bakers—most unusual in a working-class district. I looked round in surprise. An old lady that might have stepped out of an Eastern picture passed by aloofly. A coal black smooth wig covered her head. Another woman, younger, dressed very fashionably, afforded a contrast to her companion, an old man, evidently a clergyman, dressed in a long, black silken garment and a quaint beaver hat. They passed on out of sight. Another Patriarchal man, with a queer, black pill-box hat, stood in a doorway and glanced at me benignly. In a little oasis of silence I thought, "What manner of street is this?" Then it dawned upon me; I was in the Jewish quarter of Clanbrassil street on the Sabbath Day. . . . I certainly caught a glimpse of an ancient age that has survived in the midst of our modernity.

Irish Officer's Appointment.

Colonel Geoffrey Francis H. Brooke, who has been appointed Commander of the Cavalry Brigade in Egypt, has very close Irish associations. He is the son of the late Mr. John Monk Brooke, of Castleknock, County Dublin, and is now in his forty-sixth year.

He has had a distinguished career in the Army, and has recently held the colonelcy of the 16/5th Lancers. He served throughout the European War, and received many distinctions, including the Military Cross, Distinguished Service Order and the Croix de Guerre.

An excellent judge of a horse, Colonel Brooke is the author of several books on equine matters, among them being "Horse Sense," "Horse Lovers," and "The Way of a Man with a Horse," the last-named being published only a few months ago.

Colonel Brooke, who has a house at Tidworth, Hampshire, married in 1926 Miss Gibson Craig, daughter of the late Mr. Henry Gibson Craig and sister of Sir Eardley Gibson Craig.

Household Superstitions.

There is quite a number of unlucky and lucky things that one can do in the house, without going outside to walk under a ladder or to kiss one's hand to a sweep. The dire effects of spilling salt or of breaking a mirror are well known; there is also that fatalistic belief that if one piece of china is broken two more are sure to go. A less familiar superstition concerns egg shells; and some people use the antidote to this danger without having the slightest idea why they do so.

Since the days of witchcraft, it has been thought to be highly dangerous to leave an eggshell unbroken on the breakfast table, save for the bit that has been removed so that one might get at the contents. It was believed firmly that a witch could use such a shell as a glider or aeroplane, and so could get about her nefarious work much more easily.

Watch for yourself and see how many people put their egg-spoons through the empty shell before they abandon it.

Express Shaving.

Chatting to a commercial traveller in the train a few days ago, I was told that railway travelling was more comfortable now in every respect than it was when he first went on the road. Third-class carriages are more luxurious nowadays than first class carriages were twenty or thirty years ago. During the cold weather the carriages are steam heated, and there is really no necessity to carry travelling rugs. Furthermore, the early morning trains have restaurant cars attached, and, while his breakfast is being prepared, the busy commercial who likes to make the most of his time when travelling manages to shave with the help of the ubiquitous safety razor. He calculates that by shaving and breakfasting in the train, he can store up extra energy by spending an extra half-hour in bed in the mornings.

The "Midday Meal."

An interesting ceremony will take place to-day at the Gresham Hotel, when Mr. John F. Sides, B.E., Chief Engineer, Great Southern Railways, will be the recipient on his retirement of a presentation by his colleagues. The presentation will take the form of a painting, the "Midday Meal," an interior by Mr. Leo Whelan, R.H.A., one of this year's exhibits at the Academy. Mr. Whelan also excels in interiors, and this particular work is in his most characteristic style. While it has his own original touch, it is, nevertheless, somewhat reminiscent of the best Dutch style. Mr. Whelan contributed some very beautiful studies to the Exhibition of Irish Art which was held in Brussels a few weeks ago, and was so favourably criticised in all the Continental papers.

MR. LEO WHELAN.

The Traffic Block.

The other day as I was crossing O'Connell Bridge I noticed that all the outgoing trams appeared to be held up. The conductors and drivers had got down and were making their way towards the front, where a small crowd was already beginning to gather. At first there was nothing to be seen, save a multitude of white feathers, on the ground and in the air, but on the far side of the tram a lively scene presented itself. A struggling mob seemed to have taken leave of its senses, swaying this way and that. At last a man broke from the midst of it, tottering and staggering under the weight of a huge white bird which he was holding firmly by the neck with one hand, the other hand clutching its feet. It was a swan which had found itself in difficulties with the traffic and must have got in the path of a tram, although it did not appear to be very much hurt.

Then, as a couple of Press photographers appeared, things showed signs of becoming hectic until a Civic Guard used his influence to quell any further disturbance.

Casuals.

Among the acquaintances I have met recently, there is a dog-lover who has no dog. "I couldn't give him enough exercise," she said, for she lives in the city. "I have five dogs for dinner every day," she told me then, "and it may be six to-morrow, one never knows." The first to come, she said, was a fox terrier, and he arrived at the front door one day and made it quite clear that he could do with a square meal. He got his dinner and went away, only to return next day at exactly the same hour, when, again, he was fed. For a week he came regularly, then she saw him come through the gate looking back encouragingly, and evidently urging some reluctant pal to follow him. That day there were two dogs for dinner; a very hungry collie and the trustful first-comer. Since then the number of casuals has grown to five; all of whom are fed inadequately elsewhere; though not starved, they are ravenously hungry and very badly nourished. The benefactress now gets in a regular supply of liver and scraps for her guests, and they appear at the same time every day.

Treasure Trove.

Some interesting inventions by a firm of submarine engineers are undergoing tests at present, and, should these prove successful, we may yet see some of that treasure which lies at the bottom of the sea, and has formed the basis of many an exciting tale of Spanish gold, brought at last to the surface. Hitherto the tremendous pressure existing at great depths made salvage work extremely difficult. The diver, if brought to the surface too quickly, was liable to get caisson disease, in which the gas dissolved in the blood turns the latter into a froth which bursts the veins, and may prove fatal, so that a descent might take only a few minutes to make whereas the return journey would occupy several hours, the diver resting every few minutes on different rungs of a ladder. The new invention consists of a steel chamber in which the air pressure may be adjusted to the necessary figure. With a man inside, it is lowered to where the diver is at work; he enters by a manhole, unscrewed from inside, and is drawn immediately to the surface, where the pressure is gradually released to normal. Meanwhile he can remove his helmet and partake of refreshment, and is thus fitted for work again, instead of, as formerly, being completely exhausted for several days.

THE MAY FLY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Apropos your correspondent's extremely informative article in your issue of last Saturday, it may interest your readers to learn that during the past three years a few May-flies brought from Loughs Mask and Sheelin were liberated on certain enclosed waters in County Dublin by the Rev. Canon A. A. Luce, F.,T.C.D. and the present writer, with the result that a successful fulfilment of the short-lived destiny of some (at least) seems to have taken place, since during last week numbers of hatching-out insects have been observed on the waters in question, as well as a good many "spent gnats" in the evenings; nor has the attractive phenomenon of the "nuptial dance," with all its promise for future years, been absent.

The hatching-out process is peculiarly arresting. On a vacant patch of water the perfect insect—and, indeed, it is a most beautiful creation—appears with extreme suddenness. You do not see it arrive, but one instant there is nothing to be seen, and then, lo! the insect is there, and after a second or two rises in the air with a motion entirely its own—at least, I am aware of no other insect with quite the same peculiar fluttering movement.

Sometimes, from the slight elevation of a boat or by standing on a bank, the "shuck" from which the emergence has taken place can be seen and the actual performance observed, but most usually the May-fly suddenly is, where before it was not, to be seen.

That close and accurate natural history observer (as well as great poet), Lord Tennyson, described the similar metamorphosis of another and better-known insect in unforgettable terms:—

> To-day I saw the dragon-fly
> Come from the wells where he did lie,
> An inner impulse rent the veil
> Of his old husk; from head to tail
> Came out clear plates of sapphire mail.
> He dried his wings; like gauze they grew;
> Thro' crofts and pastures wet with dew
> A living flash of light he flew.

Elsewhere the poet refers to the May-fly as being torn by the swallow. One wonders what he would have written regarding the black-headed gull and its depredations.—Yours, etc.,

WILLIAM BINDON SCOTT.

DEATH OF THE EARL OF SEFTON.

A NOTED SPORTSMAN.

Osbert Cecil Molyneux, sixth Earl of Sefton, died in London yesterday aged fifty-nine years. An all-round sportsman, he was greatly interested in coursing and horse-racing, and in his younger days had taken part in big game hunting. He was a member of both the Jockey Club and the National Hunt Committee. The second son of the fourth Earl, he served for a time as Lieutenant in the Second Life Guards, and he succeeded his brother in the title in 1901. From 1905 to 1907 he was Master of the Horse. In 1898 he married Lady Helena Mary Bridgeman, daughter of the fourth Earl of Bradford, by whom he had one son, Viscount Molyneux, who now succeeds to the title.

The number of Lord Sefton's horses in training was always small and he never was fortunate enough to own a really good one. He owned much of the land at Aintree over which the Grand National is run. A Steward of the meeting, he was always to be seen on his own private stand when the Grand National was being run. When he won the valuable Atlantic Stakes with Lake Van in 1919 he was particularly delighted. It appeared probable some two years ago that the Aintree Racecourse would be lost to racing, as it had been scheduled as an industrial area under a local town-planning scheme. After discussions between Lord Sefton and the Rural District Council, however, a new fifty years' lease of the course was granted to Messrs. Tophams, Ltd., the managers of the Liverpool meeting. When that period has expired the site is to be preserved for ever as an open space, with the provision that it may still be used for sports' purposes.

Perhaps the best horse on the flat that Lord Sefton owned was Marshal Neil, who won the Somerville Stakes at Newmarket. Other horses which did fairly well in his colours were Parana, who won the Leicestershire Oaks in 1925; Shoemaker, Cobbler's Wax, and Shoestring. Longthorpe was the best animal that he owned under National Hunt Rules, and several good races were placed to his credit by this hurdler.

INTEREST IN COURSING.

Probably he was more keenly interested in coursing than in any other sport. He was unlucky in his many efforts to win the Waterloo Cup, for he never won it with a dog of his own nomination. One of his greyhounds did win it, named Shortcoming, in 1921, but the dog was nominated by the Countess of Sefton, the Earl preferring to run another of his dogs in his own nomination.

As President of the National Coursing Club, which office he had held since 1898, he made known his opposition to the sport of greyhound racing when it began to gain prominence in England. The principal ground of his disapproval was that coursing encouraged the breeding of greyhounds for pace and stamina, and he expressed his dread at what might happen to the strain if the dogs in future were bred from track winners. When a governing body for the new sport was established, however, the Earl's opinion became modified, and now there is reciprocity between the National Coursing Club and the National Greyhound Racing Club.

The new Earl is keenly interested in coursing, and has been a member of the National Coursing Club since 1920.

While bathing in Lough Derg, KILLALOE, on Sunday evening, Michael McMahon, aged 22, was drowned. Some people walking along the shore found his clothing and also a bicycle. The body was recovered later.

IN THE NORTHERN CAPITAL.

Difficult Times : Labour Minister's Hopefulness : Free State's Lead in Bird Protection : The North's Lead in Poultry Farming : Belfast's Traffic Problem.

BELFAST, Monday.

A FEW months ago Mr. Andrews, the Northern Ireland Minister of Labour, said that when he felt depressed he climbed a little hill near his home at Comber, and when he saw the great city of Belfast in the distance, and looked around at Ulster's fertile fields he felt inspired to predict a great future for the province—it could not decay. Mr. Andrews has now extended his vision in search of the prosperity which is so elusive at home, notwithstanding relief works, shopping weeks, and various forms of propaganda.

Speaking at Portadown during the week-end, he said that he looked upon Great Britain as Ulster's big brother, and it was hand in hand with that big brother that they hoped to go on to happier, brighter, and more prosperous times. Unfortunately, the big brother, with a Labour Government guiding its destinies at present, was not too favourably disposed towards the North of Ireland, with its costly administration and constant drain upon the Imperial Exchequer; but, no doubt, another swing of the political pendulum would bring comfort to harassed Unionist leaders.

Mr. Andrews advocates tariff reform and the imposing of import duties to protect home industries, but the Northern Government is helpless in fiscal affairs, being subject in such matters to the dictates of Westminster. The Minister admits the seriousness of the position, and says that the people of Northern Ireland have got to realise that they are up against difficult times, and that their industries must be run on competitive lines, as they no longer enjoy a monopoly of certain manufactures. Optimistically, he declares, however, that Ulster was never beaten in the past, and will win through in the future. May it be so.

LAGGING BEHIND FREE STATE.

This is the time of the singing of birds, and their melody adds much to the sum of human happiness. Many of the most beautiful of our feathered songsters require to be protected as well as other birds, which, although not gifted with song, serve a useful purpose in the economy of nature. In this connection, Northern Ireland lags behind, and lovers of birds would be glad to see it take a leaf out of the book of the Free State.

At the annual meeting of the Ulster Society for the Protection of Birds, the other day, it was pointed out in the report that a comprehensive bill for the better protection of bird life in Scotland had been introduced in the Imperial House of Commons, and would probably become law at an early date, while in Southern Ireland a bill to remedy existing defects in the laws protecting birds had been passed. Thus, it was stated, they found that both Scotland and the Free State were very much ahead of England or Northern Ireland, a circumstance which was to be regretted.

It seems, moreover, that the laws of the North relative to birds are so vague and confusing that even the police find great difficulty in interpreting them, and are not sure under what Act an offence occurs, or if it comes within the meaning of any of the Acts. The Northern Minister of Home Affairs has been supplied by a representative expert committee with all the material necessary to draft a bill suitable for the conditions of Ulster, but so far nothing has been done to realise the desires of the society. The only notable contribution to the bird laws has been the barring of the entry of parrots into the province.

THE BARNYARD HARVEST.

Some unusually interesting facts emerge from the monthly report just issued by the Northern Ministry of Agriculture. A remarkable growth in the poultry population of the Six Counties is indicated since 1923, the figures being:—Turkeys, 417,141 (an increase of 100.9 per cent.); geese, 156,599 (an increase of 3.8 per cent.); ducks, 599,299 (a decrease of 15.2 per cent.), and ordinary fowl, 7,136,152 (an increase of 27 per cent.). The census of agricultural production which was taken in 1925 revealed the fact that the value of the output of eggs alone from farms in the province amounted to £2,755,000, or almost equal to the value of all crops, which totalled £2,859,000.

Since then the revenue from eggs has greatly increased, due to the greater production and to the legislation promoted by the Ministry for the prevention of the holding up of eggs until they have lost their freshness, together with the introduction of better methods of packing and marketing. From the money point of view the egg industry of the North is more important even than the more spectacular shipbuilding, and is one of our greatest sources of wealth.

In 1929 the number of poultry of all kinds in the province was 8,809,191, or 338 per hundred acres of crop or grass, and the density of the feathered tribe of the farmyard was considerably greater than in any other part of the British Isles, comparing with 182 per hundred acres of crops and grass in England and Wales, 128 in Scotland, and 183 in the Free State. These figures vindicate the policy of the Minister of Agriculture, Sir Edward Archdale, who has always advocated mixed farming and attention to products of the dairy and barn yard.

BELFAST SHORT OF BRIDGES.

The transport problem of Belfast is becoming more acute with the passing of the years, and, as there are only two bridges connecting the city across the River Lagan, it is difficult to cope with the heavy volume of traffic which is constantly passing over these structures. It has even been suggested that the Queen's Bridge has become unsafe, but this has been contradicted by the Corporation's engineers. Consideration is being given to plans to widen the bridge, as there does not seem to be any possibility of building an additional bridge which would be suitable, without encroaching on the harbour property.

The project was discussed at the annual meeting of the Belfast District Committee of the Federation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Trades on Friday, and it was stated that the Ministry of Labour had agreed to give sympathetic consideration to a grant in aid of the proposal as an unemployment scheme. It appears, however, that the initiative must be taken by the Corporation, and in the event of a suitable plan being evolved the Harbour Commissioners will give it careful consideration.

The suggested scheme to construct a tunnel under the river is too fantastic to make any serious appeal to the authorities, but it is obvious that something must be done to relieve the congestion. The widening of Queen's Bridge appears to be the most feasible idea, and should commend itself to the responsible authorities.

HUNDREDS OF VACANT HOUSES.

A curious situation exists in connection with the Belfast Corporation houses. Notwithstanding the scarcity of dwellings for the working classes, it is stated in the report of the Housing Committee for the year ended 31st March last, that during that period there had been vacancies in 736 houses, or 34 per cent. of the houses on all sites, excluding Seaview. This, it was stated, was due to competition created by the erection of subsidy houses adjacent to the sites. The large number of vacancies, it is added, was reflected in the work of the department—523 refunds having to be made in respect of part-purchase and security for rent deposits.

It is pointed out, however, as a pleasing feature of the situation, that a number of former Corporation tenants are anxious to return after the occupation of subsidy houses at slightly lower rents. The workers are agitating for a substantial decrease in the rents of the kitchen houses, which are said to be too high for the existing scale of wages, and they declare that these houses will remain vacant until their demand is granted. On the other hand, the Housing Committee has already given a reduction—in some cases of two shillings a week—and refuses to give any further concessions. There the matter rests for the present.

BALLSBRIDGE AS A MODEL.

The Royal Ulster Agricultural Society seems to have entered on a new era of prosperity. At the recent show all "records," both in exhibits and attendance, were broken—even the weather being ideal—and at a meeting of the Society on Saturday last the cheering announcement was made that the names of 144 new members had been enrolled—the largest number ever submitted at one time in the history of the organisation. This is the beginning of a great "drive" to double the membership of the Society, and there are indications that it will succeed in its object.

Balmoral has placed Ballsbridge before it as its model, and, while it is admitted that the Southern showgrounds occupy the premier position in the world of agriculture, a determined effort is being made to place Belfast as a worthy second. Suggestions are already being put forward to make next year's show more attractive than ever, particularly with regard to the jumping events during the evening sessions, with an extension of the hours from six till nine.

ULSTERMEN IN LONDON.

A company of distinguished Ulstermen will foregather together in London on the 27th inst., when Viscount Craigavon, Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, and members of his Cabinet will be entertained at a banquet by the Ulster Association. The Thiepval anniversary dinner of the officers of the Ulster Division has been fixed to be held in London on the same date, and arrangements have been made to include them among the guests at the banquet.

It is understood that General Sir Hubert Gough, G.C.M.G., and Major-General Clifford Coffin, V.C., C.B., D.S.O., will be present, and the happy synchronising of the two functions is certain to be a source of gratification to all concerned.

FASHIONABLE WEDDING IN LONDON.

LADY LETTICE LYGON AND MR. RICHARD COTTERELL.

Mounted police had to ride on the pavement to press back the crowd of women who waited outside St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, for the wedding of Lady Lettice Lygon yesterday. The women began to assemble three hours before the hour fixed for the ceremony. Soon the pavement was impassable for other walkers, and later the traffic had to swerve aside as well. Repeated warnings from the mounted police had no effect. Finally the police rode their horses on to the pavement, and pressed the crowd back on either side to leave a clear space for the guests to alight from their cars.

Lady Lettice Lygon, who is 23, is the eldest of the four daughters of Earl and Countess Beauchamp. The bridegroom, Mr. Richard C. G. Cotterell, of the Royal Horse Guards, is the only son of Colonel Sir John Cotterell, Lord Lieutenant of Herefordshire. The three bridesmaid sisters—Lady Sibell, Lady Mary, and Lady Dorothy Lygon—arrived together. They wore long cream dresses, with wreaths and half girdles of yellow, pink, and red roses.

After the fourth bridesmaid—Lady Lettice Ashley Cooper — had arrived, wearing greenish-white roses, and the crowd had seen the two little pages in green and white, there came a guard of honour of the Royal Horse Guards, the bridegroom's regiment. Crimson plumes, swinging brass twinkling, and white buckskin gleaming they marched into the church, towering over the fragile bridesmaids, who, though all are tall girls, looked mere children by contrast. The Guardsmen were led by Squadron-Corporal-Major Twidle a giant, who stood benevolently at the church door, and beamed on the bridesmaids.

When the usual stir and rush forward in the ranks of the crowd indicated the bride's arrival Squadron-Corporal-Major Twidle solemnly took a large bunch of lilies, and strode out to meet her. With a bow he handed Lady Lettice her bouquet of lilies. Then they posed side by side for their photograph.

Lady Lettice looked lovely. Her slender height, her typical English beauty, and the simplicity of the white satin, orange blossom, and real old lace, which made her dress made her look the perfect bride, just as she has been at so many big London weddings the perfect bridesmaid. With the troopers standing to attention, Lady Lettice and her bridesmaids passed up the aisle on her father's arm. It was a scene in which beauty and bravery mingled, for the lilies decorating the church contrasted perfectly with the red of the troopers' plumes.

Four Princesses and three Duchesses were among the guests. They were:—Princess Beatrice, Princess Marie Louise, Princess Helena Victoria, Lady Patricia Ramsey, the Duchess of Richmond, the Duchess of Norfolk, and the Duchess of Northumberland.

Other guests were:—Lady Harcourt, the Dutch Minister and Mme. Van Swinderen, Lady Desborough, Lady Curzon of Kedleston, Lord and Lady Alington, Mrs. Elinor Glyn, Lord and Lady Esme Gordon Lennox, and Mrs. Stanley Baldwin.

Tenants and friends of the bride and bridegroom came to London from Hereford and Walmer Castle by motor.

Before applications for certain vacancies were dealt with by SLIGO County Council on Saturday, Mr. Hugh O'Donnell, N.T., a representative for the Ballymote area, said he wished to make a public protest against the extraordinary canvassing and pressure which had been brought to bear on councillors in connection with the vacancies. A man's life, he declared, was not worth living during the past fortnight, and he sincerely hoped that before long the Appointments Commission would take the appointment of rate collectors and everything else out of their hands.

D'OYLY CARTE OPERA COMPANY.

"YEOMEN OF THE GUARD."

Another fine performance of "The Yeomen of the Guard" was given by the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company in the Gaiety Theatre last night. The theatre was filled in every part. On this occasion Sir Henry A. Lytton appeared in the part of Jack Point, and had a very hearty reception. His finished work was greatly admired, and thoroughly deserved the warm appreciation which it commanded. This was the only change in the cast. The other artistes were quite equal to their previous standard, and shared liberally in the honours of the evening. They were: Joseph Griffin (Sir Richard Cholmondeley), Charles Goulding (Colonel Fairfax), Darrell Fancourt (Sergeant Meryll), John Dean (Leonard Meryll), Sydney Granville (Wilfred Shadbolt), Herbert Aitken (First Yeoman), Richard Eaton (Second Yeoman), C. William Morgan (First Citizen), T. Penry Hughes (Second Citizen), Rita Mackay (Elsie Maynard), Marjorie Eyre (Phœbe Meryll), Bertha Lewis (Dame Carruthers), and Muriel Davies (Kate Carruthers).

THEATRE ROYAL.

A GOOD VARIETY PROGRAMME

Comedy, music, dancing, song and "television" constitute the variety programme at the Theatre Royal this week. A very laughable sketch is that in which Jimmy Jewel and his assistants act as the discordant husband and wife. Jimmy is the typical henpecked husband, while boasting to his friend Tom that he is boss in his own home. It is a most amusing farce. Randolph Sutton is given the outstanding position in the programme, and well is that selection justified, for he is a light comedian and singer whose style captivates his hearers. A young lady, named D'Alba, from Australia, sits on the stage with a bandage over her eyes and tells her assistant, Leslie Chard, what he takes out of the pockets of persons in the audience, even to the names and numbers on tram tickets, the writing on the paper, and the names of the persons to whom they belong. Her gift of "television" simply astonished the audience. The Copeland Brothers present in burlesque a singing and variety dance act; and the Peculiar Pair are good dancers and musicians. Billy and Lilian Rutt are clever comedy performers. Harry Claff is good in "Chirrups and Chatter," and Zaidee Jackson at the piano contributes some pleasing syncopated songs.

"A BROKEN HEART."

DRAMA AT THE OLYMPIA.

"A Broken Heart," presented this week at the Olympia Theatre by Will H. Glaye's Players, brings one back along the road of memories, and the journey is pleasant. The play, best remembered by another generation, has lost none of its charm, tragedy and deep sentiment. It is a play with a moral. John Barnard (Franklin W. Davies) caught the tragic note of his part as husband to Mary Barnard (Valerie Russell), who pleads her innocence, and is not believed till the inevitable happy ending. Stephen Raylton (Edward E. Vivian), the pseudo-lover, whose cunning makes the story, was well acted, and pleasing was the delightful tomfoolery of Tony Tibbets (Will. E. Glaye). Gash Gills (Templar Ellis) was true to type as the villain, remembered so well. The remaining parts were capably filled.

Play produced by Frederick W. Koenigs.

André Sallicel found that the more he came to know about women the more he desired to sell dogs. "Reeking of poverty," as he was tactlessly reminded later, he forced his acquaintance upon Simone Lagorce in the saloon bar at the Pergola St. Jean de Luz.

He was an ass of the French kind, trained for London exhibition by Mr. P. G. Wodehouse, who lost ten thousand francs at baccarat to the woman with whom he was in love. Simone Lagorce had divorced her husband, but was still infatuated, and to protect her from the possibilities of her infatuation she contracted with André that he should be her guardian "confidential secretary" until he had discharged his debt at the rate of two thousand francs a month. At the end of one month, and after a series of struggles, she was on the point of returning to Tony. The faithful André prevented her, suffering a cheek-slap, offering the other cheek, and then pretending to immolate himself by a fall from a window fifty feet above the street. Simone's swoon carries the play into a third act next morning. She had slept well—and André had slept in her drawing-room, dreaming. His dream was as fantastic and as full of colour as the pyjamas he wore in the second act. But the effect of it was that he decided to sell Pekinese dogs, and to view pretty eyes calmly. He departs leaving the stage free, in every sense, for the return of Tony.

"Her Cardboard Lover" is the very thinnest and lightest of French comedies, and it translates poorly. Not even the genius of P. G. Wodehouse could make a good play of it. At the Dun Laoghaire Civic Theatre, in the Town Hall, last night, a company of experienced Dublin players found difficulty in holding the interest of the audience. It is a play of two, or, at most, three, characters, which depends upon speed for its effects. Last night's performance was much too slow, and the intervals much too long.

The burden of the acting fell upon Miss Deirdre MacDonagh and Mr. Percy Ussher. Miss MacDonagh's Simone was inconsistent; she was best in the closing scene of the second act, but she should improve considerably during the week. André, as played by Mr. Ussher, possessed more of Jacques Duval than of P. G. Wodehouse; he was cynically French instead of humorously English. Mr. Denis O'Dea's Tony was, on the whole, the most satisfying piece of acting; but even he lacked the suavity for such a play. The small parts were capably filled.

"Her Cardboard Lover" will be repeated each evening during the week at 8.15.

A FILM OF THE WEEK.

"THE UNHOLY NIGHT" AT THE SAVOY.

Film presentations do not always live up to their titles—indeed, often the title is a misnomer—so that when one finds a production which in every sense merits the description of "The Unholy Night," one feels that the heartiest congratulations are due to the directors who in the case of the film presented this week at the Savoy Cinema is Mr. Lionel Barrymore. London is famous, amongst other things, for its fogs, especially that vile pea-soup variety which at times descends on the great capital. Those who have experienced such a fog know what it means. Anything is possible, and it is not at all outside the bounds of possibility that four persons could be strangled to death on such an unholy night of fog. That is what happened in the story on which this film is based. The murders would have been accepted as something almost inevitable where a city's population is blindfolded, and left at the mercy of the lawless, but even the long arm of chance could not be accepted as being responsible for the murder on the same night, of four men, who had been brother officers in a regiment which had served at Gallipoli.

Why these comrades in arms should have been done to death, and why the life of one other was attempted, provides a mystery which sets all London and Scotland Yard agog with excitement and curiosity.

The story is woven with fascinating interest through a thick web of mystery, and thrills in plenty are provided for the audience. It is a most baffling affair, with the finger of suspicion pointing first at one and then at another possible murderer, until the spectator is left helplessly wondering what it can all mean and what is behind the murders. There is very clever play in psychology, and it is interesting to watch how the different characters are made react to various influences. The play also deals with spiritual science in rather an unusual form; but it would be a pity to disclose more of the production, which must be seen to be appreciated. It is certainly one of the best mystery films yet seen here. An all sound production, it is splendidly cast, with such well-known players in the chief rôles as Ernest Torrance, Roland Young, Dorothy Sebastian and Natalie Moorhead. The dialogue is clever and entertaining, and, above all, free from the Hollywood twang.

Even in this hot weather it is a picture worth seeing and hearing.

THE GATE THEATRE.

This week "The Light Comedian" will be continued at the Gate Theatre. This little comedy of theatrical life introduces the work of Mr. Hermon Ould to Dublin, and its light texture is excellently suited to summery weather. In the leading rôles Miss Betty Chancellor, Miss Meriel Moore and Mr. Michael MacLiammoir give admirable performances. "The Light Comedian" will be given each evening at 8.30.

CONSTRUCTIVE THRIFT.

SAVINGS COMMITTEE FORMED AT BRAY.

It was decided at a meeting held in the Town Hall, Bray, yesterday evening, to establish a Local Savings Committee for Bray and district. The Very Rev. Canon Bowden, P.P., Bray, presided.

Mr. T. P. Gill, Chairman of the Central Savings Committee, in the course of an address, said that they had now fifty-eight Regional and Local Savings Committees, which included all the cities in the Free State, without exception; and all the counties, save four—Longford, Roscommon, Leitrim and Donegal. In the latter, however, the work of organisation was well in hand, and it was expected that committees would be established in those counties within the next few months.

Constructive thrift, added Mr. Gill, with its influence in strengthening character, evoked and trained the sense of individual and civic resposibility, and, above all, it came as a new ally, and brought new and potent forms of support to the institution of the family, which at the present time was in Ireland, as elsewhere, threatened with many perils. The movement, having regard to all those things, was destined to play a big part for the country.

The constructive thrift movement and vocational or technical education were in a natural alliance, and reacted upon each other closely at several points. They had a joint bearing upon some of the most anxious of the country's practical problems, such as relief of unemployment and industrial development. Technical schools, through lack of their accommodation, had to turn away numbers of young people seeking admission year by year. If these could get the training provided at technical schools they would be able to secure good employment in Ireland. Unemployment leaned mostly on the unskilled, and although there were some skilled workers among the unemployed, yet skilled hands had to be imported into the country by more than one factory. If the young man leaving the technical institute had no savings or small capital within his reach, his progress was held up, but if he and his family had been trained in the practice of constructive thrift, in the putting away of savings for wise spending later, on just such a purpose as this, then he or his parents had the nest-egg of small capital which enables him to seize and make the most of his opportunity. That was how the thrift movement worked with vocational education.

Mr. L. McNeive, Superintendent State Savings Officer, Central Savings Committee, said that the State-backed Savings Certificate, which was the instrument of the present day savings movement, was an invention devised by great economists and financiers to combat the stampede of extravagance which had been taking place along side the march of civilisation.

A committee, under the patronage of the Most Rev. Dr. Byrne and the Right Rev. Dr. Gregg, Archbishops of Dublin, was formed.

A prize and certificate of merit was presented by Mr. Gill to Miss E. O'Brian, of the Loreto Convent N.S., for the best essay in connection with the thrift movement in County Wicklow, and the meeting concluded with a vote of thanks to Canon Bowden.

TRINITY MONDAY.

COMMEMORATION SERVICE ADDRESS.

T.C.D. ASSOCIATION'S PROGRESS.

The Provost of Trinity College, presiding at the annual meeting of the Trinity College Association, held yesterday afternoon in the Graduates' Memorial Hall, said that the progress of the Association during the year had been very satisfactory. The numbers were still increasing, but they had not yet obtained the maximum, and every member of the Association ought to feel it his duty to call the attention of Trinity men to the Association and ask them to join it.

The second edition of the register of members, with which a vast amount of trouble had been taken by the Honorary Secretary, Dr. Kenneth Bailey, and Captain Brooke Kennedy, to whom they owed their gratitude, not only for the trouble they had taken, but for the very satisfactory results that they had achieved. He was far from saying that the register was perfect. Some alterations were necessary, and omissions required to be filled in, and the members of the Association ought to make it their business to send in the necessary corrections and omissions to the secretary. That was the only way to keep the register correct. Nevertheless, it was an enormous improvement on the first issue, and he thought that it would be found an immensely useful document. He was glad to say that new names were being registered every day.

OVERSEAS GRADUATES.

In connection with overseas graduates who returned to Ireland, he hoped that they would enter their names in the book kept for that purpose in the College, and he added that if they took the trouble to cross the square and visit his (the Provost's) house, he would be extremely glad to meet thm.

They had a good many new associations in England and various parts of the world springing up, and from one of them, the Trinity College Association of Nairobi, he had received yesterday a wire sending the club's greetings for Trinity Monday. It was signed by Oscar Daly, who never forgot to send them greetings on Trinity Monday. He had taken the liberty of sending back the College's greetings.

On the motion of Mr. Jefferson, Captain Kennedy and Mr. Dudley were appointed scrutineers for the election of the Standing Committee.

THE ANNUAL REPORT.

Dr. Kenneth Bailey submitted the annual report, which stated:—In the report which I presented to the last annual general meeting I was able to tell you that the infant Association had thriven during its first eventful year of life. Now that we are two years old, we may fairly consider that we are firmly on our feet. Our membership has increased from 1,732 to 2,601, and we are offering our members a still greater return for their life subscription of one guinea. To the tie, blazer and scarf which members of the Association are entitled to wear has been added a dinner jacket, which may be made in any black cloth, or in white drill for tropical use, ornamented with gold buttons and the Association device in gold on the pocket. The Association supplement to "T.C.D." continues to appear regularly, and the editor has succeeded in increasing its size. Your secretaries occupied themselves for the greater part of the year in the production of the second register of the Association, which was published at the end of April. We are most anxious that members should assist us in the difficult task of keeping the register up to date by sending us frequent lists of corrections, which will be acknowledged. I have the honour to lay before the meeting two addenda to the report in the form of statistics based on the register, and showing the way in which our alumni, variously situated in time and space, have responded to the invitation to join the Association. The second appendix constitutes, I believe, the first attempt at an accurate review of the geographical distribution of our alumni. The Standing Committee has given careful consideration to the possibility of holding in 1931 an Association dinner, which all members, men and women, would be eligible to attend. It is clear that such a dinner would involve much preparation, and that the work would be rendered more difficult by the fact that we have no data to help us to predict the numbers likely to be present. A special dinner committee would have to be appointed, and their task would not be a sinecure.

The Standing Committee do not wish to undertake the holding of such a dinner unless it is demonstrated that there is a real demand for it on the part of members, and would welcome any information or suggestions which would assist them in making their decision.

A GOOD YEAR'S WORK.

Mr. W. M. Crooke, proposing the adoption of the report, said that it was a most satisfactory record of the year's work, and it was gratifying that the membership of the Association in the second year of its existence numbered 2,600. They had an increase of 800 last year, and if the Association grew in that way it would be the most powerful University Association in the world. He was glad to see the way in which the Association had been supported by graduates in distant parts of the earth. The percentage was highest in China; East Africa came second, and Egypt in the Sudan third. The founding of that Association filled a long-felt want, and was proving of much value and benefit to the graduates of Trinity College.

Mr. J. L. Woods, who is on leave from Singapore, seconded the motion. He emphasised the importance of graduates keeping the register up-to-date. They had a branch Association in Malaya, and he indicated the difficulty of keeping in touch with Trinity men. Unless the graduates did it themselves it was impossible for the secretary of the Association to do so.

The report was adopted.

THE TREASURER'S REPORT.

Proposing the adoption of the treasurer's report, Mr. Wilson (East Africa) said that they had 100 members of their Association in that centre, and they found it a great benefit to them. He congratulated the parent Association on the success which it had achieved since its inauguration.

Miss Isa Colhoun seconded, and the report was adopted.

A resolution proposed by Professor J. M. Henry seeking to make eligible for membership those who took post-graduate courses, attended lectures and who passed examinations in the College was referred for consideration to the Standing Committee.

THE COMMITTEE.

The result of the election of the Standing Committee was announced as follows:—T. S. C. Dagg, Professor A. F. Dixon, M. W. Fry, S.F.,T.C.D.; J. Garvey, F. La T. Godfrey, F.,T.C.D.; A. Hassard, the Rev. E. C. Hodges, J T. Jackson, H. Jefferson, J. Johnston, F.,T.C.D.; E. C. Micks, Miss Nichols, R. A. Q. O'Meara, D. R. Pigot, Miss Purser, T. U. Sadleir, B. Solomons, the Rev. COMMEMORATION SERVICE.

ADDRESS ON THOMAS DAVIS.

At the usual Commemoration Service held in Trinity College Chapel, yesterday, in connection with Trinity Monday,

Mr. Bolton Waller, in an address on "Thomas Davis," said that of all those who graduated from Dublin University during the nineteenth century Thomas Davis made the deepest impress upon the thought and life of Ireland. Much that has happened in Ireland since 1840 was due to him, and if the future of Ireland was to be better than her past Irishmen might still harken with profit to his message.

Thomas Osborne Davis was born at Mallow in 1814, his father being of Welsh extraction. But his mother was Irish and he was brought up in Irish surroundings. Trinity College was regarded at the time as the stronghold of Toryism, but the traditions of Grattan's Parliament and the great days of Protestant Nationalism were not forgotten within its walls. Through the influence of Thomas Wallis, as well as his own reflections, Davis turned from Toryism, in which he was reared, to the Nationalism, which became the driving force of his life. He first came into the public eye when a graduate of some years standing at a meeting of the College Historical Society, then undergoing one of its terms of banishment from college.

DAVIS'S APPEAL TO THE STUDENTS.

In 1839 Davis was made President, and at the close of the session in 1840 he delivered an address in which he struck out a new line. Like most students, he was eager to reform his own University, and he then went on to speak of the needs of Ireland and the duty of his hearers to her. He appealed to them, the men of his own class, to shoulder their responsibilities of leadership. This address made a profound impression, and from that time Davis stepped into the lead among his contemporaries.

With John Blake Dillon and Charles Gavan Duffy he founded The Nation. Two of the original founders of Young Ireland and The Nation were graduates of Trinity College, as were a large proportion of their associates. These men stood in the direct tradition of Trinity Nationalism, a tradition long-lasting and continuous.

"That oft-repeated charge, that our University has stood in opposition to every Irish nationalist movement is perversely untrue to a large section of the facts," added Mr. Waller. "In the eighteenth century nearly all the great names are ours. Molyneux and Swift, Flood and Grattan, Wolfe Tone and Robert Emmet; and, though in the nineteenth century our proportion is less, we can claim men like these Young Irelanders, and later, men like Butt and Redmond.

"THE NATION."

"In The Nation, which made its first appearance in 1842, the bulk of Davis's writing was done. He had two of the greatest qualities of the historian—insight and thoroughness. His longest historical disquisition—on the Irish Parliament of 1689—was highly praised by Lecky. Some of his articles were decidedly modern in tone. He favoured the use of the water power of the Shannon and other rivers, urged Irish tourists to visit Ireland first, and also urged the maintenance of the Irish language, in his time spoken habitually, as he says, by half the people west of a line drawn from Derry to Waterford. Yet he uttered a warning which might be kept in mind to-day; that if an attempt were made to introduce Irish, either through the national schools or the Courts of Law, into the eastern side of the island, it would certainly fail, and the reaction might extinguish it altogether. He even touched upon the dangers of what would now be described as evil literature, and stressed the need for making available good literature and spreading a taste for it."

Davis might be partly appreciated through his writings, Mr. Waller continued, but they did not give the full measure of the man. He wrote for the sake of getting things done. His work on The Nation was combined with constant activity in politics, especially in the Repeal Association. In the eyes of the world he was the Irish National Movement. Davis and his associates respected and followed O'Connell, but they had a broader view of Irish nationality. They desired to win national liberty by a victory of all Irish sections combined over English domination. That appeared a more feasible project then than it did in later years. The campaign for Roman Catholic Emancipation had inevitably dug a gulf between the religious sections, but it seemed practicable to fill the gulf. Davis might well expect other men to take the road he had taken himself. After two years work, Davis could declare that the Irish Tories were becoming Nationalists, and that the Whigs were beginning to favour a federal system of self-government, and that, though not achieved, there was a real prospect of a united Irish demand. These tendencies The Nation sought to foster, but obstacles abounded, owing to misunderstandings with O'Connell in connection with the Repeal Association. After a short illness, Davis died on the 16th September, 1845.

THE LONG-SOUGHT LEADER.

If Davis had survived and held his party together, said Mr. Waller, he might have proved to be the leader for whom Ireland has been looking and has not found—even yet—the man big enough to combine her parties and sections into a real, united nation.

An Ireland consisting of three-fourths of the country, which ignores the remaining fourth as if it were in the Antipodes; a "Gaelic Ireland," in which those of other races or speech should be regarded as foreigners or interlopers; a "Catholic Ireland," in which those who did not hold the faith of the majority (including many of the most notable names in our history, among them that of Davis himself) should be ignored or tolerated—all these contentions he would have scorned and despised, as false to Ireland's history, as unworthy of Ireland's destiny, as too narrow and too mean for the Irish nation of his hopes.

The Service was conducted by the Rev. W. E. Vandeleur. The Lesson was read by the Provost.

COLLEGE "RAG."

"DEGREES" FOR EASTERN NOTABILITIES.

There was a dash and colour about the "rag" held by the students of Trinity College, Dublin, yesterday, after the names of the new Fellows and Scholars had been announced by the Provost from the steps of the Examination Hall.

Amongst other notabilities who had been called together by the students for the conferring of "degrees," one noticed "Mr. and Mrs. Gandhi," artificially coloured and very simply clad. Their followers were highly-coloured "Indians," who have not yet taken to wearing European garb; but, as the day was very warm, this lack of clothing must have been pleasant. "Gandhi" himself seemed to be well supplied with salt, but some of his supporters carried a streamer which declared, "We want more salt."

CLASSICAL DANCING.

Some muscular ballet "girls" displayed their staying power as classical dancers, the music being provided by a jazz band. The "Provost" and various "professors" also took part in the leg-shaking performances.

An amusing reminder of some revues was provided by "The Shawlies' Sextette," who, a printed programe stated, were presented by "The Rotunda Revellers."

One of the 18-pounder field guns used in the Great War, and now in the College grounds, was dragged from its resting place by some students and adorned with a card with the legend "Canoury 36." Afterwards it was pulled through some of the streets in procession.

"BIG GAME."

A young "elephant," which moved somewhat disjointedly, and another "animal" of strange appearance were apparently intended to provide "big game" for the "Prince of Wales," who, attired in full hunting outfit, was carried in a sedan chair.

The "Southern Cross," a cardboard structure on a motor cycle, was associated with "Amy Johnson," who was given a "degree."

An alleged tennis match was held to the accompaniment of shouts from a "bookie," whose resources were apparently unlimited.

It was all very amusing, and provided an unusual break in the traffic of Dawson street, St. Stephen's Green and Grafton street for the half-hour during which those who took part in the "rag" were outside the College grounds.

OBITUARY.

MISS MARY MURPHY.

The death of Miss Mary Murphy at an advanced age, which occurred yesterday at Warrenpoint, though not quite unexpected, is deeply regretted by a very wide circle of friends and acquaintances. Miss Murphy was the author of a number of publications under the name of "Slieve Foy." Among her writings were "Mrs. MacIvor's Paying Guests" and a very charming collection of short Irish stories. Her novel, "The Unnatural Mother," added greatly to her reputation as an accomplished writer. For many years preceding her death Miss Murphy had been a resident in the romantic and historic village of Carlingford.

The recent flag day collection in LIMERICK in aid of the Royal National Lifeboat Institution realised £73. The local Ladies' Guild had charge of the arrangements.

CHURCH ASSEMBLY.

TRIBUTE TO THE LATE LORD DAVIDSON.

LAMBETH CONFERENCE.

In the absence of the Archbishop of Canterbury, who is taking a month's complete rest before the Lambeth Conference, the Archbishop of York presided at the opening of the summer session of the Church Assembly at Church House, Westminster, yesterday. Dr. Temple said that he had received the following telegram from the Primate of England:—

"Please give Assembly message from me of disappointment at absence, and my remembrance and blessing."

After paying a tribute to the late Lord Davidson, Dr. Temple formally moved a resolution expressing the Assembly's sense of Lord Davidson's value, and the loss sustained by his death. It stated that by his unequalled knowledge of the Anglican Communion throughout the world, by his wisdom and wide sympathy, and by his complete devotion to Our Lord he won the confidence and reverent affection of all who knew him. To Lady Davidson and to others who stood nearest to him the Assembly offers the tribute of its deepest sympathy."

The resolution was carried in silence, the members standing.

In his address to the Assembly, Dr. Temple said:—As you are all aware, the Bishops are now gathering for the Lambeth Conference. You also know that there must come before that Conference questions to which answer of some kind must be made, and questions of such a sort that, whatever the answer, even if it takes the form of the postponement of decision, they will be fraught with consequences of the highest importance to the whole life of our communion, and all Christendom. I would, therefore, appeal specially to members of the Church Assembly that they should take their full share, and a leading part, in the prayers which the whole Church is now being asked to offer that the Bishops may, indeed, have the blessing and guidance of the Holy Spirit.

The Bishop of Salisbury, in moving the adoption of the report of the Missionary Council, said that they were conscious in England that the Church was living in the midst of an atmosphere of bewilderment, that there was great bewilderment about the great fundamentals of our faith, that there was a good deal of denial going about, and that it was a time when the Church of England needed, above all things, to be sure of its own faith. Above all things what is wanted is confidence, he added. The main call before the Missionary Council is three-fold: First, the survey of the field; second, propaganda and recruiting, and, third, the promotion of co-operation.

The report was adopted.

EAST AFRICA.

Another proposition was brought forward by the Bishop of Salisbury, to the effect that the Assembly impressed upon the Church the gravity of the issues raised in the Hilton Young Report upon closer organisation in East Africa, and particularly its recommendation for the establishment of an effective authority to decide between conflicting local interests.

Bishop Hamilton Baynes (Birmingham), in seconding the proposal, said that we had edged the black people off the land in South Africa, so that they had flocked into the towns, and there a Colour Bar Bill was passed to prevent the coloured men from doing white men's work. The minimum wage of a white man in Johannesburg is a pound a day, he said, and the maximum wage of a black man is 2s. 3d. That is simply sitting on the safety valve, and we have had indications lately that it is a very dangerous occupation. There have already been mutterings of a storm. We should not repeat elsewhere the mistakes we have made in South Africa.

Lord Selborne said that our responsibility in regard to the black races in South Africa was small, because what had happened, be it good or bad, was the inevitable consequence of our giving self-government to these territories. No honest man could make a hostile criticism of the way in which the natives had been treated under British rule in the three great Protectorates of South Africa.

The resolution was carried, with two dissentients, and the Assembly adjourned until to-day.

The Minister for Local Government has sanctioned the payment of money out of the rates of the FERMOY Urban Council for the provision of meals to the children attending the Presentation Convent Schools, in view of the high percentage of children attending the school who are reported by Dr. Condy, Co. M.O.H., as suffering from malnutrition.

WIFE ACCUSED OF WITCHCRAFT.

SUPERSTITIOUS HUSBAND'S CRIME.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
PARIS, Monday.

A small farmer near Tours has been arrested on a charge of killing his wife. The body was discovered in a room by a policeman, who visited the farm about some formality, and the man calmly admitted having killed her.

The story he tells is that his wife had been bewitching him for a long time. On the night of the crime he had just gone to bed, when he was seized by griping pains in the stomach. He thereupon accused his wife of casting a spell over him, and shot her dead with a revolver. During the ensuing days he appears to have gone about his business as usual.

MISSING POSTMAN MYSTERY.

MINE SHAFT MAY AGAIN BE SEARCHED.

Renewed efforts are being made by the Civic Guards to find the body of Laurence Griffin, the Stradbally postman.

Officers in plain clothes yesterday visited the Ballinasisla mine shaft at Bonmahon, and it is probable that another search of the shaft will be made at the end of this week.

A local labourer named Howard has been interviewed regarding a cap of Government make which he picked up in the vicinity of the mineshaft shortly after Griffin's disappearance.

The cap produced by Howard proved to be a Free State Army soldier's cap.

On the recommendation of the Local Appointments Commission, Dr. J. J. Duignan, Coolebawn House, Mohill, was appointed by the LEITRIM Board of Health as medical officer of the Rowan Dispensary District. Dr. Duignan, who was born in 1896, at Drumsna, graduated as M.B., B.Ch., and B.A.O., in 1925, and acted as house-surgeon at St. Vincent's Hospital, Dublin, for a period, taking a post-graduate course at the Coombe Maternity Hospital.

RECIPE FOR SAVOURY MEAT ROLL
BY MISS FLORENCE JACK

Cut 1 lb. stewing beef and ½ lb. fat bacon into pieces, and put them twice through a mincing machine along with 3 or 4 cooked potatoes and 1 medium onion. Add to this mixture 1 teacupful bread crumbs, 1 tablespoonful chopped pickles and a seasoning of pepper, salt, and a little made mustard. Bind together with one egg well beaten, or a little milk or a teaspoonful of Stok mixed with a little water, and mix thoroughly. Form into a neat roll using a little flour, and place it in a baking tin with some hot dripping. Bake in a moderate oven about 1 hour, basting frequently. When ready remove the roll to a hot dish, and pour away superfluous dripping from the tin. Mix 1 dessertspoonful "Stok" smoothly with a little warm water, add a further ½ pint of warm water and pour into tin. Stir until boiling, simmer a minute or two and pour over roll. This will provide a delicious, rich brown gravy. A garnish of baked tomatoes, potatoes or rolls of bacon may be added.

FREE TRIPS TO DUBLIN.

One of the most popular features of the First National Education Scheme was the visit to Dublin of the 78 County Prize Winners, with teacher or parent.

Many of the competitors had never before been in Dublin; a few, even, had not previously travelled in a railway train.

It is easy to understand the immediate popularity of a Second Scheme, embodying, as it does, similar simple conditions to last year and free trips to Dublin for 106 successful competitors, with teacher or parent.

Announcement of the conditions of this Second National Scholarship Scheme has appeared in this paper. Readers should apply to their grocer for illustrated handbill, or write direct for full details to The Secretary, Scholarship Committee, 205 Parnell Street, Dublin.

NEWS SUMMARY

IRELAND.

A Savings Committee has been formed at Bray.—(Page 5.)

The Board of Trinity College, Dublin, yesterday elected three new Fellows, fourteen Foundation Scholars, and six Non-Foundation Scholars.—(Page 7.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Earl of Sefton, a noted sportsman, died in London yesterday.—(Page 4.)

The King, at Windsor Castle yesterday, presented new Colours to the Eton College Officers' Training Corps, of which he is Colonel-in-Chief.—(Page 6.)

Mr. Baldwin was the principal speaker at the dinner given to the Imperial Press Conference delegates by the representatives of Great Britain and Northern Ireland in the Royal Academy, London, last night.—(Page 8.)

Lord Strickland has come to London to discuss with the Colonial Secretary the constitutional question in Malta.—(Page 7.)

ABROAD.

Six persons, including four hospital nurses, were killed in a New Zealand level crossing smash.—(Page 7.)

Twenty deaths were caused by motor accidents and heat in Canada.—(Page 7.)

Many drowning accidents are reported to-day. Near Augsberg, in Germany, seven children lost their lives. Nine lives were lost in Texas floods. Two women and a child perished in French floods. Thirteen persons were drowned in Canada during the week-end. One person was drowned when two yachts collided in Long Island Sound, and a bluejacket off H.M.S. Renown was lost while bathing.—(Page 7.)

FINANCIAL.

London Stock Markets were very dull, with no feature of interest. Industrials continued to sag.—(Page 12.)

Loan and discount rates were firmer. Silver fell to a new low record of 15 11-16d. per ounce for spot and 15 7-16d. for forward delivery. At the Bank £20,833 in sovereigns was set aside.—(Page 12.)

In Dublin the market was irregular. Dublin Trams fell to 50/- and Guinness shares were easier. Leyland Motors slumped badly.—(Page 12.)

The Brahminical Menace.

Magna Carta, while it was hailed with baronial rejoicing in the England of 1215, probably was of little immediate interest to the humble masses, whom ultimately it was destined to benefit. In this respect, the Simon Report is unique. According to their status, the articulate sections of the Indian Continent have explored every paragraph of the first half of the Report, and now, agog with a full knowledge of the implications of what may be in store, are awaiting June 24th. Indeed, the question reaches beyond India and affects the whole Empire; by implication, it affects the whole world. One week has elapsed since the Commissioners' conclusions were made known to us; and we are inclined to doubt if this week has been utilised to the best possible advantage. Seven days hence the second half of the Report will be published, and the measure of its incidence upon British opinion is likely to be the measure of India's prosperity and happiness during the next hundred years at least. Various organs of popular sentiment have been at pains to acquaint us with the views of the vernacular Press. Without surprise we learn that the "literary" manifestations of the Swarajists condemn the conclusions of Sir John Simon and his colleagues with an almost unanimous voice. Such newspapers describe the findings of the Report as an insult to the Indian nation; yet we may suppose that this insult is contained only in the fact that a full two years of research have shown that India is not a nation.

Propaganda as a fine art—its de Quincey is as yet unborn—presupposes the gullibility and, in its final essence, the vanity of man. Swarajist propaganda, not unnaturally, has obeyed this undefined law. Its task was easy, for its message, unlike kindred messages in the resurgence of other countries, is not native; it is British. If the British Raj never had existed, Swaraj could not have been. One of the Nehrus enjoyed, or misused, a Harrow education, while even Mahatma Gandhi himself preferred to undergo an apprenticeship in British South Africa before he launched his basically European notions, veneered by Hindu rituals, upon his native land. Thus the uninstructed are disposed to consider that the pious noisiness of a few extremists bespeaks the natural and legitimate aspirations of more than three hundred millions in Hindustan. Owing to their dialectic and commercial ability, the Hindus have been able to make themselves heard, not only in the Presidencies, but elsewhere, to the exclusion of the Mohammedans and the native States. Thus we meet a situation where the Congress is held by many "democrats" to represent the whole Continent. It is no answer to this thesis to argue that the Hindus number over two hundred millions while the Mohammedans amount only to seventy millions. Almost a third of these Hindus live in the native States and are outside the orbit of the Congress, while of the remainder the merest fraction is interested in Swaraj. Swaraj, admittedly, is a Hindu product; but we must remember that all Hindu life is subservient to Brahminical ordinance. Swaraj is a Brahminical move in an age-old game.

The recommendations of the Simon Report are likely to be based upon a progressive grouping of Indian communities, with Dominion status as the goal. This aim is meritorious, and, moreover, is necessary in view of what has gone before. Nevertheless—and here, perhaps, we may regret that the proposals, consequent upon the published conclusions, already are in the printers' hands—we must examine all advice in the light of a Brahminical menace. We do not imagine for a moment that this danger has escaped the notice of the Commissioners, but the adroitness of that ascendant sect may have the most unfortunate results upon the deliberations of the round-table conference. A Labour Cabinet would be easy meat for these folk, who were old before modern Socialism was born. Indeed, there is no reason why their aspirations need clash, since Labour to-day has an industrial outlook, while that of the Brahmin is strictly social. We must trust that the Commissioners, in the framing of their recommendations, have forestalled these people, or, at least, have added riders to germane clauses that will warn legislators at Westminster against their insidious machinations. It is tenable that, to a large extent, the present trouble in India is a product of the undue notice taken by authority of the mouthpieces of Brahminism. Certainly the old feudal landlords have been ignored in the councils of governors, while a ready ear has been turned to the petitions of the bunnias. There are seven days before the second half of the Simon Report will demand the attention of the British Empire; more than the future of India and Britain will be at stake.

Irish Thrift.

The reminiscences of Irish writers of the eighteenth century depict an antique conception of the Irishman that is going out of fashion rapidly in these latter days. Many can remember the time when an Irishman was regarded abroad as a thriftless, irresponsible fellow, who spent money like water and lived cheerfully on the sums that he could borrow from his fellow-countrymen or wheedle from the comparatively canny alien. Unquestionably, a talent for wasting money is inherent in the Irish blood, but there is every evidence that recent years have seen a noticeable change for the better in the domestic attitude towards unnecessary expenditure. A meeting held yesterday to establish a local Savings Committee in Bray has a material significance. This committee is one of a circle of regional and local committees, whose scope includes at present every city in the Saorstát and within a few months will embrace every county. The importance of such movements, and of the spirit which they engender in the new Ireland, is immeasurable, since a nation cannot grow and prosper without the support of solid citizens. Reasonable thrift is not merely a virtue in itself, but a key to many of the essential virtues. This movement seeks to impress on all not merely the influence of thrift in the strengthening of character, but the support which it affords to the institution of the family, and its power to cultivate a sense of individual and civic responsibility. The last property, in a sense, is most likely to appeal to Irish people, whose sense of responsibility has been developed substantially since the Free State came into being. Obviously, the man with a bank balance, however small, is more likely to have an interest in the country's prosperity than the man who has nothing except small change. The question, as Mr. T. P. Gill pointed out at Bray, is linked with that of technical education. Both movements have attained a new importance of late, and both are significant of a new eagerness for material prosperity. We welcome this spirit, the absence of which kept the pre-war Irishman at a grave disadvantage to his neighbours. The "material" outlook does not imply a denial of those spiritual and mental exercises which are man's distinction; it reveals a desire for the common decencies under which life can be lived to the full. Saorstát Eireann, moreover, has a special motive behind its desire for prosperity; for nothing else will restore wandering Ulster to the fold. The sight of a prosperous Free State will have more attractions for the hard-headed Belfast man than a whole battery of invitations.

A Police Congress.

An interesting conference of police chiefs is in session at present in London. For the first time in the history of the British Empire representatives of the police of India, the Colonies, and the Dominions are sitting in council with their British colleagues to discuss police affairs, and the manifold problems that arise out of the pursuit of the criminal. The conference will sit for eleven full days, during which period it will deal with a variety of topics. Its object is to encourage the study of the latest methods for the detection of crime. Authorities of world-wide reputation will lecture on special subjects, such as the finger print system, toxicology, the training of detective officers, and the like. An effort will be made to raise the standard of police work in the farthest corners of the Empire, and, by a system of reciprocal reports, to keep track of criminals wherever they may be. The British police have a well-earned name throughout the world for their efficiency. Scotland Yard has no superior in detective work, and the remarkably few unpunished murders in Great Britain constitute a splendid tribute to its work. We hope that this conference will be the first of many of its kind, and that on the next occasion the Irish Free State will be represented. The Civic Guard is an excellent force. During the short period of its existence it has made very fine progress, and the Dublin Detective Division especially has distinguished itself on many occasions. We notice, however, that, while the Royal Ulster Constabulary is represented in London, the Free State has sent no delegates. This omission, doubtless, is due to an oversight somewhere; for General O'Duffy is most anxious to maintain his force at the highest possible level of efficiency. Ireland has supplied police chiefs to every part of the English-speaking world. Many of the most distinguished names connected with Scotland Yard are unmistakably Hibernian, and no conference of police can be complete without representatives of the Saorstát.

Fivemiletown's Lead.

Lisnaskea for drinking tea,
Maguiresbridge for brandy,
Lisbellaw for wopping straw;
But Fivemiletown's the dandy.

County Fermanagh is maintaining its reputation for enterprise, and once again Fivemiletown has substantiated its claim to lead the Clogher Valley. This thriving little town has inaugurated a "Shopping Week," which is likely to have a great success. It was opened yesterday by Major-General Montgomery, who paid a tribute to the manner in which the inhabitants of the Clogher Valley, although they are divided in religion and politics, work together for the common weal. Other speakers were equally strong in their praise of Fermanagh's spirit, and Mr. James Cleland, President of the Ulster Industrial Development Association, thanked Messrs. Joseph Devlin and Samuel Kyle, the Nationalist and Labour leaders, for their whole-hearted support in the promotion of trade and commerce in the North. Mr. Rowley Elliott, M.P., one of the Unionist members of Parliament for Fermanagh and Tyrone, expressed the wish of thousands of Irishmen when he said that he looked forward to the day when Ireland would be united. It may seem to be a far cry from a "Shopping Week" in Fivemiletown to the establishment of Irish unity; but every movement, however insignificant in itself, that tends to bring Irish men and women of different beliefs together, helps to break down the barriers of prejudice and ignorance that are keeping them apart. Now that Fivemiletown has given a lead we may expect to see the other towns of Fermanagh following its example; for there is keen rivalry between them, and none is likely to allow its neighbour to outdo it in commercial enterprise. For the moment, however, Fivemiletown has justified the pride of place that has been given to it by the old rhyme.

ETON O.T.C.'S NEW COLOURS.

PRESENTED BY THE KING.

HIS MAJESTY ON THE COLLEGE RECORD.

The King, as Colonel-in-Chief, presented the Eton College Officers' Training Corps with new Colours at Windsor Castle yesterday. Five hundred and fifty boys paraded in their uniform of plum-coloured khaki, faced with Eton blue. One boy was overcome by the heat and had to fall out. The others, firm and erect, stood in line in the Castle quadrangle.

The old Colours, weather-stained and faded, were trooped and piled, and the Corps presented arms while the band, drums and pipes of the Scots Guards played "Auld Lang Syne."

The King, in the khaki Service uniform of a Field-Marshal, stood watching with the Queen, who carried a parasol of Eton blue, and the Duke of Gloucester, himself an old Etonian, and a former member of the Corps, was at his side.

The new Colours, in their black cases, were placed on the piled drums in front of the King, and he stepped forward and took the flags as they were unsheathed. The regimental colour of light blue, with the Arms of the College and the King's colour of scarlet, embroidered with the Royal Standard, stirred in the breeze as the King placed them in the hands of Cadet Officer C. F. S. Taylor and Cadet Officer D. A. Hedley, who knelt to receive them.

THE KING'S SPEECH.

The King, addressing the parade, said: "I am very glad to see you on parade to-day, and I congratulate the battalion on its smart appearance. In the patriotic wave of 1860, which brought the volunteer force into being, Eton was among the first of the public schools to be enrolled and to receive the Colours to which you now bid farewell. A year later Queen Victoria inspected in the Home Park the Eton College Rifle Volunteers, with the band of the regiment we have with us here to-day.

Your Colours cannot be inscribed with victorious campaigns, but they bear the arms of the College, granted by my ancestor, Henry VI., reminding you of the call to service in peace as well as in war, to which Eton has at all times been ready to respond.

The roll of distinguished Etonians includes many, both sailors and soldiers, whose names will be held in lasting honour. There is no battlefield, no outpost of Empire where Etonians have not fought with valour and worked with distinction. During the Great War you had a splendid record—5,715 Etonians served in the forces, and 1,158 gave their lives. Thirteen Victoria Crosses were awarded.

As Colonel-in-Chief of the Officers' Training Corps, I have followed this movement from its beginning with interest and appreciation. In war, the valuable work of the corps can never be estimated; in peace it forms a happy link of comradeship between public schools, and paves the way for Commissions in my regular and territorial armies. Above all, it helps to stimulate the formation of character and fosters that esprit de corps which is the proud heritage of our race.

It is with the greatest pleasure that I present these new Colours, to replace those which for nearly three-quarters of a century have been the visible sign of an institution that has stood for the spirit of service and self-sacrifice in the life of the College.

ETON'S LOYALTY.

Colonel M. D. Hill, Commanding Officer, replied. He said that the respect and regard in which they would hold the new Colours would be a symbol of their loyalty and devotion to the King. Nowhere were there any more loyal or devoted subjects of the King than past, present, and, he could promise, future members of the College and the Corps.

The boys, flinging their caps into the air, gave the King three ringing cheers. Then they marched past, while His Majesty took the salute. Scores of distinguished old Etonians, masters, and parents watched the ceremony, and high up on the mound of the round tower were boys from St. George's School, Windsor.

SHETTLESTON BY-ELECTION.

FOUR NOMINATIONS LODGED.

Four nominations were lodged yesterday for the Shettleston Division of Glasgow, vacant by the death of Mr. John Wheatley, and the contest began in earnest last night. There was a surprise when both the National and Communist nominees came forward, as it was freely rumoured that they were not likely to go to the poll. Thus the Labour candidate, Mr. John McGovern, who is defending the seat for the Government, has opposition, not only from the Unionists, who have selected Mr. W. P. Templeton, but also from Mr. Saklatvala, who is championing the cause of the Communists, and from Mr. J. McNicol, the advocate of the Scottish National Party.

Each held a series of meetings last night, but owing to the intense heat—114 degrees were registered in the sun in Glasgow yesterday—the majority of the supporters were in the open air, where the Labour and Communists candidates were working.

Polling takes place on Thursday week, the 26th, up to 9 o'clock, and it has been arranged to postpone the counting until the following morning. The result will be declared early on the afternoon of the 27th.

INVENTOR OF GYRO COMPASS DEAD.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
NEW YORK, Monday.

The death is announced of Mr. Elmer Ambrose Sperry, the gyro compass inventor and electrical engineering expert. In 1914 he was awarded the first prize of the Aero Club de France, and was decorated by the Tsar of Russia and the Emperor of Japan.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

Yesterday an interesting ceremony took place at Windsor Castle, when the King presented Colours to the Eton College Officers' Training Corps. There was a large gathering of spectators, and the corps was drawn up in parade order on the terrace, and His Majesty took the salute.

The King and Queen have a large house party at Windsor Castle, including the Duke and Duchess of York, the Duke of Gloucester, Prince George, Princess Mary and the Earl of Harewood, the Duke and Duchess of Roxburghe, the Duke and Duchess of Portland, the Marquess and Marchioness of Crewe, the Earl and Countess of Mar and Kellie, the Earl and Countess of Granard, the Earl and Countess of Ellesmere, the Earl and Countess of Bessborough, the Earl of Erne and Lord Hardinge of Penshurst.

To-day the opening of the Ascot meeting will completely absorb all social interest. It is expected that the scene will not merely revive, but will eclipse, all pre-war records. The attendance will include many over-seas and foreign visitors, and it is much regretted that the King of Spain was unable to time his visit to England to coincide with the races.

The King, who will be accompanied by the Queen, will be the guest of the Spanish Ambassador and the Marchesa de Merry del Val, on Tuesday, June 24th, at the Spanish Embassy, at the dinner party they are giving in honour of King Alfonso, who will arrive in London shortly.

To-morrow Princess Marie Louise will open the new Home connected with the Metropolitan District Nursing Association, which has been established in Oakley square, London, N.W., and next Friday Her Highness will open the Ideal Holidays' Exhibition in the Royal Agricultural Hall.

The Dowager Countess of Longford is in residence at 21 Cadogan square, London, S.W., where she will give a dance for her daughters on Thursday, July 3rd, and the following evening Mrs. Patrick Villiers-Stuart will be a dance hostess. The League of Mercy ball, at which the Prince of Wales will be present, will take place in Grosvenor House on Monday, July 7th.

Despite the numerous sporting and other attractions in the British Isles, many people continue to spend their week-ends abroad, one of the most favoured venues being Le Touquet, where recent visitors included the Earl and Countess of Dudley, Lord Rothermere, Elizabeth Lady Cheylesmore, Major-General Sir Robert and Lady Hutchinson, Lady Cynthia Tothill, Sir Walter and Lady Schwabe and Sir Patrick Hastings.

PREMIER'S RETURN TO LONDON.

CONFERENCES AT DOWNING STREET.

The Prime Minister (Mr. Ramsay Macdonald) yesterday flew from Lossiemouth, where he had spent the Whitsuntide recess, to London, and last night he kept pre-arranged appointments with Cabinet colleagues in Downing street. The discussions, it is understood, had reference not only to arrangements for the House of Commons, which reassembles to-day, but also to the Government conference with local authorities in the Guildhall this morning in regard to the expediting of unemployment measures.

Mr. Macdonald will be faced to-day with a number of questions on his unemployment policy. The House will proceed with the Committee stage of the Finance Bill, and on Wednesday a full-dress debate on unemployment will be initiated by the Conservatives.

LONDON LETTER.

THE SIMON COMMISSION'S REPORT.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

The day is approaching for the issue of the second and more important part of the Simon Commission's report on India. Its importance arises from the fact that it will contain the recommendations of the Commissioners, which, almost certainly, will be original and far-reaching. The demand for the first volume of the report has been extraordinary, and has necessitated the printing of a second issue. Applications have been reaching the Stationery Office from all parts of the world, and these continue to come in. Two thousand copies were sent to India so that the report might be published simultaneously there and in London, but many more copies have had to be sent since to meet a demand from all parts of the Dependency.

An Imperial Visit.

The State visit of Prince and Princess Takamatsu to the King and Queen will begin on June 26, when the Imperial Japanese visitors will be met at Victoria by the Prince of Wales and will be driven to Buckingham Palace. They will remain there for three days, and will proceed to Claridge's Hotel for ten days. On the evening of their arrival there will be a State banquet at the Palace, and on the next day they will be given a lunch at the Guildhall by the Lord Mayor and Corporation. If possible, Prince Takamatsu will give a dinner for the King and Queen at the Japanese Embassy during his stay, but this has not been settled yet. The Imperial visitors intend to see the Tower, the British Museum, Aldershot and the Royal Air Force display at Hendon. The Prince, during his stay at the Palace will invest the King with the Order of the Rising Sun of Japan. The insignia of this Order are very handsome. The jewel has a garnet in the centre, from which spring eight groups of rays of white enamel, edged either with gold or silver, according to the class of the Order; the edging of the King's jewel will be of gold. The decoration is attached to the ribbon by a reproduction of a sprig of paulownia, the Royal flower of Japan, and the ribbon itself is white watered silk, with two stripes of crimson. This Order is one of the most highly prized in the Japanese Empire.

Unemployment.

Considerable public interest is being taken in the conference that will be held in the Guildhall to-morrow for the speeding up of unemployment remedies. It is said that there will be no such recriminations as were expected in some quarters, but that both sides will meet in a friendly spirit in order to get the best out of the conference. The Government is anxious to learn the truth about the alleged difficulties experienced by local authorities in the forwarding of unemployment schemes, hoping to come to the aid of these bodies without delay, if necessary. Full consideration will be given to the class of work which can be undertaken by local authorities, and there will be inquiries whether schemes not covered by existing programmes could be put in hand by the highway authorities with assistance from the Road Fund.

An Exhibition of Cartoons.

In the new building which will be used in future as the offices of Punch, an exhibition of drawings by the famous cartoonists and humourists—John Leech, Charles Keene, John Tenniel and George du Maurier—was opened to-day. The drawings form part of a collection bequeathed to Punch by the late Mr. Henry Silver, a member of the staff from 1857 to 1870, and the work is by the four artists who may be said truthfully to have raised Punch to a height of artistic excellence which was unique at that period, and has been maintained faithfully. It is hoped to take the collection on a journey round the Empire, and in the course of this tour visits will be made to important cities, including Dublin and Belfast. Among the many beautiful drawings by Sir John Tenniel are several dealing with the Home Rule question depicting such personalities as Gladstone, Parnell, the Marquis of Hartington, Sir William Harcourt, Mr. Arthur Balfour, Mr. J. Chamberlain and Mr. Justin McCarthy.

The German International Loan.

The supposition that the London portion of the German International Loan, amounting to twelve million pounds, has been a popular success does not appear to be borne out by the evidence for applications; for amounts up to and including five hundred pounds received allotment in full, while applicants for large amounts received an average of 49 per cent. of the amount for which they applied. This morning the Loan was quoted at ⅜ per cent. discount, and, although later it recovered to ⅛ per cent. discount, the price scarcely indicated that there was a popular demand. The subscription for the Loan was mainly by banks, insurance companies, Government Departments and other holders of large funds; and it is believed that the ordinary investor was not responsible for the subscription of more than one-half of the issue. It is suggested in the City that the Loan was over-subscribed, because it was thought inexpedient that an operation to which the Government and the Bank of England were committed should suffer from any appearance of failure.

Guinness's.

The financial year of Messrs. Arthur Guinness, Son and Co. will coincide with the close of the present month, and in the City of London the accounts of the company are awaited with some confidence; for it has been noted that exports of stout have shown a considerable increase for a long time past. It is thought generally that the present dividend will be maintained. Obviously, the business continues to derive great benefit from the extensive publicity campaign. The Guinness "slogan" now can be seen everywhere.

Bathing in the Serpentine.

Mr. Lansbury has arranged a modest reproduction of the Lido in Hyde Park, but he cannot give bathers the blue sea and skies of the Adriatic always, and anything less like the Lido atmosphere this morning would be difficult to imagine; for the weather was dull, with heavy grey skies, and a chill easterly wind swept across the water, gently stirring the mist which seemed to overhang everything. Two young women arrived at six o'clock, hoping to conduct an informal opening of the bathing season, but they were disappointed to find that they were many hours too soon, since the mixed bathing season does not begin until 4.30 in the afternoon. They decided to try the water, however, but scarcely had entered when they were ordered out by the police. One would-be Naiad, an Irish girl, Miss Kathleen Murphy, wearing a bathing costume under her dress, waited shivering all day in order that she might be the first woman bather from the pavilion, and during the afternoon she was joined by several others.

LORD STRICKLAND COMES TO LONDON.

HOPEFUL AS TO SOLUTION OF MALTESE SITUATION.

LEGISLATION MAY BE NECESSARY FOR FAIR ELECTIONS.

GOVERNOR'S POWERS UNDER THE CONSTITUTION.

LORD STRICKLAND, Prime Minister of Malta, has arrived in London to discuss with the British Government the difficult constitutional question which has arisen with regard to the Maltese election.

He says that it is impossible to hold an election when the religious authorities have issued instructions to vote against his candidates.

It may be necessary, he added, to legislate for fair elections.

Wherever a question of public order was involved or the interests of the Empire were at stake, the Governor had power to legislate by ordinance.

OBJECT OF HIS VISIT.

TO DISCUSS ELECTION PROBLEM.

Lord Strickland, Prime Minister of Malta, reached London last night from Malta, having completed his journey by air from Marseilles to Croydon. He was met by his daughter, the Hon. Mrs. Bower, and her husband, Lieutenant-Commander Bower, and Sir Augustus Bartolo, Minister of Education of Malta.

Lord Strickland said to a Press Association reporter that the object of his visit was to discuss with the Government the difficult constitutional question which had arisen with regard to the election.

"I have come over here as the representative of the Maltese people. I am on my own initiative, but, of course, with the assent of the Governor."

Referring to the situation, Lord Strickland said: "A proper solution in accordance with imperial and colonial interests is quite possible. It only requires proper attention on the part of the Imperial Government.

"I am quite confident there can be a very satisfactory solution, provided things are not done in a hurry.

LEGISLATION MAY BE NECESSARY.

"The constitutional position has become impossible in Malta. How can one hold an election when religious authorities have issued instructions to vote against my candidates? Therefore, it may be necessary to legislate for fair elections. As the law stands in Malta, if a man is elected through undue influence he is only fined or imprisoned. He may be brought to court and let off. Meanwhile his election remains valid, whereas in England it would not be so.

"It may be necessary to legislate in order to secure fair elections. The question as to how this legislation can be effected while the Maltese Parliament is not sitting is a complicated legal question which I cannot discuss now."

Lord Strickland smiled when it was mentioned to him that it had been suggested that he might be excommunicated.

"There has not been sufficient cause," he said: "and if I were excommunicated it would be absolutely unprecedented to be excommunicated without sufficient cause. My feelings towards the Holy Father are, of course, quite friendly. As regards his view—well, I am not the spokesman.

FIRST LONG-DISTANCE FLIGHT.

Lord Strickland said that his journey by air was the first long-distance flight he had. He left Malta on Friday night, travelled on a destroyer to Tunis, and then by steamer to Marseilles, flying from there to Croydon yesterday.

Lord Strickland, in a further statement, said that it was quite impossible to hold the elections at the present time, and they had been indefinitely postponed. What would happen now depended entirely on the British Government. He would have an interview with Lord Passfield, the Colonial Secretary, to-day. So also would Sir Augustus Bartolo.

Lord Strickland declared that it would be both unwise and unfair to attempt to hold the elections until there had been time to enlighten the people regarding the line of demarcation between politics and religion.

THE GOVERNOR'S POWERS.

The Governor, Sir John du Cane, who, Lord Strickland declared, was one of those people who was not afraid of doing what he considered to be right, had powers under the Constitution to suspend the elections. The Constitution had emergency clauses, and was designed so as to be very elastic in times of strain.

Wherever a question of public order was involved, or the interests of the Empire were at stake, the Governor had the power to legislate by ordinance.

Asked whether he anticipated any further disturbances in Malta, Lord Strickland replied that so far they had been entirely successful in keeping order. They had not been aggressive, and they had taken all attacks delivered on them in a spirit of patience. The efficiency of the administration had kept down all disorders. This was partly due to the fact that they had a good vernacular Press, the lack of which had undoubtedly been responsible partly for the disturbances in Palestine.

Lord Strickland emphasised that the Government of Malta did not wish to shake off the yoke of the Church. They were prepared to take their religion from Rome, but their politics from themselves. Previous Popes had allowed complaints against bishops and priests, added Lord Strickland. The present Pope, however, did not appear to wish to listen to any such complaints. The Pope was infallible, but bishops were not necessarily so.

LORD STRICKLAND.

GOVERNOR'S REPLY TO ARCHBISHOP.

DEFENCE OF POLICE.

MALTA, Monday.

In compliance with the request of the Chronicle, the Governor, Sir John du Cane, has given to that paper for publication his Excellency's reply to the protest of the Archbishop of Malta on June 11th, in regard to the disturbances which broke out on June 8th, after the Archbishop had been preaching in St. John's Cathedral.

The Governor says:—"In reply to your letter of June 10th, in which Your Grace complains of the conduct of the police on Sunday last outside St. John's Cathedral, I have the honour to inform Your Grace that I have made the most careful inquiries into this matter, and have been unable to find any ground for censure or criticism of the police in this connection. I would remind Your Grace that in these difficult days the safety of the community is in the hands of the police, and that it is of the greatest importance that they should receive the support of all constituted authority. It has, therefore, been decided to publish a notice, a copy of which is enclosed, which it is hoped will strengthen the hands of the police in maintaining order.

"I trust I may count on the co-operation of Your Grace in reducing to a minimum the opportunities of public demonstrations which might lead to disorder."

In a second letter, referring to Lord Strickland's defence, the Governor says he sees no reason to take any action in the matter, and continues:—"I must remind Your Grace that the accusations brought by the Vatican against Lord Strickland were published by His Majesty's Government in a White Paper, which was printed by His Majesty's Stationery Office, and laid before Parliament. In common fairness it does not seem to be reasonable to object to the head of the Ministry publishing his defence similarly in an official publication."

BATHING ACCIDENT AT NAVAN.

CHRISTIAN BROTHER DROWNED.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

NAVAN, Monday.

A bathing accident which took place this evening on the River Blackwater, near Navan, resulted in the drowning of Brother Ambrose, of the Christian Brothers de la Salle, a teaching Order, who own the Abbey Schools, Navan, an establishment opened about a dozen years ago.

Brother Ambrose, with Brothers Abbon and Gerald, went for a walk and a bathe. Brother Ambrose went into a deep pool, and, being an indifferent swimmer, appears to have got into difficulties.

The other Brothers rushed to his assistance, and a lad who was fishing near by called on a young man named James Clarke, of Navan, who was on the railway bridge, a few hundred yards distant.

Clarke dived in, and the Brother was taken out. He was apparently alive.

Dr. Monahan, Navan, was soon on the scene, and pronounced life extinct.

Artificial respiration had been tried without avail.

Brother Ambrose was a native of Belleek, County Fermanagh, and was 26 years of age. He had been some two years in Navan Abbey School, where he had been teaching the boys.

The body was removed to the Abbey building, not far distant, and an inquest will be held to-morrow (Tuesday).

AIR MINISTRY APPOINTMENT.

The Secretary of State for Air has appointed Mr. C. L. Bullock to be Secretary of the Air Ministry, in succession to Sir Walter Nicholson when the latter vacates the appointment in the autumn. Mr. Bullock has for the last seven years been principal private secretary to successive Secretaries of State for Air.

GREATER DUBLIN BILL.

A NUMBER OF AMENDMENTS.

FROM OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.

The Free State Minister for Local Government has tabled a large number of amendments to the Greater Dublin Bill, the report stage of which will be taken in the Senate to-morrow. A good many of them are merely drafting amendments, but some are of a more important character. A number of them relate to the conditions of transfer of officers from abolished local authorities to the new Councils, and the consequent adjustment of the financial obligations in respect of them as between the old and new employers.

Other amendments carry out the undertaking of Mr. Mulcahy in the Senate about a fortnight ago, that votes on the new commercial register shall be given only in respect of such portion of business premises as are actually used for the purpose of carrying on therein any business, profession, trade manufacture or other commercial or industrial pursuit.

Senator Milroy has given notice to delete two amendments inserted by the Senate on the Committee stage of the bill. One of these proposes to associate the new Councils with the Minister for fixing the salaries of managers, whereas the bill originally left the matter of salary to the Minister himself.

RUMANIAN AFFAIRS.

THE KING'S CORONATION.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BUKHAREST, Monday.

Preparations are being made for the coronation of King Carol, and to which it is understood representatives of all the States which were allies of Rumania during the war will be invited. General Prezan and Professor Jorga are understood to have agreed to present the invitations in person, the former going to Belgrade, Rome and Brussels, and the latter to Paris, London and Washington. They are expected to start on their journeys at the end of June.

THE KINGSTOWN REGATTA.

SHAMROCK V's VICTORY.

LACK OF SAILING WINDS SPOILS FINE RACE.

Kingstown was yesterday a place of international interest. Everyone who is interested in yachting and others to whom it makes no appeal wanted to know how the America Cup challenger would fare in the regatta. Everybody who could spare time went to Kingstown to view the start of the big cutter race.

The morning was one of splendid sunshine. Looking back from the pier-head across the harbour waters, Kingstown, in the strong sunlight, made a very pretty picture. The yacht clubs were gay with colour, especially the Royal St. George, whose "day" it was. The Royal Irish Yacht Club will do the honours to-day, under an arrangement between the two clubs by which each alternately takes first place in the programme of the regatta. Thousands of fluttering flags and strings of bunting bedecked the town front, while every steamer and yacht in the harbour was trimmed in lines of bunting from their masts or in rainbow fashion over all.

THOUSANDS OF SIGHTSEERS.

For more than an hour before the start of the big race people made their way in a continuous stream to the heads of the East and West Piers. They watched with excited interest the four big cutters make ready for the race, and then sail slowly out of the harbour, where, with many graceful turns, they manœuvred for position to cross the starting line.

Precisely at 11 a.m. the gun was fired. As far away as Sandycove and Dalkey every place giving a view of the line was occupied, and all enjoyed the sight of a fine beginning.

SHAMROCK GETS WELL AWAY.

Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V., with her green hull and enormous leg of mutton sail, was closest inshore, and went away, with Lulworth, Mr. Patton's boat, and Cambria, belonging to Lord Camrose, leading her by a few seconds. Lord Waring's cutter, White Heather II., was nearly a minute behind in crossing the line. Shamrock came away in brilliant style, moving on an inshore tack more rapidly than the other two leading boats. It was a light and fluky wind, and what appeared to longshore observers to be the beginning of a straight run to Mugglins resolved itself into a series of criss-cross tacks, in which Cambria got the better of Shamrock.

She passed the mark boat first, and led the way to the Kish. Only those with glasses could follow the yachts on this long reach and on the turn home to the Burford mark. When the cutters had come to the last leg of the course lack of wind left too much to the skill of the sailor for the ordinary man to be able to appreciate the niceties in yachtsmanship with which the big four worked their way home.

THE FINISH.

The race finished at 23½ minutes past three o'clock. Shamrock won, and for everybody it was a most satisfactory result. They had enjoyed every moment of the race, and the challenger had proved her worth. Although, owing to the falling away of the wind, only one half the race was run, the people joyously cheered the result.

The Artane Band on the East Pier discoursed a programme of music during the first hours of the regatta, which consisted of many other events of more intimate and local interest, while in the club houses the awaiting of results was made pleasant with social entertainment.

In the evening an Army Band performed on the East Pier, winding up most pleasantly one of the finest days that this summer can well give us.

GREAT "BEAR" RUSH ON WALL STREET.

STOCKS COME TUMBLING DOWN.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Monday.

"Bears" played havoc on the Stock Market to-day, prices crashing in spectacular fashion under overpowering pressure. Shares were dumped on the market in enormous volume, totalling over 5,800,000. It is believed that the certainty that the Tariff Bill would be signed had a bad influence.

Many banking circles are pessimistic regarding the effect that it is likely to have on the country's future trade. Others, however, think that the selling factors include the declines in commodity prices, the disappointing earning reports and the approach of the summer quiet season in industry, so that the proportion of influence exercised by the tariff affair is difficult to determine.

At least two hundred new low levels for the year were recorded, and the crash was about the worst since last year's panic.

The "bears" met with a temporary check early in the afternoon, but they returned to the attack later. Transactions were accelerated up to a feverish rate in the last hour, leaving the ticker helpless to keep up with quotations long after the closing gong.

The Executive Committee of the Non-Brahmin Justice Party has taken the momentous decision of recommending a widening of the scope of membership to include Brahmins.

DEATH ROLL OF SIXTY-ONE.

TOLL OF SEA, RIVER AND ROAD.

CANADA'S TRAGIC WEEK-END.

GALLANT GERMAN CHILDREN

FLOODS, motor smashes, bathing accidents and other causes have been responsible for more than sixty deaths during the past two days.

In Canada and on the Continent twenty-four lives were lost by drowning. Nine people were drowned in Texas floods, and one person perished in a yacht collision in Long Island Sound.

Six persons were killed in a New Zealand level-crossing accident, and over twenty deaths were caused in road mishaps and from heat prostration in Canada. One life was lost in an £18,000 fire in New Orleans.

THREE LIVES LOST IN FRENCH FLOODS.

FAMOUS VINEYARDS DAMAGED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BAR LE DUC, Monday.

Two women and a six years old girl lost their lives near here in a violent rainstorm which lasted from late yesterday afternoon until the early hours of this morning. Water poured in torrents across the countryside, carrying off buildings, trees, telegraph poles, farm animals and crops.

The child and her mother, aged 37, were surprised by the flood while they were making the evening round of their stockyards and were washed off their feet. Their bodies were later dug out of a mass of débris at the foot of a ruined wall.

The third body, that of a woman not yet identified, was found to-day in a canal at Bar le Duc.

Enormous damage was done to farm crops by the storm, most of those which escaped the deluge having been beaten down by hail.

The village of Resson, which stands in a hollow, presented a desolate appearance this morning—houses bowled over, streets washed out and roads cut—while the country is strewn with the prostrate pylons of the high tension electric power line.

VINE-GROWERS IN DESPAIR.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Monday.

Heavy storms are reported in messages from various parts of Western and South-Western France. Many roads have been cut by wash-outs near Chambery.

At Ville-sur-Tourbe, in the Marne Department, a gendarmerie barracks was struck by lightning and partly destroyed.

A message from Rheims says that storms have been virtually a daily occurrence for a week past and have brought the vine-growers to the verge of despair.

THREE CHILDREN DROWNED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

DIJON, Monday.

Three small boys were drowned near here when a rowing boat capsized in the River Ouche. The uncle of two of them swam ashore with the fifth occupant, a little girl.

THIRTY DEATHS IN CANADA

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

OTTAWA, Monday.

About thirty deaths, including thirteen from drowning, occurred in Eastern Canada during the week-end, when thousands sought relief in the country after the high temperatures of the past week.

Motor accidents and heat prostration accounted for the other deaths.

SEVEN CHILDREN DROWNED.

THE PETER PAN OF CRICKET.

HOBBS GIVES FINE DISPLAY IN TEST MATCH.

BOWLING OF WALL AND FAILURE OF WOOLLEY.

England—270 and 302.
Australia—144 and 60 for one.
Australia still requires 369 to win.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM.

NOTTINGHAM, Monday.

Three things will stand out in the memory of those thirty thousand people who somehow managed to pack themselves into the Trent Bridge Ground to-day to see the Test match. One was Hobbs' superb batting; the second was Wall's fine bowling, and the third was the failure of Woolley.

There was a very full day's play, though several times it looked as if rain would interfere. So dull was the morning that people hesitated about paying the half-crown for admission, but when the news was spread that Hobbs and Sutcliffe were playing their best game they threw caution to the winds and flocked in. In an hour the size of the crowd had doubled, and finally the crush became so great that only a dozen people at a time were let in, and then were shepherded by the Notts' Secretary, Mr. H. A. Brown, to places on the grass.

ON THE ROOF.

The window seats and houses overlooking the ground were very popular, and the women perched themselves on the slanting roof of a house. At one time the crowd encroached over the boundary, and the game had to be held up while the policemen moved them back. They left behind them a pile of paper bags, which blew in a long disconcerting trail across the pitch. These were only minor incidents. The thing was the cricket. Lesser discomforts were quickly forgotten.

When Woolley came in the spectators gave him an encouraging cheer. He had a failure in the first innings to redeem. But it was not to be, for a few runs later he was bowled. A hush fell on the ground. They realised that the years had passed by. Woolley's long form, drooping rather mournfully, passed on its way to the pavilion. Many felt that Test match cricket was in all probability saying its good-bye to a man who had been one of its greatest figures.

Age plays curious tricks, and who could realise that Hobbs, playing superb light-hearted cricket, with a constant smile on his face, was a man of forty-seven. His innings stood out from all the rest of the play. It was a study in perfect skill, combined with steel nerves; and Hobbs overnight had disobeyed orders. Instead of going to bed, according to instructions, very early, he and Mrs. Hobbs did not get back to their hotel until after midnight. They were up again at eight, and were among the earliest arrivals on the ground. Truly, Jack Hobbs is the Peter Pan of cricket.

Then there was Wall's bowling. He is only twenty-one. The crowd, after a long spell of express bowling, during which the speed never slackened, gave him a special cheer, and Woodfull, the skipper, had a pat on the back for him as he passed. Wall retired to the boundary with a blush of delight on his face, for he had not failed his country.

SUTCLIFFE'S MISHAP.

Then there was Sutcliffe's mishap. He was hit on the hand when pulling a ball, and he danced about the pitch in agony. The Australians gathered round him to give assistance, and his hand was bound up with Woodfull's handkerchief. It was learned that the Yorkshire player received a nasty bruise on the thumb, and, although willing, was advised not to bat again.

The Australians started the day badly. A large "kangaroo" had been placed as a mascot outside their hotel. When Woodfull came out someone gave M'Cabe a playful push, and he fell against the "kangaroo," which burst, falling in a heap at his feet. "The fall of Australia," said someone. "A bad omen," said another. Woodfull heard this, and went back to his hotel again. He may not be a superstitious man, but he appeared relieved when told that the "kangaroo" would at once be repaired.

The huge crowd, so vast that eventually the gates had to be closed, was full of admiration for the courage with which the Australians batted against odds. Through the long day they bowled and fielded as if there was nothing to worry about. They vigorously applauded the fifties of Hobbs, Sutcliffe and Hendren, and joined heartily in the laughter when Tyldesley, rotund of figure, attempted to steal singles.

It took the huge crowd an hour or more to get out of the ground, but everybody was good-humoured, and there was always the entrancing thought of what to-morrow would bring.

Can Australia get the runs? Mr. Walter Marshall, the head groundsman, was confident that it would not be the fault of the wicket if the Australians did not. Provided there is no rain during the night, he said, the wicket will be just as good as to-day. It would last for a week.

THE SOUTHERN CROSS.

CONDITIONS STILL UNFAVOURABLE.

Unfavourable weather conditions still persist over the Atlantic, and there will consequently be no start on the proposed flight of the Southern Cross this morning.

LATE NEWS.

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH "THE TIMES."

THE GRESHAM LAW.

TESTING TIME AT HAND

The Times to-day observes:—The Gresham Law, the Prime Minister told the Imperial Press Conference the other day, is that if you take a debased coinage and put it alongside a good coinage, the debased coinage will elbow out the good from circulation. There is, he added, a Gresham Law in politics as well. He could hardly have put more picturesquely the danger which threatens the power of British industry to recover from its present depression. The danger is that the debased coinage of Socialist economics will elbow out good, sound coinage in opinions, ideas and ideals during the very critical part of the legislative year which opens with the re-assembly of the House of Commons to-day. It is a danger which is far more pressing now than at any time since the Government took office. Mr. Thomas, who deserves no little credit for his efforts to keep good coinage in circulation, has withdrawn to a sphere in which his influence upon domestic policy must be very much less. His place, as the Sisyphus of unemployment, is apparently to be taken by the Prime Minister himself, with the assistance of a committee of his colleagues. But a change in administrative officers from Mr. Thomas to some other person, or persons, is no reason for more confidence that the problem of unemployment will be treated on sound, economic lines.

Minister after Minister is seeking refuge from the criticisms of a disillusionised public in excuses which are palpably unsubstantial. The Prime Minister, himself, shows some desire to blame the House of Lords, when the truth is that that body has fully reflected the determination of the Opposition in the House of Commons to give the Government every chance to deal with unemployment. Mr. Clynes blames the capitalist system, which he tells the Congress of the National Union of Municipal and General Workers, throws thousands of men idle faster than we can find employment for them, and displaces women in large numbers, so that nearly half a million women are now included in the unemployed figures. A sufficient reply to this curious argument, that those who give employment must be destroyed before employment can be increased was given by Mr. Snowden himself when he explained, in defence of his Budget, that a great expansion of the social services must wait until the capacity of industry to pay for it had been restored.

TWO POSSIBILITIES.

Finally, the Prime Minister is to confer to-day with local authorities, in pursuance of the idea also pithily expressed by Mr. Clynes, that vested interests, the slow pace of local authorities, and adverse decisions in various towns have meant delay in curing or in mitigating unemployment by means of relief works. If this conference succeeds in finding any obstacles which have improperly held up the provision of work, everyone will be anxious that such obstacles should be removed. But if it is to be the occasion for putting pressure upon local authorities to treat the interests of the ratepayers in the same way as the Socialists are inclined to treat the interests of the taxpayers, then the conference will result in more damage than advantage to the interests of the unemployed.

Neither those who conduct industry, adds The Times, nor those who finance it, can have any confidence so long as occasional admissions of their difficulties are accompanied by persistent disregard of their desires and disparagement of their value to the nation. The good coinage of finding work for the unemployed by encouraging trade is being elbowed out by the comparatively worthless coinage of relief works. The good coinage of taxation to pay for the nation's commitments is being displaced by the debased coinage of taxation in inverse ratio to representation. The good coinage of unrestricted trade is yielding to the debased coinage of tolerated dumping.

A DOUBTFUL OUTLOOK.

So far, thanks to the courageous stand of Mr. Thomas against unproductive expenditure, the good coinage has largely held its own in the matter of the efforts of the Government actually to find work for the unemployed. But will this policy be continued? Shortly before the recess Mr. Lloyd George made an offer across the floor of the House of Commons of Liberal support for a policy of vast expenditure upon relief works on the lines suggested in Labour and the Nation. If the Government yield to the temptation of this offer, the fight between the good and the bad coinage in this sphere of activity cannot be delayed or disguised. On the one hand will be ranged all who believe, with Mr. Baldwin, that the maintenance of the standard of living and the revival of industry can be secured only by economy at home and by protection against the lower standards of competitors abroad. On the other hand will stand those who imagine that the way to consolidate resources is further to dissipate them, and who desire to appropriate to the artificial provision of work the very cash and credit which are essential to the natural expansion of trade. If such a conflict should arise, then the interests of the nation clearly demand that the Gresham Law should be given no chance of coming into operation.

CRIME-RIDDEN CHICAGO.

POLICE COMMISSIONER RESIGNS.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

CHICAGO, Monday.

Mr. William Russell, the Police Commissioner of Chicago, this morning sent his resignation to the Mayor, remarking "I am getting out of a mess I never wanted to get into." Mr. Russell has not, however, left the police department, remaining an active officer with the rank of captain.

Just before resigning Mr. Russell dismissed the Chief of the Detective Bureau, who will also remain in a subordinate position until he is legally entitled to retire on pension.

A fierce struggle is in progress between the various interested groups anxious to nominate a new Commissioner.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

CHICAGO, Monday.

The Chicago Tribune, in its issue today, demands the resignation of Mayor Thompson, of anti-British propaganda fame—and the removal of the present Deputy Commissioner as the first step towards "cleaning up" the city.

Meetings of citizens are being held in an effort to initiate measures to restore law and order, for a determined reaction is being felt to the cold-blooded killing of one of the Tribune reporters last week.

In view of the greatly increased traffic from Northern Ireland to the Free State seaside resort of OMEATH, the Louth County Council yesterday decided to expend £1,000 on the provision of a new pier. Sunday summer traffic to Omeath has increased enormously in the last three years, and boats ply so quickly between Warrenpoint and the Free State coast that the old pier was altogether inadequate for the purpose.

NEWSPAPERS AND THE EMPIRE.

MR. BALDWIN'S ADVICE.

THE DANGER OF MASS APPEAL.

The delegates to the Imperial Press Conference were entertained to dinner last night at the Royal Academy by the Great Britain and Northern Ireland delegates.

Mr. Baldwin proposed "The Tenth Muse." He said that he remembered when people spoke much less of the Empire than they spoke now. The bombastic school who wanted to paint the map red and the pessimistic school which regarded the size of the Empire as the measure of the aggression and rapacity of the British people were probably both dead. There were still some who sneered at size, but, after all, if it was their function to maintain or impose peace throughout that portion of the world which they inhabited, then the size and resources of the Empire became relevant, and they could almost wish that the statesmen of the eighteenth century had been able to devise some constitutional formula which would have kept the American Colonies inside the family, the peace of the world would have then been assured.

Upon them as Pressmen rested the responsibility of what news came to this country, and what went out, and of what good and evil report might emerge through the waves of the sea and of the air. Your power is tremendous, he said, you can promote amity in the Empire and among the nations, and you can promote enmity, according to your understanding or suspicion.

THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE.

However beautiful in American ears the American language may be, Mr. Baldwin continued, amid laughter, we are English, and we speak the English language, or try to do so, and let us write it. (Applause.) As one dramatic and inspiring example of inter-imperial communication, Mr. Baldwin quoted from the wireless report of the speech delivered at Brisbane by Miss Johnson on her arrival in Australia—"The moment I landed I was greeted by my own people, who spoke my own language, with ideas the same as my own, and who met me with love and friendship in their hearts." That is a fine message, he went on. That is good English, and it strikes a note that goes right home. (Cheers.)

Mr. Baldwin then confessed that he abominates the telephone. He remembered Lord Grey's complaining about telephones—"They mince time into fragments, and fray the spirit." There were some newspapers, he added, that were little more than mincing machines, and they tended to destroy the power of reading and contemplation; but there was no doubt that the isolation which he valued very much had gone for ever. We politicians, he said, must admit that you Pressmen have come to stay, and we must make the best of you. I would like to ask you, with perfect candour, not to make the worst of us. You must make the best of us. I do not want flattery. I have never had it, and I dislike it intensely; but, after all, the main consciousness of the Empire can only exist by your means. Take away the Press, and the thing fails.

They were summoned to vast responsibilities; they could build the Empire or break it; they could rivet the bonds of unity or disown them: they could strengthen the common heritage with fresh and noble aspirations, or they could starve them and degrade them with suspicion and triviality. Politicians could do that, too, but the power of Pressmen to do either of those two things was greater. He always believed that in a democratic country the most important check on the Executive was the Press, provided it did its work with a sense of responsibility.

MASS PRODUCTION OF IDEAS.

We live, he said, in an age of slogans and mass production. Slogans are dangerous. I am afraid of them; not for myself, but for the Empire. Slogans are going to be the death of Russia, where the art of slogans has been carried to the highest degree. Mass production is a slogan. Mass production in industry is one thing; mass production in ideas and opinions is another; and, after all, there is one primary and fundamental essential before you can begin mass production in engineering or mechanics, and that is—meticulous accuracy. There is a real danger to democracy in a mass appeal to instinct and sentiment, and not to reason. There is real danger to democracies in putting before them too much in the way of trivialities. Great empires and a trivial Press go ill together.

The public were entitled to have facts fairly put before them—all the facts, not a suppression of any facts that were material in forming judgment, nor any fact garbled.

To-day, with the difficulties in some parts of the Empire, if there ever was a time that called for facts and for truth, it is the present day. Our people can stand the truth, and they are worthy of being given the truth. These are times when all political parties are talking of the unity of the Empire. We are all feeling our way. But except on the grounds of full knowledge and real opinion at home and in the Dominions, and unless we are all told the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, in any negotiations that may take place between the Dominions and the Mother country, or between Dominion and Dominion, or between the Mother country and India, nothing but disaster awaits the Empire, if we at home, if they overseas, are misled, from whatever cause they may be misled.

The Hon. Theodore Fink, Chairman of the Australian delegation, spoke of the union in this country of public life with literature, authorship, and scholarship, as exemplified in Mr. Baldwin.

WOMEN IN BUSINESS.

INTERNATIONAL SOROPTOMISTS.

Lady Barrett, welcoming the delegates to the International Convention of Soroptomists, which was opened at the British Medical Association's House in London yesterday, said that the ideals of peace came very strongly into the work of soroptomists. A National gathering such as the Convention was, therefore, a definite step forward in the cause of peace. "I believe," said Lady Barrett, who is President of the Soroptomists' Club of Greater London, "that it will not be long before every great town and city will see the formation of their own Soroptomist Club, and in this way the enormous army of business and professional women of the world will be united."

Dr. Hunt, President of the European Federation, who presided, said that ten different nations were represented and six languages. The opening session was devoted to international greetings, and many of the foreign delegates spoke in three languages, and all of them brought messages of international friendship and good-will. The advisability of establishing an international careers advisory bureau for women was discussed.

Miss Meijers, Holland, said that in establishing such a bureau they had no intention of overloading other similar organisations, but desired to supplement existing bureaux.

Mrs. Mary Lewis, Washington, said she would heartily support a programme which had for its basis the finding of the right work for the right woman in every case.

Miss Mabel France, Birmingham, said that careers work was essentially specialists' work. Soroptomists were comprised of women of every profession, and because of that they were going to be rather difficult to separate internationally for this work. Another difficulty was that the existing organisations already doing this work were very strong, and were dealing with the problem. The first step was to find out what were the existing conditions and the existing organisations for this work in other countries where there were soroptomists.

PRINCESS HELEN.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

VIENNA, Monday.

Reports from Bukharest speak of further progress towards a definite reconciliation between King Carol and Princess Helen. It is stated that the King yesterday visited Princess Helen at the shooting box at Scrovistea, where she is staying with her little son. Prince Nicholas, the King's brother, was present at the meeting. It is added that King Carol will spend a part of the summer at Consoantza, and that the Princess will go there on Wednesday next. According to present arrangements, Prince Michael will be left with his mother, and his education will be supervised jointly by the King and the Princess.

SHOPPING WEEK IN FIVEMILETOWN.

MOVEMENT SUPPORTED BY ALL PARTIES.

Fivemiletown Shopping Week was inaugurated yesterday, when the opening ceremony was performed by Mrs. Montgomery, of Blessingbourne.

The town was decorated with bunting, and there was a large crowd present. There was keen competition in the window displays, and various competitions were held at the opening ceremony.

Addresses were then delivered.

Major-General Montgomery said that his family had been connected with the Clogher Valley for five generations, or over three hundred years, and the people there had always clung together despite the differences, political and social. He hoped they would maintain that spirit.

Mr. Rowley Elliott, M.P., congratulated Fivemiletown on its great effort, and said that although one of the smallest towns to undertake such a movement it was a magnificent success, and equal to that of larger towns. He would like to see Ireland united. It was a shame to see a small community of one and a quarter millions with sixty thousand people unemployed.

ADDRESSES AT DINNER.

A dinner was given to the distinguished visitors. After the toasts of "The King" and "The Governor," Sir Basil Brooke, M.P., replied to the toast of "The Government of Northern Ireland."

Mr. Jacob Tavener proposed the toast of "The Ulster Industries Development Association," to which the President, Mr. James Clelland, responded, and paid a tribute to the whole-hearted support they had received from the Nationalist leader, Mr. Joseph Devlin, and the Labour leader, Mr. Samuel Kyle.

Mr. S. Gamble, Secretary, read a letter from Lord Craigavon, wishing all success to the shopping week. His lordship stated that he had been greatly impressed by his recent visit to their creamery and co-operative stores, and by the evidence of general prosperity in the town and neighbourhood. The great majority of their wants could be supplied locally, obviating any necessity to purchase from foreign countries. If the inhabitants of their province would ask for, and see that they obtained Ulster-made goods, and if the shopkeepers and their assistants would push Ulster goods to the exclusion of all others, and educate the public to appreciate the advantages which would accrue to farmers, manufacturers, and workpeople by loyal adherence to this good principle, there was no bounds to the prosperity which it would generate.

He concluded with thanking all those who had showed him so much kindness during his recent visit.

BATON CHARGES IN BOMBAY.

SUMMARY JUSTICE FOR PICKETERS.

From "The Times" Correspondent.

BOMBAY, Monday.

After last night's heavy rain, to-day has been fine, and Congress pickets have been active in defiance of the Ordinance.

Early in the morning twenty-six pickets were arrested—most of them in Esplanade and Hornby roads—and later were sentenced to four months' rigorous imprisonment. Their places were taken by other pickets, whose arrest during the luncheon hour led to the assembling of large crowds in Hornby road, which quickly re-formed after each charge made by the police. Traffic was suspended for some time, and it became necessary to call out a large force of armed and unarmed police.

There has been talk of a prolonged hartal (cessation of work) as a protest against the arrests, but it is not likely to take place so long as women pickets, who are now chiefly employed in picketing cloth shops in the bazaar, are not arrested. Sir Frederick Sykes, the Governor, who spent the week-end here, is going to Sholapur with the Home Member tomorrow.

It is reported that Pandit Motilal Nehru, Acting President of the Congress, is being invited to come to Bombay to lead the civil disobedience movement.

EUROPEAN STORE PICKETED.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

BOMBAY, Monday.

A large and excited crowd, composed mostly of Parsees, gathered this afternoon in front of Whiteaway and Laidlaw's, one of the largest European department stores in the city, where a strong police force has been quartered to deal with picketers.

A report was spread abroad that one of the picketers had been assaulted, and in a few minutes a crowd gathered to booh and jeer at the constables. The latter made several charges with light canes, and slightly injured ten of the mob.

Picketing of liquor shops is proceeding peacefully in the northern part of the city, where no arrests have been made by the authorities.

A ROMAN BASILICA.

The Times Rome Correspondent telegraphed yesterday:—The Patriarchal Basilica of San Paolo Fuori le Mura (St. Paul's outside the walls) is soon to be handed over by the Italian Government to the Holy See, in accordance with the terms of the Treaty of the Lateran. The delay in so doing has been caused by the wish of the Italian Government to complete various works of restoration and embellishment which have been going on since the destructive fire of 1923.

One of the most magnificent embellishments is a new baptistry designed in the shape of a Greek cross. The font is at once simple and archaic in design and at the same time richly adorned with malachite, mother-of-pearl, lapis lazuli and bronze. The floor has also been decorated with some fine mosaics. Moreover, there are being made for the Basilica some bronze gates which, to judge from the photographic reproductions in the Osservatore Romano, will be strikingly handsome, and give scenes from the lives of St. Peter and St. Paul.

RINGSEND BRIDGE.

PEMBROKE COUNCIL ASK FOR INQUIRY.

SALARY INCREASES.

Mr. J. W. Brittain, Chairman, presided at a meeting of the Pembroke Urban Council last night.

An application came up for consideration from the School Attendance officers—Mrs. Lynch and Miss Blake—that their maximum salaries be increased from £110 to £150, and their annual increments from £5 to £10. It was pointed out that the income, with bonus, of Mrs. Lynch was £199 18s., and that of Miss Blake £193 1s.

The Chairman said that these ladies had a jolly soft job, and were getting good pay for the work that they were doing.

Mr. B. O'Connor, T.D., said that they had only a few hours' work a day to do.

Mr. McMillan considered that the increase was too large.

Mr. Sullivan said that the ladies had important duties to perform, and they did them well.

On a division, the application was granted by five votes to three, two members not voting.

RINGSEND BRIDGE.

On the motion of Mr. J. Maguire, seconded by Mr. McMillan, the following resolution was adopted:—"That this Council, recognising the grave danger that exists to pedestrians and vehicular traffic crossing Ringsend Bridge, and the vague and unsatisfactory reply received from the City Commissioners regarding the portion that is within the city area, we respectfully request the Minister to hold an inquiry into the matter immediately."

THE EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS.

A letter was read from the thirty-first International Eucharistic Congress requesting that permission might be given that Ringsend Park and Pembroke Park Club be utilised as a camping ground during the congress period, which would probably be from 19th to 26th June, 1932, inclusive.

On the motion of Mr. McMillan, seconded by Mr. Maguire, the request was acceded to.

SEALS IN THE LIFFEY.

Mr. Maguire said that he wished to refer to a matter that affected the bread and butter of several people living in the district, namely, the destruction of salmon by seals in the Liffey. The number of salmon caught in that district this year was infinitesimal as compared with what it used to be. It was brought to his notice that the approximate number of salmon destroyed was about 600. The seals could be seen taking them out of the river, and in some cases salmon which were caught in the nets were eaten by seals. He proposed a resolution that, owing to the number of salmon destroyed by seals the Minister for Fisheries be asked to take steps to prevent it, by having men armed at the proper time to shoot the seals.

Mr. Sullivan seconded the resolution.

Mr. B. O'Connor said that he had approached the Minister on the matter, and steps were being taken to have expert shots who would shoot the seals. They were waiting for the right kind of rifle.

The resolution was passed.

MEETING OF EMPIRE POLICE CHIEFS.

CONFERENCE OPENS IN LONDON.

The ceaseless war which the authorities are waging against the criminal will be advanced a stage by the Imperial Conference of Police Chiefs, which began at Peel House, London, yesterday. It is the first time anything of the kind has been held, and it is confidently anticipated that the many police chiefs attending—even remote outposts of the British Empire are represented—will benefit considerably from the interchange of views and ideas that will take place.

For the first time in history, representatives of the police of India and the Colonies and Dominions are sitting, together with representatives of Great Britain, to discuss every subject connected with the police and their relation to crime and the criminal. Lectures prepared by acknowledged authorities and dealing with the higher scientific side of criminal investigation will be delivered daily.

The conference is meeting under the authority of the Home Office, and the arrangements have been made by Scotland Yard. Never before has anything of such an elaborate and extensive character been attempted.

Unfortunately from the public point of view, the proceedings must be held in private. There will be eleven full days, and during this time most subjects which have a bearing upon the prevention and detection of crime and the administration of police will be discussed.

WIDE RANGE OF SUBJECTS.

Sir Leonard Dunning, Inspector of Constabulary, will lecture on discretion in prosecutions; Major T. H. Vitty, Engineer at the "Yard," on police motor cars, boats and wireless; Dr. I. Jones, Chief Medical Officer of the Metropolitan Police, on the duties of a Police Surgeon; Chief Inspector Battley on a single finger print system; Sir Bernard Spilsbury on pathology; Dr. Roche Lynch on blood—examination of stains and poisons, toxicology and forensic questions; Mr. J. F. Moylan on foundations and principles of the British police systems; the Hon. Sir Trevor Bigham, the head of the C.I.D., on the training of detective officers; Mr. J. S. Pool Godsell, of the Ministry of Transport, on traffic problems; Dr. Ainsworth Mitchell on identifications; Mr. J. Maxwell, Chief Constable of Manchester, on police administration in an urban area, and Mr. R. Churchill, firearms expert to the Metropolitan Police, on firearms identification.

THE DELEGATES.

The conference began its sittings yesterday, and the delegates attending included the Chief Constables and Assistant Chief Constables of the counties, cities and boroughs of Great Britain, the Metropolitan Police, the Royal Ulster Constabulary; the Superintendent, British Columbia; Superintendents and Inspector-Generals of the Indian Police Force from Madras, Bengal, United Provinces, Punjab, Burma, Bihar and Orissa, Assam and Bombay, and Commissioners and Superintendents of the Colonial Police Forces from the Malay States, Gold Coast, Ceylon, Jamaica, Kenya and Nigeria.

TEACHERS AND THE BIBLE.

Newtownards and North Down Branch of the Ulster Teachers' Union met in the Good Templar Hall, NEWTOWNARDS, on Saturday evening when the following resolution was passed after discussion:—"That, inasmuch as it would appear from a consideration of the proceedings at a recent meeting of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland that certain parts of the Bible are unreliable, and as we object to teach legendary folk tales under the guise of religion, we ask the local Education Committees to suspend the giving of Bible instruction in the transferred schools until the theological experts have decided what parts of the Bible are worthy of credence."

BALLINGARRY CHURCH RE-OPENED.

On Trinity Sunday, in BALLINGARRY, Co. Limerick, there was an interesting Service in connection with the re-opening of the church after extensive renovation. The history of the parish has recently been published by the Rector, the Rev. G. F. Hamilton, and the improvements in the church, whose story he has put on record, are due to his generous leadership and the liberality of parishioners and friends, supplemented by a grant from the Beresford Fund. The improvements include beautifully carved oak prayer desk and pulpit, the former being the gift of Mrs. Malony, in memory of her husband, Dr. Malony, who for many years lived in the parish. New chancel rails and new carpet and cover for the Holy Table have been provided, and tiles for the floor of the church, which now is one of the most artistically furnished small churches in the diocese. There was a large attendance at the Service, which was said by the Rector and the Bishop, the latter giving an address.

FERMANAGH COUNTY COUNCIL.

The first meeting of the new FERMANAGH County Council was held yesterday, Sir Basil S. Brooke, Chairman of the old Council, presiding. Barton, D.S.O., was unanimously elected vice-chairman. Mr. George Elliott (U.) was unanimously co-opted. The Nationalists put forward Captain Verschoyle, late independent Unionist member for Irvinestown, against Mr. Laurence Tubman, J.P., but Mr. Tubman was co-opted by 11 votes to 9. When the various committees had been elected, Mr. J. C. Connor, who stood as an independent, and who was not selected upon any committee, made a protest, stating: "I want to congratulate you all for your splendid toleration. Note will be taken of it in more parts of the country than in my own."

Wallace, Deputy Coroner, into the circumstances of the deaths of Robert McSpadden, of Rochester street, Belfast, and Robert Porter, Carrington street, both of whom were killed when a lorry with a week-end party overturned between Helen's Bay and Bangor on Saturday evening. Dr. L. G. McCune, Helen's Bay, said that Porter had died from a fractured skull and hemorrhage; McSpadden had his skull broken in several places. Death in this case was due to laceration of the brain and fracture of the skull. The jury returned a verdict in accordance with the medical evidence, death having been caused by the men being thrown from the motor lorry. The driver of the lorry, William Henry Johnston, who is under arrest, will come before the magistrates on the 20th inst.

U.S. MARKETS.

STOCKS CLOSE VERY WEAK.

Reuter's Telegrams.

NEW YORK, Monday.

Following a weak opening, the tightening of margin requirements and heaviness of commodity prices, together with a lack of encouraging business news, caused one of the most drastic liquidating movements of the year, and also encouraged further "bear" attacks. Scores of issues declined anything from 4 to 20 points, with more than 150 stocks reaching new low levels for 1930 or longer, including a wide assortment of Investment Rails. The decline was accompanied by fresh breaks in wheat and cotton and a further reduction in export copper, while the weakness of Gasolene prices was particularly discouraging. The influence of the Tariff measure was difficult to determine, but it was rumoured that some interests, displeased with the measure, were heavy short sellers, and that some liquidation appeared from traders who feared its influence on foreign trade. In the late dealings all attempts to steady the market were unavailing. High and medium-priced pool favourites offered the most vulnerable points, Allied Chemical, American Canadian, American Machine Foundry, American Tobacco Issues, Westinghouse Electric, United Aircraft, Vanadium, Houston Oil, Du Pont, Case Threshing Machine, and A.M. Buyers breaking 10 to 22 points; while numerous prominent Utilities and Public Utility Holding Companies, such as United Corporation, United Gas Improvement, and International Telephone and Telegraph dipped 2 to 6 points. United States Steel broke through all resistance, and declined 4 points. The market closed extremely weak, with the "ticker" 48 minutes late. Government Bonds firm; Railroad Bonds irregular.

Money on call closed steady at 2½ per cent. bid and 2¾ per cent. asked. All loans were made at 2½ per cent. Sterling exchange quiet. Silver ⅜c. lower at 33⅜.

WINNIPEG GRAINS.

WHEAT commenced easy at ⅞c. to 1½c. fall. Prices fell on a sharp break in Liverpool, weakness of the Buenos Ayres market, and news of beneficial showers over virtually the entire Western belt during the week-end. The downward trend was assisted by reports that exporters were offering wheat to the United Kingdom at 10½d. decline on favourable weather and crop advices from Central Europe, together with a further advance in the Italian export duty. Towards the close there was a partial rally on covering operations. The close was weak, 4⅝c. to 4⅛c. down. Opening options—July, 103¼; Oct., 106½; Dec., 107½. Closing options—July, 99½; Oct., 103⅝; Dec., 104¾. Rye easy at 2⅜c. loss. Closing options—July, 49½; Oct., 53½; Dec., 56½. Oats barely steady at ⅜c. to ½c. decline. NEW YORK COTTON.

COTTON at the opening was easy and 27 to 6 points down. Heavy July liquidation took place, and general selling developed on lower Liverpool cables and generally favourable weather and crop news, together with continued adverse trade reports and weakness of the Stock and Grain markets. A partial rally occurred later due to covering and reactionary buying; then selling was renewed owing to the continuance of weakness on Wall street. The market closed easy, with old contracts 31 to 37 points down and new contracts 46 to 40 points lower. Spot quiet at 50 points decline. At New Orleans futures opened 34 to 17 points down, and closed 56 to 42 points lower. Spot lost 58 points.

KINGSTOWN REGATTA.

ROYAL ST. GEORGE YACHT CLUB "AT HOME."

Kingstown Harbour was a memorable sight for the opening of the Kingstown Regatta yesterday afternoon. Every ship, large and small, in the harbour, was dressed with flags and bunting, while flags flew from the yacht clubs and the principal buildings in the town. It seemed as if everyone was eager to welcome the visiting yachts, and especially Sir Thomas Lipton's America Cup challenger, Shamrock V.

One could not have picked a more beautiful setting—the deep blue of the sea showed under a cloudless sky, and the hot sun was nicely tempered by a slight easterly breeze.

The members of the Royal St. George Yacht Club held their annual "At Home," some hundreds of guests being entertained in their spacious club premises.

The club and its surroundings looked very picturesque, the floral decorations being much admired. Masses of lilies, hydrangeas and carnations made a lovely display in the halls and passages. The balconies outside the clubrooms afforded a splendid view of the racing, and the visitors thoroughly enjoyed sitting out and listening to the Dublin Metropolitan Guards' Band, who played a delightful selection of music on the lower terrace during the afternoon. An excellent tea, which included ices and iced drinks, was served in the dining-room.

Light frocks, in most cases, were concealed beneath smart wraps, but occasional glimpses of more nautical costumes were observed during the afternoon as the various racing yachts landed their crews below the clubhouse.

SOME DRESSES.

Lady Talbot de Malahide wore a smart two-piece suit of beige hopsack, with a hat of sealing-wax red straw. Lady Grubb came in a navy ensemble, with small toque of the same shade. Lady Goulding's white crepe-de-chine suit had a pleated skirt, and she wore a bright green hat. Mrs. Gregg wore a pale grey coat over a frock of the same shade, and her hat was of fine black straw. She was accompanied by Miss M. Gregg, in a beige suit and small hat to tone. The Hon. Mrs. Charles Guinness came in a pink flowered frock and black coat, with hat of black lace straw.

Mrs. F. Darley's black crepe-de-chine frock was relieved with orange trimmings, a like shade trimming her large black straw hat, and Miss Darley wore a frock of green spotted crepe-de-chine, with beige hat. A pretty grey lace toilette was worn by Mrs. Armstrong, and a hat of royal blue straw, with feather mount. Mrs. Ball was in black, relieved with white, and a black banku hat. Mrs. Casey was dressed in black, with grey embossed velvet coat, and hat to match; while Mrs. Kennedy had a two-piece ensemble of pale pink georgette, with hat of the same shade. Mrs. Chaworth Nolan was in a black and white foulard frock, with smart black hat. Mrs. John Garvey's black crepe-de-chine frock was worn with a coat of pale green and a black hat. Miss Riall came in a green hat, and a frock of black crepe-de-chine. A black crepe-de-chine and lace frock was worn by Mrs. Budd, under a coat of flowered crepe-de-chine, and a navy straw hat. Mrs. Day was in black, and also Mrs Turbett. Mrs. McBeth was dressed in black lace, with embossed velvet cloak and panne hat. Miss Hughes wore a beige coat over her blue spotted crepe-de-chine frock, and a hat of black straw. Miss Ina Kenny was attired in a petunia ensemble. Mrs. Stewart wore black georgette, and Miss Stewart came in blue, with a small blue straw hat. Miss Smyly's pink frock was worn with a black coat and hat of black straw.

SERPENTINE MIXED BATHING.

IRISH GIRL AWARDED BRONZE MEDAL.

From Our Own Correspondent.

LONDON, Monday.

A premature attempt by two girls to open the mixed bathing season in the Serpentine Lido, in Hyde Park, ended disastrously at six a.m. to-day. The two girls, among about a dozen others, arrived with the intention of having a dip, but discovered that mixed bathing would not be allowed until 4.30 p.m. They determined to have their swim, so they rapidly undressed and dived in. Policemen appeared and the two pioneers were ingloriously ordered out and served with summonses for breaking the by-laws.

An Irish girl, Miss Katherine Murphy, of Yaxham Cottage, Pinner, remained under a tree close to the pavilion. She had been one of the first to enter the park when the gates opened, at five o'clock. Other girls arrived during the day, but Miss Murphy maintained her position, and entered the water on the stroke of half-past four. Being the official opener of the mixed bathing season in the Serpentine, she was awarded a bronze medal, specially struck for the occasion, by Mr. Alfred Rowley, the President of the Serpentine Swimming Club. She was cheered when she entered the water by a large crowd of spectators. The banks were lined with people, and at several points the iron railings were broken down and the crowd pushed through the police cordon round the bathing tents and cubicles.

Receipts—Atlantic ports, 3,000 bales; Gulf, 1,000; interior towns, 3,000.

Exports—Continent, 4,000 bales.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Monday.

WHEAT was easy at the opening, 1⅜c. to ¾c. lower, owing to weakness on all outside markets and disappointing export buying. Further declines were encouraged by news of fine rains in the Central West, excellent harvesting weather in large areas of Texas and Oklahoma, heavy South-Western hedge selling, and private reports of very promising crop conditions in North Dakota. The market finished weak at losses of 2⅞c. to 3⅜c.

FIT AND VIGOROUS IN A WEEK
FRESH ENERGY AND CONFIDENCE after a few days on PHOSFERINE which restored Sleep, Nerves and Appetite to First-Class Condition.

Mr. James Cutmore, the well-known Essex County Professional Cricketer, writes:—

"WHEN I was first recommended to use Phosferine, I was a little doubtful. Now I know that the many men and women who have written to you have in no way exaggerated the efficacy of your really excellent nerve tonic. I know this because I have tried it and proved that for health and vigour Phosferine is all that a nerve tonic can be. It restores one to first class condition. Just prior to the commencement of the present cricket season I had concluded a lengthy concert tour entailing considerable travelling, and was very run down, nervous and could not sleep. I took the advice of a friend and went in for a course of Phosferine, and in about a week I was a new man and enjoying once more refreshing sleep, eating better and altogether viewing life with new confidence. To Phosferine I owe the fact that I was able to commence this season's cricket campaign in a state of real fitness."

MISS JOHNSON IN MELBOURNE.

◆

'PLANE FORCED DOWN ON WAY TO CITY.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Miss Amy Johnson stayed overnight at Wangaratta, and left this morning for Melbourne in an aeroplane piloted by Major de Haviland. The aeroplane was forced to come down at Seymour owing to the weather, and Miss Johnson arrived here over two hours late.

Huge crowds braved the cold and wet and gave the airwoman a wonderful ovation.

The next few days will be taken up with a round of social functions. There will be a civic reception this afternoon.

SIGNAL HONOUR.

The authorities here have granted Miss Amy Johnson's wish to be an Australian commercial pilot. Colonel Brinsmead, Director of Civil Aviation, to-day presented her with a No. 1 aircraft certificate—the first ever given to a woman in Australia. He said that she had shown herself well fitted to receive that honour.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

SYDNEY, Monday.

On Wednesday last 56,911 persons paid to see Miss Amy Johnson's aeroplane, Jason's Quest. The total receipts were £1,423.

MR. JOHNSON IN NEW YORK.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Monday.

Described as the most popular man in the party, Mr. J. W. Johnson, the father of Miss Amy Johnson, who was accompanied by his wife and their younger daughter, Molly, found himself besieged by congratulations on his daughter's achievement as he stepped ashore with the party of 186 Rotarians who are visiting America to attend the Rotary Silver Jubilee Convention in Chicago this month.

The visitors found a full programme of entertainments prepared for them during their stay in New York.

Leslie Turkington (27), described as a free lance journalist, of Sutherland avenue, Maida Vale, was remanded for a week at Marylebone yesterday, charged with the murder of Hilda Harrison (33), who was found dying in the area of a house early on Sunday morning.

A twenty-one-year-old servant, Sophia Harkness, employed by a doctor at Benwell, Northumberland, was found dead in bed yesterday, with a chloroform pad over her mouth. It is believed that the girl obtained cotton wool and chloroform from the doctor's surgery on Sunday night.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE

ASCOT FANCIES.

BROWN JACK'S GOOD CHANCE.

COURSE SHOULD SUIT BALLYFERIS.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Monday Night.

A little rain fell this morning, but the glass is steady. The sun has been shining all the afternoon, and there is every indication that Ascot will open to-morrow on a high note.

There was a call-over of the card on the Royal Hunt Cup this morning, and Mr. S. B. Joel's Fleeting Memory was a slightly better favourite for money than Le Phare and Racedale. The betting was, however, light, and I am inclined to doubt whether Fleeting Memory will actually start first favourite. I expect many changes in the prices from those quoted at the call-over when the real betting on the race begins.

INTERESTING CARD.

It is a vastly interesting programme with which the meeting begins. In the first event, the Queen Anne Stakes, which is substituted for the Trial Stakes, a tardy compliment to the Royal Lady who founded the meeting, BALLYFERIS seems to be given an excellent chance, as the distance, the Hunt Cup course, should suit him admirably.

BROWN JACK takes his chance again in the Ascot Stakes, and it looks to me a very good one. His record in the race is a magnificent one, and I like his chance to-morrow very much.

If CAMERONIAN waits for the New Stakes on Thursday then SIR ANDREW, who won in good style at York should be returned the winner of the Coventry Stakes.

The Queen Mary Stakes will see a big field, and several will be fancied. I suggest CAROLA each way as a speculation that may be remunerative.

PAL O' MINE is coming from Middleham to run for the Prince of Wales' Stakes, and he is confidently expected to win, while in the St. James's Palace Stakes I choose RUSTOM PASHA to atone for his Derby defeat. This mile will be more to his liking than the mile and a half at Epsom.

GALTEE MORE.

SPORTING GOSSIP.

Wedding at Newmarket.

Mr. George S. Colling, son of R. W. Colling, the trainer, and Miss Kathleen Barling, daughter of F. B. Barling, were married at Newmarket yesterday. The ceremony took place at Snailwell Church, the Rev. E. Poweles officiating.

Hotweed Arrives.

M. Esmond's Hotweed arrived at Folkestone yesterday from Boulogne, accompanied by Tereus and a two-year-old filly, Pearl Cap. They had travelled to Boulogne from Chantilly by special train, and crossed the Channel in the s.s. Biarritz, one of the passenger steamers. Hotweed is engaged in the Ascot Gold Cup on Thursday, Tereus in the Gold Vase this afternoon, and Pearl Cap in the Fern Hill Stakes on Wednesday, and the King's Stand Stakes on Friday.

Probable English Runners for Irish Derby

In the Irish Derby, to be run at the Curragh on June 25th, Lord Astor's colours will be carried by Writ, Trews having been struck out. Other English-trained horses likely to run are Grey Bachelor, Rock Star, Bennachie and North Drift. Rock Star was beaten a neck by Glannarg in the Irish Two Thousand Guineas, and the Irish colt is not engaged in the Derby.

Blenheim's Stud Fee.

It is understood, says a Paris message, that the Derby winner, Blenheim, will, at the conclusion of his three-year-old season, be sent to the stud at Marly Le Ville. The stud fee is stated to have been fixed at £400, and the list of serving in the first year will be strictly limited to twenty brood mares, including fifteen approved mares from abroad. The French owner, M. Alphon Salvador, has been the first to enter a mare.

French Horses for Ascot.

Mr. Wertheimer's La Fayette, trained by Charles Bartholomew at Chantilly, arrived at Folkestone on Saturday and proceeded by train to Ascot. La Fayette, who was accompanied by Epinal and Zambelli, is engaged in the Cork and Orrery Stakes on Thursday, and in the King's Stand Stakes on Friday. Zambelli holds an engagement in the Fern Hill Stakes on Wednesday, and the Granville Stakes on Thursday, while Epinal figures among the entry for the Forest High-Weight Handicap at Windsor on Saturday.

Irish Horses for India.

Billy Kelly (4 yrs.) and Spring Double (3 yrs.) have left Mr. J. J. Parkinson's stable at the Curragh, having been sold to go to India. Inquisator (2 yrs.), from the Brownstown House stable, and Corn Flake (3 yrs.), from the Conyngham Lodge stable, have also left Ireland for India.

ROSCOMMON.

TO-DAY'S SELECTIONS.

The hard going at the training grounds is commencing to have an effect on the fields at the race meetings, and at to-day's fixture at Roscommon there will be a walk-over in one race and only two runners in another. However, the other races should turn out satisfactory, and we are promised a splendid contest for the three miles steeplechase, which, strange to say, has attracted the best field of the day, seven runners having been declared for it. The train leaves Broadstone at 9.30 this morning and returns from Roscommon at 7 o'clock. Selections:—

ASCOT TO-DAY: PROBABLE STARTERS AND BETTING.

JOYOUS GREETING FANCIED.

TRIMDON MAY WIN THE GOLD VASE.

No race meeting in the world can surpass in brilliance the annual fixture at Ascot, and the gathering which commences on the Royal Heath this afternoon promises to live up to the very highest traditions. It is expected that the King and Queen and other memebrs of the Royal Family will be present on each afternoon, and the only thing needed to ensure the success of the fixture is fine weather.

The card down for decision at the initial stage is a very attractive one, with the Ascot Stakes as the outstanding feature, and, as usual, this will bring into opposition some of the best long-distance horses in training. I understand that last year's winner, Old Orkney, waits for a later engagement at the meeting, and the task of attempting to concede weight all round will, therefore, devolve on Brown Jack, who ran Old Orkney to a short head twelve months ago. So far this season Brown Jack has failed to distinguish himself, but my information is to the effect that he has shown marked improvement in recent home gallops, and that he will again carry the confidence of his connections.

Major Sneyd may find a capable substitute for Old Orkney in Joyous Greeting, who will stay every inch of the journey, and I recollect the smart performance this horse put up at Sandown Park last October when winning over the distance of this race. Among his victims on that occasion were Jugo, Bonny Boy II., Poor Man, South Hill and Synot, all of whom are expected to figure among the opposition to-day. I fully expect Joyous Greeting to play a very important part in the finish, and shall be more than surprised if he fails to finish in the first three. Of S. Darling's pair I prefer Brumeux to Poor Man, and others that should run prominently are Coaster, Grease Paint, Richborough and Tanker. In my endeavour to solve a rather difficult problem, I suggest that Joyous Greeting should prove a profitable each-way investment.

The proceedings will commence with the Queen Anne Stakes, in which Ballyferis will endeavour to make amends for his failure in the Derby. The Irish horse has certainly pleased some good judges in his recent home work, but of those weighted above 8st. I have most liking for Sidonia, who put up a smart performance when winning the Londesborough Plate at York last month. The Masher is fancied at Lambourn, and he must have a great chance on his previous running. The Recorder is well spoken of, but in taking sides with Foretopsail I hope to have named the winner.

Some promising juveniles will go to the post for the Coventry Stakes, and F. Darling will saddle a well-fancied candidate in either Lemnarchus or Cameronian, both of whom were winners last time out. Pharian will not lack admirers, but I was so impressed by the stylish manner in which Sir Andrew won at York at the first time of asking that I accord him my vote.

The Gold Vase is another long-distance affair, and should prove a good wagering medium. Visellus, Pinxit, Smoky Light, Ut Majeur and Trimdon read as a quintette likely to supply the winner, and I shall take a chance with the last-named, who has not looked back since finishing second to Bosworth at headquarters last month.

Mr. Persse holds a strong hand in the Queen Mary Stakes with Lindos Ojos and Cicada engaged, and whichever he selects to be represented by should win.

If it is decided to keep Parenthesis for the Prince of Wales's Stakes I should not look beyond him for the winner, and only in his absence would I take sides with Ravenswood.

An easy task appears to await Iliad in the St. James's Palace Stakes, and I make him my best thing of the afternoon.

Queen Anne Stakes—Foretopsail.
Ascot Stakes—Joyous Greeting (each way).

FREE STATE F.A. AND INTERNATIONAL RECOGNITION.

The Council of the Free State F.A. met last night to receive the report of the delegates to the Congress of the International Federation at Budapest.

The report set out that the relations between the F.I.F.A. and the English F.A. on the question of the payment of "broken time" for amateurs remains unsettled. The majority of the members of the F.I.F.A. were anxious to again have the British bodies in membership.

The Free State delegates received the full sympathy of the Executive of the F.I.F.A. in their claims in international matters. With regard to the claims for international recognition, the delegates explained the Free State's position at length, and pointed out that the matter would arise on the agenda of the meeting of the International Board at Bournemouth. The delegates stated the case, so that the F.I.F.A. representatives at Bournemouth would know the history of the matter before they attended.

MATCH WITH SPAIN.

An invitation was received from Spain to play an international match either in the Free State or in Spain, and tentative arrangements were made by the Council for the playing of the match in Dublin in September next.

THE TEST MATCH.

AUSTRALIA SET 429 RUNS TO GET FOR VICTORY.

HOBBS AND SUTCLIFFE IN ANOTHER CENTURY PARTNERSHIP.

HENDREN BATS WELL, BUT MISSES PONSFORD.

As the Test match stands, Australia needs 369 runs for victory, with nine wickets to fall and six and a half hours for play.

The feature of yesterday's play was a delightful innings by Hobbs, who was in his best form, and with Sutcliffe put on 125 for the first wicket, this being the tenth century first wicket partnership between the pair in Test matches.

In the course of the day's play Hobbs and Hendren reached their thousand runs for the season.

The greatest number of runs ever registered in the fourth innings of a Test match between England and Australia is 411 by A. E. R. Gilligan's 1924-25 team in Australia.

THE GAME DESCRIBED.

Again favoured with splendid weather, even if the sun did not shine so brilliantly as on Saturday, the Test match, in its third stage attracted such a large crowd to Trent Bridge yesterday that before one o'clock the gates were closed, several thousands of would-be spectators being debarred from witnessing the cricket. A few hundred adventurous spirits scaled the walls, but this mode of gaining admission was soon checked by the police.

E. P. HENDREN.

England, after completing a first innings of 270, disposed of eight of their opponents for 140 and entered upon the day's cricket in a very strong position, and this they consolidated so thoroughly that the Australians, to escape defeat to-day, will have to accomplish a performance of exceptional merit. Fifteen minutes' play at the start sufficed to finish off Australia's innings for 144, their remaining wickets falling in fifteen minutes for the addition of four runs. Kippax, who carried out his bat for 64, played a great game for his side under very trying conditions. Going in third wicket down at 16 he withstood England's attack for more than two hours and a half, forcing the game strongly at first, whilst his partner defended stubbornly, and afterwards exercising considerable restraint, but always displaying skill as well as judgment. Among his varied strokes were eight 4's. In all, Australia's innings lasted three hours and a half. Tate, after his sensational work in disposing of the three crack batsmen, did not meet with any other success, but always bowled well, as did Larwood, and Robins, if at times failing to keep a length, took four wickets for 51. As he also scored 50, the old Cantab more than justified his selection.

Opinions differed at the start of the day as to how the wicket would play, but after two applications of the heavy roller it showed itself to have recovered its firm condition. Of this happy state of things Hobbs and Sutcliffe, on opening England's second innings, took full advantage, the famous pair staying together for rather more than an hour and fifty minutes and raising the score to 125. This was the tenth occasion upon which they had shared in a three figure first wicket partnership in matches between England and Australia. Rarely have they shown greater skill.

HOBBS AT HIS BEST.

This was particularly the case with Hobbs, who, playing with a freedom he scarcely ever allowed himself in the great games in Australia, placed the ball with all his well-known cleverness, ran between the wickets daringly but judiciously, and made delightful strokes all round the wicket. For a long time he scored twice as fast as his colleague, reaching 58 when Sutcliffe was 29. Among his hits—all delightfully executed—were ten 4's. When he brought his score to 25 he completed his 1,000 for the season.

Lunch time arrived with the total at 129 and only Hobbs out, England at that point being 255 runs on with nine wickets to fall. This was, of course, a position so strong as practically to preclude any possibility of defeat, but the game on resuming took a turn so markedly in favour of Australia as to alter the outlook materially. In Wall's first over Sutcliffe, with his score at 55, experienced, as on Friday, the luck of being missed off Wall's bowling by Hornibrook at slip. A little later he again underwent an experience of Friday in being hit on the hand by Wall, and on this occasion the hurt proved so serious that the Yorkshireman, who, apart from the one chance, had batted admirably for two hours in scoring 58, was compelled to retire from the field. This misfortune for England was speedily followed by two others. Hammond at Trent Bridge has never made more than 27, and was leg before to Grimmett for the second time in the match, Woolley just afterwards being clean bowled in playing back to Wall. In this way the game had so changed that there were three men out for 147. Indeed, in the course of 40 minutes after the resumption, two wickets fell, a batsman was disabled, and only 18 runs scored. England's long lead in the first innings prevented the position from being one of anxiety, but still there existed some prospect of a collapse, which, after such a start as Hobbs and Sutcliffe had given the side, would have furnished a severe indictment of English cricket. Happily for the home side, Hendren and Chapman not only checked the breakdown, but batted so freely that, in 40 minutes, they increased the score by 64 runs, the total standing at 211 when Chapman played a ball on to his stumps. Hendren had not started in convincing form, but he soon settled down, and, when joined by Tate, completed a capital 50, as the result of an hour and a half's batting. Increasing his score to 55, he, like Hobbs, completed his 1,000 runs for the season. Tate helped him to put on 39 in thirty-five minutes, and then was taken low down at long leg by Kippax, who, curiously enough, had not previously made a single catch in England.

T. WALL.

Robins failing, there were six men out for 278 at the tea interval. When the players returned to the field, two wickets fell for 5 runs. A catch in the slips disposed of Hendren, who, if not producing quite his best form, rendered invaluable service. Batting nearly two hours, Hendren hit eight 4's in his 72. Grimmett soon bowled Larwood, but Duckworth and Tyldesley not only made the score the highest hit against the present Australian team—the previous best being 287 by Middlesex—but raised the total to 302 before Grimmett dismissed Tyldesley. The fall of the ninth wicket, with Sutcliffe unable to resume batting, brought the innings, which had lasted four hours forty minutes, to a close at 5.20, for 302.

No one bowled better than Wall, who maintaining a fine pace and excellent direction, disposed of three batsmen for 67. So good was his work at one period that it aroused general cheering. Once again Grimmett showed himself the most effective bowler. As in the first innings, he took five wickets, and if more than 200 runs were hit from him there could be no question about the trouble he caused his opponents.

AUSTRALIA'S BIG TASK.

Set 429 runs to win, Australia, going in to bat rather before twenty minutes to six, had, assuming a full day's cricket to-day, about seven hours twenty minutes in which to accomplish that formidable task. Thus, the rate of scoring required was well under sixty runs an hour, so that aspect of the question presented no serious difficulty. Still, the prospects were, of course, all against such a heavy number of runs being obtained, even if there existed no need to push along at any considerable pace. To date the largest number of runs ever registered in a fourth innings of a Test match between England and Australia is 411, obtained by Arthur Gilligan's team at Sydney in the first Test match of the tour of 1924-25. The Englishmen, being set 605 to win, lost on that occasion, despite their gallant effort, by 193.

Sutcliffe, owing to the injury he had sustained, did not field, so Duleepsinhji was called upon to complete the home eleven. Woodfull took Ponsford in with him, and Larwood and Tate shared the attack. Larwood bowled at such a pace that neither batsman could time him at all. Indeed, in the course of twenty minutes four byes proved the one noteworthy contribution to the score, and this had only reached 12 when, for the second time in the match, a catch by Chapman in the gulley disposed of Woodfull.

A second wicket should have fallen at 14, but off Tate's bowling Hendren, fielding close in at short leg, missed Ponsford when that batsman had made 4. Had Hendren taken that chance the issue of the match must have been rendered a foregone conclusion. Bradman started with a dangerous stroke over the slips, but he soon settled down in bright fashion, and Ponsford made no more mistakes. Robins was soon called upon to relieve Larwood, but he could get no length, and the batsmen making most of their opportunities 50 was on the board in three-quarters of an hour. Curiously enough, Chapman did not call on Larwood again, but gave a trial to Tyldesley. A very bright partnership of half an hour produced 48 runs, and then stumps were drawn with the score 60, Australia, with nine wickets to fall, wanting 369 more runs for victory, and having, presumably, six hours and a half in which to accomplish the task.

H. SUTCLIFFE.

The official return of the attendance showed that there were 27,328 people to see the third stage of the match. The exact number paying for admission was 17,828, and there were 4,000 reserved seats for spectators, in addition to 5,500 members of the Notts County Club.

BRIGHT BATTING IN COLLEGE PARK.

A. D. BARBER'S CENTURY.

The scoring was high yesterday in College Park, where Dublin University commenced a two-day fixture with Cork County.

Batting first, Trinity, in a little under four hours, scored 391. Cork County, in two, replied with 167 for seven wickets.

The outstanding feature of the University innings was the batting of A. D. Barber and P. Dixon. The former, who opened the innings with O. S. Skeffington, topped the century by one. At no time enterprising in his methods, Barber played a right good innings. He had a couple of "lives" before he reached the half-century, but afterwards he played with confidence, and his figures included ten boundaries. Dixon played a bright innings, and had the bad luck to be stumped when two short of his century. Barber and he added 160 for the third wicket, and he found the boundary eighteen times. W. G. Loughery was not long in knocking up 52, and amongst his hits were one 6 clean over the boundary, and six 4's. J. M. Sullivan had four wickets for 76.

G. A. Thomas batted splendidly for the visitors, and, in partnership with J. A. Delaney, added 77 for the seventh wicket. The former, who made 88, played the bowling with plenty of confidence, and seemed well set for his century when he was held by Loughery. Delaney, who was 32 not out, batted attractively.

A resumption will be made this morning at 11.30.

YACHTING.

SHAMROCK WINS EASILY.

RACING SPOILED BY LACK OF WIND.

FIRST DAY OF KINGSTOWN REGATTA.

By Our Yachting Correspondent.

Will history repeat itself this year? It may be remembered that the revival of Kingstown Regatta took place only last year, and that the first day there was something of a disappointment, owing to the failure of the wind, race after race falling through, the yachts and sail boats giving up the struggle in despair.

Well, that first day of no wind was followed by a second with far too much wind. Indeed, many will remember the acute angles which some of the big cutters heeled over to in the puffs. Shamrock, for one; not the Shamrock which is with us to-day, but the 23 metres cutter, which has not been fitted out this season.

Yesterday was a replica in many ways of the first day of 1929. Will to-day, therefore, be like that of the previous second day? Some say yes, and are hoping for it, they wanting to see the Cup Challenger in a breeze. We think they will be disappointed. If we have a decent breeze, we will be fully content, and so will be all moderate people. All that is needed is a wind strong and steady enough to give a yacht an all-round test of sailing, and, after yesterday's experience, too great a price often can be paid for summer weather.

LIKE OLD TIMES.

By the way, it was quite like old times yesterday at Kingstown on regatta day. The big cutters, and, more particularly, the Cup Challenger, Shamrock V., are irresistible attractions, and the crowd which gathered for the start in the morning at the East Pier end, was, we think, about the largest on record. The West Pier end had its votaries, and so too had every vantage point on the shore line. Need it be said that the weather was glorious? So much so that knowing heads were nodded then, and opinions expressed that "the sun would kill the wind."

And it did, as everybody knows. At least, it took all the heart out of it, and it was easy to do that when the breeze is out of the Eastward in Dublin Bay in summertime. As a matter of fact, there was no wind in the early morning hours, a nice breeze about starting time, a failing wind after noon had passed, and the faintest of airs and an ebb tide in the later afternoon.

The morning hours were interesting. The simplicity of modern sail was shown by the ease with which Shamrock V. and Cambria set their canvas. The two gaff mainsail cutters, Lulworth and White Heather II., had to begin a good half-hour before the others, get up their mainsail first and then set topsail. You who read this should know that setting topsails properly is an art in itself.

Neither Shamrock V. nor Cambria had any bother of the kind. They could go leisurely. Their Bermudian mainsails ran up as if by magic. As one old salt expressed it, they were "a good engineering job," and worked accordingly.

One advantage of the direction of the wind—it was from about E.S.E. at starting time—was that it gave a turn to windward on the opening leg of the course—on the last two legs, as a matter of fact. Sightseers, therefore, had a splendid opportunity of seeing the yachts at close quarters, and they reached in and out along the line seeking the best berth for the start, and deciding upon the tack, port or starboard, they would go away on.

COURSE SHORTENED.

It meant a lot to spectators; for, if the choice would be the port tack, this would bring the yachts along the East Pier, whereas the starboard would bring them away from shore. As it happened, Shamrock V., Cambria and Lulworth choose the port tack, and from a sight-seeing point of view nothing could be better. They got a cheer from the crowd on the breakwater as they passed, most of it being directed to the Cup challenger, which is the darling of the crowd.

What happened afterwards is told below. When the wind failed the officers of the day for the Royal St. George Y.C.—Sir Hercules Langrishe, Bart., and Mr. R. H. R. Stewart, the Earl of Meath being with them also—had little option over shortening the course to one round; for at the time the bay literally was in calm, with here and there a stray air or catspaw darkening the surface.

Again the big boats gladdened the hearts of amateur photographers. Their lofty sail-spreads made glorious pictures in the sunlight. Shamrock V. was enthusiastically cheered as she re-entered harbour a winner; nor were the three others forgotten, each one having their particular votaries. By the way, it was a revelation to see how Shamrock's mainsail came off her; eased off it seemed to come down instanter, and gathered in as quickly.

As to the smaller craft, well, theirs is a story mainly of drifting, of catching stray airs, and of making the most of them. The worst off were those whose course brought them around the Barford buoys, the ebb tide being gone most of the time, with the wind always of a paltry order.

THE RACING.

MATCH—For yachts over 21 metres. Winner, £80; second, £30. Course (shortened) 16 miles. Start 11 a.m.

FINISH. H. M. S.

Shamrock V. (winner)—Sir Thomas J. Lipton, Bart., K.C.V.O. ... 3 23 46
Cambria (2nd prize)—Lord Camrose ... 4 7 27
Lulworth—Mr. A. A. Paton, C.B. ... 4 10 21
White Heather II.—Lord Waring ... 4 10 41

Handicap—Shamrock V., Lulworth and White Heather allow Cambria 2 mins. 28 secs. for the 16 miles sailed.

The start was full of hope; for there was a nice little E.S.E. breeze at the time. Lulworth, Cambria and Shamrock V. came for the line on the port tack, and White Heather II. on the starboard, Lulworth holding a lead of 5 secs. from Cambria, 23 secs. from Shamrock V., and 50 secs. from White Heather.

The three on the port tack were looking Dalkey Sound or thereabouts, and Shamrock V. was the first to go about to the starboard, she passing then under Cambria's stern. The latter and Lulworth held on the port much longer. Next Shamrock crossed ahead of White Heather. What all, however, were waiting to see were the positions at the Muglins mark, and here Cambria was clear ahead of all and (approximately) over 2½ mins. ahead of the next boat, which was the Cup challenger, while Lulworth was in third berth.

It was still a beat to the Kish Lightship, but the water from the Barfords out was hidden in a thick easterly haze. The "ship" could not be seen, nor were the yachts when they rounded it in view. Indeed, when next they hove in sight they were on a reach to the Rosbeg, Shamrock V. leading Cambria, the pair being a long distance, ahead of Lulworth and White Heather.

Apparently there was more east in the wind out there, and probably some north in it. That it was failing and failing badly was manifest. Still, there was hope. It was relatively early in the afternoon, and the position was not yet one to despair over.

A HOLLOW VICTORY.

The Rosbeg was made shortly after 2 o'clock p.m. The timing there suggested that the race was over "bar the shouting"; for Shamrock V. led Cambria by 7 mins. 10 secs., Lulworth by 13 mins. 10 secs., and White Heather by 16 mins. 5 secs.

It was a free reach back to harbour, with spinnakers on the port hand. The sails were barely filling. Shamrock V. appeared to keep drawing away from the others. Spinnaker was taken off her; the mark was laid dead ahead, whereas the others pointed much higher up, apparently to allow for a possible drift of the tide. This latter Shamrock did not feel.

Half-way across there was some luffing, or something like it, between Cambria and the other two. It ended in all three having to gybe and eventually run down to the line, at the shore end of which the stopping signal had been flying for some time. In the end Shamrock V. won in hollow style.

MOTOR CYCLING.

IRISH VICTORY IN JUNIOR "T.T."

RACE OF THRILLS.

THE LAP "RECORD" BROKEN NINE TIMES.

The week's motor cycle racing in the Isle of Man commenced yesterday, when the Junior Race for machines of 350 cubic centimetres capacity was brought to issue. Run in brilliant sunshine, which caused tar to ooze from the road in many places, and with the absence of wind the race was notable for the fact that the lap record was beaten no less than nine times during the course of the race, being ultimately raised to 72.22 miles per hour by Nott, while the full distance was covered at 71.08 miles per hour, one mile and a third faster than the previous Junior record.

The race was won by Tyrell Smith (Dublin University) on a Rudge-Whitworth, and two other machines of that make, ridden by Ernest Nott and Graham Walker, respectively, were second and third. Fifty-eight seconds covered the first three, one of the closest finishes seen in the Isle of Man for many years. Excepting for the first lap, in which he was three seconds behind Dodson, last year's Senior winner, Tyrell Smith led throughout the race, but at no time was his victory certain, as, in addition to his team mates, Guthrie, the Scottish champion, and Hicks, last year's winner, were possible winners, for the greater part of the race. Smith, however, rode most consistently throughout, and in the end won by 55 seconds.

H. G. T. TYRELL SMITH.

The manufacturers' team prize was won by Rudge-Whitworth, and the club team prize by the Leinster trio, consisting of Tyrell Smith, Stanley Woods and Charlie Johnston. The only non-starter was Shaw (Belfast), who stood down under medical advice.

THE RACE.

The record breaking commenced with the very first lap. From a standing start, Tyrell Smith beat the lap record by one second, but Dodson's first lap was three seconds faster, and the first circuit ended with this pair in the leading positions, with Hicks, the holder of the trophy, in third place, Willis fourth, Hunt fifth and Guthrie sixth, 92 seconds covering the half dozen. Tyrell Smith again beat the lap record on the second circuit, improving on Dodson's time by 13 seconds, the pair being bracketed for first place. Smith's record did not, however, last long, as Guthrie did one second better for the lap. This lifted him into fifth place, Hicks and Willis being second and third, respectively.

Nott came into the first half dozen, who had now closed to such an extent that 41 seconds covered them. Tyrell Smith again broke the lap record on the third lap by 2 seconds, but again Guthrie improved on the time, doing 7 seconds better. Simultaneously with these announcements came the news that Dobson had retired with valve trouble. Guthrie's record lap brought him into second place at the end of the third lap, 21 seconds behind Tyrell Smith. Willis passed Hicks, becoming third, and Hall, the South African rider, came into fifth place in front of Nott.

The fourth circuit saw another lap record, Graham Walker beating Guthrie's time by one second. For the first time from the start of the race the leaders' speeds now began to drop a little. Tyrell Smith's average to this point was a little over 71 miles per hour. He now led Guthrie by 28 secs. The positions of the first four remained unchanged, but Hall temporarily dropped out of the leading six to give place to Graham Walker. The last-named was now travelling fastest of the field, and took 5 seconds off his lap record on the fifth circuit, exceeding 72 miles an hour, and moved into fourth place, Smith, Guthrie and Nott being in the first three places, with 63 seconds covering the trio.

Guthrie retired with engine trouble on the sixth lap, which ended with the three Rudge riders in the first three places. Tyrell Smith entered the last lap with a lead of 54 seconds from Nott, Walker being 45 seconds behind the latter, and, although the Dublin man was not now quite as fast as his pursuers, he ran out the winner by 35 seconds, Nott being 23 seconds in front of Walker. Of the twelve overseas riders who competed, seven finished—an unexpectedly high proportion.

S. Barwell, riding an Excelsior J.A.P., crashed when taking a hairpin turn at Quarter Bridge at terrific speed and broke his left arm and left leg, and was removed to hospital.

AMERICA CUP DEFENDER.

WEETAMOE REPEATS WIN OVER ENTERPRISE.

NEW YORK, Monday.

Weetamoe, a possible defender of the America Cup against Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V., to-day won the first race of the second series of races to determine the final defender of the Cup. The test was over a course of 25 miles in Long Island Sound, and Weetamoe finished 1 min. 14 secs. ahead of Enterprise, thus repeating her victory of last Thursday, when Enterprise was 1 min. 31 secs. behind Weetamoe.

This was the second straight victory for the Morgan-Nichols Syndicate, the owners of Weetamoe. Whirlwind was leading at the third leg, but fell behind Enterprise. Resolute was fourth and Vanity fifth. The last-named was 22 mins. late at the start of the test.

One man was fatally injured and three other people were injured when a Wigan Corporation double-decker 'bus and a motor cycle came into collision under Buckley Railway Bridge.

ABANDONED CAR.

POLICE SEARCH FOR OWNER.

During the week-end at Clonbroney, between Maryboro' and Mountmellick, a motor car was abandoned by a man, who in a house close by left a handbag and small parcel, and said he would call probably for the car and luggage next day. He added, however: "I may never call for them."

When leaving he met a postman, to whom he said: "I will give you this car, and if I do not call for it in a day or two you may retain it for ever."

The stranger asked the way to Mountmellick Station, and proceeded by the fields. He was then clean-shaven, with a soft hat, but when he arrived at Mountmellick Station he had a moustache and wore a cap.

The car still lies in the bye-road, and Sergeant Leo Maher and other Civic Guards are inquiring into its ownership.

BANK OF INTERNATIONAL SETTLEMENTS.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

BASLE, Monday.

The second official session of the board of directors of the Bank of International Settlements opened this morning at 11.30 under the chairmanship of the President, Mr. Gates MacGarrah. The meeting was devoted to a general discussion of the minutes of the last official session and developments in the meantime. Among the directors present were:—Mr. Montagu Norman (Great Britain), M. Moreau (France), Dr. Siepman (Germany), Dr. Luther (Germany), and Signor Beneducci (Italy).

An extensive moorland and woodland blaze, which had been burning since Sunday in the Black Isle district, near Cromarty, was still blazing last night. An extensive acreage has already been burned, and the weather is so dry that efforts to restrict the fire are of little avail; the only hope is that it will stop at a stream or roadway.

BELFAST LIBEL ACTION.

ALDERMAN'S LETTER TO THE PRESS.

An action for alleged libel brought by Mr. William Chamberlain, manager of the Belfast Tramways, against Alderman W. H. Alexander, Belfast, was started in the King's Bench, Belfast, yesterday, before the Lord Chief Justice.

The libel complained of was contained in a letter published in the Belfast Evening Telegraph on 3rd January, and the Belfast Newsletter and Northern Whig on the following date. In the letter it was alleged that five Corporation 'buses had been put off the street by the police for being mechanically unfit for the road, and it was further alleged that one of these was put on again without being repaired. Plaintiff alleged that the words contained in the letter were intended to mean, and were understood to mean, that plaintiff had been guilty of gross negligence in the discharge of his duty as tramway manager, and had imperilled the lives of thousands of citizens, and that he was incompetent to occupy the office of general manager.

"A FAIRY TALE."

Mr. Murphy, K.C., M.P., for plaintiff, said that the chairman of the Tramway Committee (Councillor McClure) saw the tramway manager when the allegation was made in the Corporation meeting, and the manager stated it was all a fairy tale, and that it emanated from some disgruntled workman. Notwithstanding that denial, Alderman Alexander had repeated the allegation in letters to the newspapers.

Giving evidence, Mr. Chamberlain stated that in December last Alderman Alexander arranged an interview and came to his office. Alderman Alexander said a number of 'buses had been ordered off the streets by the police and the plates removed, and that afterwards they had been sent back without any repairs being effected. Witness told the defendant that so far as his instructions went this could not be true, and he told the Alderman it was a very serious statement to make. At no time was any complaint made by the police on the ground of mechanical defect. When the 'buses were taken over four vehicles were found to require repairs to bring them up to Corporation standard, and these were sent to outside contractors. One of these was objected to by the police after it was repaired, and it was made all right before being placed on public service.

The Lord Chief Justice—I think you may ask him not only whether the police complained of mechanical defect, but whether in truth or in fact any of the 'buses were mechanically defective.

Mr. Lowry asked the question, and the witness replied—None whatever.

"MISUNDERSTANDING."

Turning to the meeting, witness said that he told Councillor M'Clure that the story of the 'buses came from a disgruntled workman. He did not remember if he told Councillor M'Clure that he had promised to make inquiries for Alderman Alexander. Witness put in a letter he had written to the Commissioner of Police regarding the allegations made about 'buses being stopped by the police, and the reply of the Commissioner, in which he said that the statement that the plates had been removed from the 'buses owing to mechanical defects arose owing to a misunderstanding in the public service vehicles department. The police admitted having given erroneous information to Alderman Alexander.

The hearing was adjourned until to-day.

THE CHURCH OF IRELAND.

The curacy of St. Peter's, Belfast, will be vacant in October.

The Church Army Crusaders are at present engaged in a tour of Northern Ireland.

A tablet was unveiled in Christ Church Bray, on Trinity Sunday by the Bishop of Killaloe in memory of the late Rev. J. C. Cooper. Part of the memorial consisted in two copies of the Revised Version of the Holy Bible for use at the lectern in each of the churches in the Parish.

The Powerscourt Branch of the Mothers' Union invited the St. Matthias' Branch to Enniskerry recently, and entertained them in Powerscourt Demesne.

After the institution of Rev. M. B. A. Byrn to the Parish of Clonmel, a presentation, consisting of an inscribed silver kettle and a cheque was made to the Very Rev. Dean Leslie, the late rector. At the same time Mrs. Leslie was presented with a standard electric lamp.

Choral festivals have been held in many centres throughout the country. The prevailing fine weather resulted in large attendances at these useful religious, musical and social gatherings.

The Rev. O. S. Daunt, curate-assistant of the Union of Trinity, St. Lawrence and St. John, Limerick, has been admitted to the priesthood of the Bishop of Limerick in St. Mary's Cathedral.

An ember-tide Service for ordination candidates was held in the Chapel of Trinity College on Saturday evening last. The candidates and other members of the Divinity School were present.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

TONE AND COMMENT.

DUBLIN FEATURES ADVERSE.

LEYLAND MOTORS SLUMP.

The beautiful weather conditions and other counter-attractions naturally tended to curtail dealings on 'Change, with the result that business orders remain limited, and occasionally difficult to execute, except at concessions on recent prices. An outstanding feature was the severe depression in the market for Leyland Motors that had recently been lifted to nearly 80s., and last week commanded 71s. 3d. to 72s. 6d. The price opened 2s. 9d. lower at 69s., and had further fallen to 66s. 7½d. at the later market, or a drop of 5s. 1½d. a share on last marking. This company recently did splendidly in clearing off heavy arrears of Preference dividends out of much-improved earnings, but the over-sanguine anticipations from the London and other English provincial markets have eventually proved an uncertain factor, and hence yesterday's sharp slump. The Guinness exports for the past week were again good—i.e., nearly 6,000 barrels increase—but the market slipped back further owing to the real paucity of buying orders. The Funds held well, considering elements of realisations. The Bank section was quiet, with practically no change. Guinness Ord. further fell back to 102s. British and Irish Steam Pref. rather tended to ease. Cables, etc., remain most unreliable pending definite views. Home Rails varied a little irregularly, but on balance the prevailing trend was favourable. Great Northern was harder. Great Southern issues were irregular. Dublin United Tramway Shares fell smartly on sale pressure. Coats were realised, but Courtaulds held firm. Unilevers were a flat market, and Chemicals were barely steady. Leading Tobaccos remain dull, as also Shell Transports.

LONDON GENERALLY WEAK.

GERMAN REPARATIONS LOAN DEALINGS.

There was no expansions in public interest with the commencement of the week in the London Stock markets, and with the accumulation of orders over the week-end again on a very scanty scale, markets, as a whole, presented a quiet appearance, whilst the tendency was to lower values still further. A feature of interest was the commencement of dealings in the new German Reparations Loan, but, after opening at ⅛ prem., the price drifted to ⅛ dis. It is understood that small applications received in full, while those for larger amounts were allotted from 50 per cent. and upwards. Despite the counter attraction of the new German Loan British Funds attracted their fair share of attention. At the close values were for the most part unaltered, though Consols 2½ per cent. and 4 per cent. were each ¼ down on the day. Foreign Government Stocks remained in a neglected condition, and here again the week-end values were usually repeated. Home Rails, on the other hand, displayed an easier front in the continued absence of support, and several of the leaders finished showing a margin against holders. Colonial and Foreign Rails also made a dull showing, with B.A. Western, Central Argentine Ord. and "Leos" all 1½ points down. Central Uruguay and B.A. Pacific each lost a point, and others showed smaller recessions. Interests in the Industrial sections remained at low ebb and quotations were lowered practically throughout the list in sympathy with the International Securities, which were heavy as a result of the week-end fall in Wall street.

INDUSTRIAL MARKET.

HEAVY TONE IN MOST DEPARTMENTS.

PRICES INFLUENCED BY WALL STREET.

Conditions in the Industrial Market yesterday showed no improvement. The course of events in Wall Street continued to influence prices, which were marked lower in several instances. Further forced liquidation was reported, and little disposition was seen to give support anywhere. The trans-Atlantic issues finished at practically the lowest points touched. Nickels fell to a new low level in the final "street" dealings at 22¾, a loss of 4½. Brazilian Traction Common finished no better than 39, as compared with 46 on Friday.

The record leaders were marked down with other Anglo-Americans, Columbia Graphs Shares falling ⅝ to 3 11/16, and H.M.V.'s 1/16 to 3¾. Cables and Wireless Stocks continued on the down grade, the Preference losing 2 at 86, the "A" Ordinary a point at 36, and the "B" Ordinary a similar amount at 16. Marconi Marines were offered at 35s.

Motor Shares were subject to provincial sales. Leylands were noticeably affected, falling 3s. 6d. to 67s.

Electrical Equipment issues suffered a mild reaction. Callenders gave way 2s. to 73s., and British Insulateds 1s. to 74s. 6d.

Little disposition was seen to give fresh support to Textiles or Rayons. J. and P. Coats fell away to 58s., Linen Thread to 26s. 3d., Sewing Cottons to 1 11/16, with Calico Printers on offer at 9s.

Among Art Silks, Courtaulds eased to 2 5/32. British Celanese Ordinary to 12s. 6d., Canadian Celanese to 2⅛, and American Celanese to 4⅛.

Lovell and Christmas weakened 1/16 to 11/16. Unilevers continued to give way, leaving off with a further loss of 1/16 at 2½, at which level they were sellers, while the new Ords. came back to 6s. 6d.

Breweries generally presented a heavy appearance. The only firm spot was Watney Deferred, which improved to 61s. 6d. Several selling orders were received for Guinness, the price falling to the extent of 2s. 9d. to 100s. Allsopps dwindled to 25s. 9d., Bass Ord. to 65s. 6d., and Ind Coope to 62s. 6d. Little disposition was seen to support the Tobacco leaders.

In the Insurance section, values again trended downward. In the Shipping section, Cunards were barely maintained at 20s. 6d., while Furness Withys at 32s. and P. and O. Defd. at 43s. both finished with the loss of a few pence. Royal Mail Ord. stock was marked up a point to 19½, the 6½ p.c. Pref. stock changed hands up to 34, and the 5 p.c. Deb. stock up to 65.

In the Miscellaneous section, United Molasses proved a weak spot, being offered in substantial numbers down to 57s. 6d., at which they finished with a loss of rather over 3s. Imperial Chemicals were also realised, being levelled to 23s., and the Defd. shed 3d. to 7s. 1½d., while declines of a few pence were registered by British Oil and Cake at 29s. 6d., and Dunlops at 11s. 6d. Kreuger and Toll reacted to 28¼, and Swedish Match left off no better than 15.

Purchasers were in evidence for Wiggins Teape Debs., which were marked up to ¼ prem. Gallaher Ords. improved slightly to 29s. 9d., and United Molasses New Pref. held at 1½ prem., but Philips Glow Lamps eased to 59s.

OIL SHARES EASIER.

Following the bout of liquidation which occurred on Friday last, a steady start was made by Oil Shares yesterday, this being due to advices from New York over the week-end to the effect that Oil Shares in that centre had held well as compared with other securities. Later in the day there was a renewal of forced liquidation causing prices to weaken, but although quotations were mostly easier at the close the losses were generally of small amount.

RUBBER SHARES DULL.

There was no expansion in the volume of dealings passing in the Rubber Share market, and, with a further recession in commodity quotations, share values were inclined to droop still further. Actual price movements, however, were not numerous, but the alterations recorded, although generally of modest dimensions, were, without exception, against holders. In the raw material market spot and June commenced at 5 11/16d. per pound, but later rallied to 6 1/16d. per pound; July to September finished at 6⅛d. per pound, and October to December at 6⅜d. per pound. As anticipated, London stocks of the commodity showed an expansion of 488 tons, whilst Liverpool stocks were over 1,300 tons higher.

LONDON "STREET" MARKET.

After being weak all day trans-Atlantic issues fell yet further in the "street" as the result of offers from New York, where a fresh "bear" drive is apparently in progress. Brazil Tractions at 41½ showed a fall of 2 points compared with the price ruling at the close of business in the "House." Nickels were 1¼ lower at 24½, and Radio were 1¼ down at 40. Columbia Graphophones were quoted at 3 11/16 as compared with 4⅝, while H.M.V. were ⅛ down at 3 11/16.

LONDON MINING MARKET HEAVY.

RIO TINTO DEPRESSED.

The same dull conditions which prevailed in the Stock Exchange last week were again in evidence yesterday. Indeed, most markets were, if anything, rather more depressed, for there were no indications of a revival of public interest and the accumulation of orders over the week-end was painfully small. In the Mining section, even the Gold shares which had previously maintained a fairly firm appearance, were unable to escape the surrounding gloom. In the Kaffir section there was a disposition to offer some of the finance descriptions, this being partly due to the attitude adopted by Paris, that centre being rather a seller than a buyer of its specialities, and movements were against holders. A distinctly heavy tone characterised the Rhodesian department during the greater part of the day, and quotations sagged. Just towards the close a little inside support was forthcoming, but it was only sufficient to lift one or two prices a trifle above the lowest points touched. Diamonds remained dull, and De Beers Pref., Jagersfontein, and Cons. Diamond sought lower levels. The price of Copper fell £1 7s. 6d. to £47 6s. 3d. per ton, and Rio Tinto closed at 33¾, a loss of no less than 35s. on the day and £6 below the last make-up. Elsewhere, Burma eased in sympathy with the fall in silver to 15 11/16d. per oz., and Santa Gertrudis were also lower. Closing prices:—

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

DEPRESSED MARKETS.

For the time being the stock markets are depressed by various circumstances. Among these is the weakness of Wall street and the apparently faint prospect of a substantial recovery there owing to the unfavourable reports regarding the trade situation in the United States, while an unsettling influence on the other side is the passage of the new Tariff Bill, a measure that has been much criticised. Other influences include the fresh weakness in some commodities, such as silver and copper, the fall in the latter having caused an unusually sharp decline yesterday in Rio Tinto shares. Adverse exchanges are having a weakening effect upon various Argentine and Brazilian securities, and yesterday there were indications that the fall in Stock Exchange securities was by no means largely due to bear selling. Liquidation was in evidence, apparently for the purpose of closing certain weak positions in the Stock Exchange, and altogether the tone of markets was most depressed.

S. SMITH AND SONS (MOTOR ACCESSORIES).

We are officially informed by S. Smith and Sons (M.A.), Ltd., that they have sold to Messrs. Joseph Lucas, Ltd., the electric lighting and starting and magneto portion of their business. The result of this sale will enable both companies to concentrate their efforts on those lines in which they have specialised for many years. S. Smith and Sons (M.A.), Ltd., point out that there is no question of any amalgamation between the two firms, but arrangements are being considered by which the servicing of Smith instruments will be carried out at the dépôts and service stations of Messrs. Lucas throughout the country as well as at the present Smith dépôts and service stations. Should it be possible to make this arrangement as to service it would prove a great convenience to the motoring public.

GERMANY ACCUSED OF EXTRAVAGANCE.

In his final report as Agent-General for Reparation Payments, Mr. S. Parker Gilbert has a special chapter on the Budget of the Reich. He accuses Germany of extravagance, and says the long series of deficits is due to allowing expenses to go over the limit of available income. Reform of public finances, in view of the Young Plan, was the first problem of the German Government and people. The future of Germany's economy depended on its solution.

TIN RESTRICTION.

At a large and representative meeting of Malayan tin miners at Singapore yesterday a resolution was passed recommending, firstly, stoppage of production unless the proposal for a two months' cessation of tin production was adopted; secondly, that the Chamber of Mines should approach the Government with a view to the introduction of legislation regarding the six-day week; and, thirdly, that the Tin Producers' Association should consider a practical scheme for the restriction of output and an additional cessation of production for two months. Reports from Batavia state that at a meeting of the Federated Malay States Chamber of Mines at Ipoh (Perak) yesterday it was decided unanimously to propose to the Tin Producers' Association that arrangements should be made for complete stoppage of production for two months.

NER-SAG (OVERSEAS), LTD.

Sir John Biles, presiding at a meeting of Ner-Sag (Overseas), Ltd., at Cannon Street Hotel, London, yesterday, said that there would be a minimum distribution of 1s. 9d. per share. About one hundred people atteanded the meeting, and there were scores of empty chairs. Sir John, who stated that the meeting had been called to receive a report on the company's present position, said:—"The directors hope that, having regard to the position in which they found the company and the circumstances in which the company came into being, you will think this result satisfactory. We are confident that after paying all the legal charges and the liquidator's fees there will be a sufficient sum to return the shareholders at least 1s. 9d. There were three thousand five hundred shareholders in the company. It would be possible to distribute 1s. 6d. per share in the next two or three weeks. The question of the directors' remuneration was raised, and various amounts were suggested in a resolution and amendments. These included £2,500, £2,000 and £1,500. One woman, opposing the payment of remuneration, said: "We thought our directors would help us and pull us through. Instead of that they are letting us down. I don't think this is the time to put money into their own pockets." A resolution that the remuneration should be £2,500 was carried by 26 votes to 18. A shareholder appealed to the meeting to make the vote unanimous, but there were cries of "No." A special resolution that the company be wound up voluntarily was moved by Sir John and carried by 44 votes to four. It was proposed by Sir John that Mr. Harry Hackett, chartered accountant, be appointed liquidator to wind up the affairs and distribute the assets at a fee of £2,000. There was some criticism of the amount, and, in reply to questions, Sir John said that the £2,000 covered all the expenses. The resolution was carried by 25 votes to 23 and the meeting ended.

LAGUNAS SYNDICATE.

With reference to the scheme for the amalgamaton of the Lagunas Syndicate, Ltd., with the Lagunas Nitrate Co., Ltd., and the draft agreement for transfer approved by the former company at an extraordinary general meeting held on January 22 last, the shareholders of the Lagunas Syndicate are now informed by the Board that an agreement in the terms of the draft in question was duly entered into on February 19, and that notice has been received that the reduction of capital of the Lagunas Nitrate Co., Ltd., contemplated by the scheme, was duly confirmed by the Court on May 26, and has now become effective. In pursuance of the agreement, an extraordinary general meeting of the Lagunas Syndicate will be held on Monday, July 7, at 12.30 p.m., at Winchester House, Old Broad street, to consider a resolution for the voluntary winding-up of the company.

THE ROYAL MAIL STEAM PACKET CO.

A special meeting of the court of directors of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company yesterday appointed Mr. Walter Runciman, M.P., to be a director and the deputy chairman of the company.

CHARING CROSS BANK.

The 18,000 creditors of the Charing Cross Bank, which failed twenty years ago with a loss of over £1,500,000, are to receive a final dividend of just over 2s. 6d. in the £. It is understood that the dividend results from the sale of interests in the Atlantic Quebec and Western Railway—the bank's last remaining asset. Sir William Peat, who, with Sir William Plender, is a trustee, informed a Press representative on Saturday that notice of the dividend would be sent to the creditors in due course. Intention of payment of the dividend was notified in Friday's London Gazette, under the name of Alfred William Carpenter, trading as the Charing Cross Bank, lately residing at Egham Hythe, Staines, Middlesex, banker, and carrying on business at Bedford street, Charing Cross, and Bishopsgate street Within, and at numerous provincial branches.

DEPRESSION IN GERMAN MOTOR TRADE.

Further evidence of depression in the German motor trade, says Reuter from Cologne, is contained in the announcement that the Daimler Benz Company is discharging four hundred employés from its works at Sindelfingen, near Stuttgart. It may be recalled that since April of this year the Opel Motor Company at Ruesselsheim has discharged thirty per cent. of its employés. As there is no prospect of an immediate improvement in the German coal trade, 1,200 miners and fifty officials employed in the pits of the Vereinigten Stahlwerke at Hambern, near Duisburg, who were given notice at the end of last month, have now been discharged.

RUBBER BELOW SIXPENCE.

In Mincing lane yesterday rubber was dealt in at 5 15/16d., this being the lowest figure ever recorded. The previous low record was 6d., which was established on June 10 last. The price recovered before the close, however, to 6d. The latest weakness is the result of an easier tendency which developed in the American market over the week-end, while the fact that the United Kingdom stocks reveal an increase of 1,814 tons as a result of movements during the past week did not help matters, although the increase was much in accordance with anticipations. The increase is the largest since the week ended April 5, when no less than 3,054 tons were added. At the same time it follows one of only 212 tons in the preceding week, this having been the smallest augmentation since the third week in February.

THE MONEY MARKET.

LOAN AND DISCOUNT RATES FIRMER.

NEW LOW RECORD FOR SILVER.

Conditions, as anticipated, were somewhat harder in Lombard street yesterday, there being the usual calling in of funds for window-dressing purposes on the part of the banks. During the early hours up to 2½ per cent. was paid for accommodation until to-day, but later on the rate eased to 2¼ per cent., and at the close balances were offering down to 2 per cent. Old money was renewed at 2 per cent. for either a day or a week.

Rates in the discount market kept firm owing to the falling off in the demand for bills. Most houses quoted 2½ per cent. for fine three months maturities, while there were sellers of the hot Treasuries at a shade under that figure.

Silver fell 1/16d. on American selling to 15 11/16d. per ounce for spot and 15 9/16d. for forward delivery. These prices constitute a new low record for the metal. Gold remained at 84s. 11¾d. per ounce fine.

At the Bank of England £20,833 in sovereigns was set aside.

Sterling in terms of the principal currencies was weaker in the Foreign Exchange market yesterday. The New York rate was finally quoted at about 4.85 13/16, as compared with Saturday's finish of 4.85⅞. Canadian dollars were also dearer, the closing rate being 4.85 11/16 as against 4.85 13/16. Among the Continental exchanges pesetas were freely offered and finished at 41.67½, as compared with the previous close of 41.27½. In the Scandinavian section both Swedish and Norwegian rates were ¼ lower, the former at 18.09 and the latter at 18.15¼. Argentine dollars finished at 41 23/32, a fall on the day of 1/16. In the Far Eastern section Hong Kong dollars and Shanghai taels displayed renewed weakness, the closing rates being 15 5/16 and 17 11/16 respectively.

DUBLIN FACTORY ACCIDENT.

FITTER DIES FROM INJURIES.

A fitter named Patrick Blanchfield (45), married, of F Block, Keogh square, Inchicore, employed in Messrs. O'Keefe's chemical manure factory, Mill street, was killed when caught in machinery on Saturday last.

Blanchfield was inside one of the manure machines, it appears, and another workman, unaware of the fact, set the machinery in motion. Screams were heard and the electric current was cut off. Blanchfield, who was badly injured, was taken to the Meath Hospital, where he died. An inquest will be held to-day.

BRAY FLOWER SHOW.

NEW SOCIETY'S SECOND VENTURE.

Following on the success of the show which it held last August, the Bray and District Horticultural Society, which was organised last year, and is affiliated to the Royal Horticultural Society of Ireland and the National Sweet Pea Society, has arranged to hold a similar show on the Esplanade, Bray, on Wednesday, July 23rd next. There will be two sessions, afternoon from 2.30 p.m. to 6 p.m., and evening from 6.30 p.m. to 9 p.m. at popular admission charges. During the evening session the Garda Siochana Band will perform, and, given a fine day, success is assured.

It is expected that the competition will be keen, as there are four valuable cups to be competed for, as well as some handsome money prizes.

The President of the Society is Mr. John Garvey, D.L., O.B.E., while the Earl of Meath and Viscount Powerscourt are patrons. Mr. D. J. Hennessy, P.C., is the Hon. Treasurer, and Mr. A. F. McNulty, Hon. Secretary.

AUSTRALIAN WOOL SALES.

At the opening wool sale of the final series of the season at Sydney yesterday, the offerings amounted to 10,091 bales, out of which 8,808 were sold. Wool sold privately consisted of 666 bales. There was an average selection. Under strong competition from Japan, Germany and France, and limited competition from Yorkshire and America, the market ruled firm at the closing rates of the May series for all qualities of fleece wool and skirtings. Strong purchasing power on the part of Japan, which was a feature of the Brisbane sales, was again in evidence. Greasy merinos realised up to 20d., comebacks 15½d., and crossbreds 12¼d. The series closes on July 2.

At Melbourne yesterday the offerings consisted of 7,570 bales. There was a moderate selection. Competition was keen and sustained, Japanese bidding being a feature of the sale, and good support coming from the Continent and Yorkshire. Prices were equal to last week's.

For 1928 the company earned a net profit of £37,212, a dividend of 7 per cent. was paid, and £216,946 carried forward, against £214,734 brought in.

BOLIVAR RAILWAY CO.—Gross receipts for 1929 were £136,231, and working expenses were £132,444, leaving a profit of £3,787, against a deficit last year of £2,923. A total debit of £58,813 is carried forward.

GUTTA PERCHA'S HALF-YEAR.—In presenting their half-yearly statement regarding trading, the directors of the India Rubber, Gutta Percha and Telegraph Works Co. regret that the results for the first half of the current year have not come up to their expectations. Trade conditions in the company's industry, in common with many others, have been very difficult, and have adversely affected certain sections of the business. Other sections, however, are maintaining both output and profits, and the directors are taking energetic steps to develop these departments, and, if necessary, to restrict or even abandon others which hamper progress. From past experience, it is stated that the directors look for the usual improvement in the second half of the company's year, and they have decided that the Preference dividend due on July 1 shall be paid on that date.

Adding this loss to the balance of £28,092 brought forward, makes the debit balance of £29,953 to be carried forward. The directors are pleased to report that the reorganisation of the establishment in Argentina has fully realised their expectations. After providing for directors' fees and interest on the 4 per cent. First Mortgage Debenture Stock and the 4½ per cent. Debentures, there remains a balance of £1,362,684. The Preference dividend for the twelve months and the interim dividend of 5 per cent. on the Ordinary and Employé' Shares, ranking for dividend for the full year, paid on the 2nd December, 1929, absorb the sum of £189,097, leaving an available balance of £1,173,586. PAPAL NUNCIO AT THE ROCK OF CASHEL.

"A PLACE OF INSPIRING MEMORIES."

Scenes of great enthusiasm marked the visit of the Most Rev. Dr. Paschal Robinson, Papal Nuncio, to Cashel yesterday. He was accompanied by Dr. Harty, Archbishop of Cashel. On entering the town the Nuncio was greeted with vociferous cheers, and was introduced to the Right Rev. Monsignor Innocent Ryan, P.P., V.G., Dean of Cashel, and to the Chairman and members of the Urban Council.

The different religious societies, headed by the school children of the parish, formed a procession, which accompanied the Nuncio to the historic ruins of the Rock of Cashel. An address of welcome from the Urban Council was read by the Chairman, Mr. Patrick Looby.

The Most Rev. Dr. Robinson, replying, said that he need hardly tell them how grateful he was to be afforded such a favourable opportunity for coming in touch, so to say, with Cashel of the Kings, with whose eventful history and vicissitudes he had been so long familiar through the annals of Munster and of other sources. Few places in Ireland recalled such inspiring memories as the Rock of Cashel, with Cormac's chapel and its storied monuments of a thousand years.

The party then viewed the ancient buildings, and later the Nuncio motored to Rockwell College.

Charles Murtagh, aged four, of Anslow street, Collyhurst, Manchester, was knocked down by a charabanc in Queen's road, Miles Platting, Manchester, yesterday and killed.

POLICE CALLED IN.

SCENE AT TYRONE COUNTY COUNCIL MEETING.

The proceedings at Tyrone County Council meeting yesterday were of a lively character, and for the first time in the history of the Council the police were called in.

Mr. Hagan persisted in addressing the Council, when the Chairman (Colonel Howard) told him he would be removed if he did not keep order.

Mr. Hagan—You could not put me out, or a man on your side.

The Chairman again appealed for order, and asked the Council to support him and he would send for assistance.

Mr. Hagan—Send for the "B" men if you like. I am not afraid of any "B" men.

The Chairman directed an official of the Council to 'phone for the police, and soon afterwards Head-Constable Jackson, Sergeant Brennan and a constable arrived.

In the interval, however, matters had quietened and the business was proceeded with, the police remaining until the close of the meeting.

The inquest on Mr. Vic Halliwell, who lost his life in the Miss England II. disaster when Sir Henry Segrave was killed, was formally opened yesterday, and adjourned until the inquest on Sir Henry Segrave is resumed.

GOLF.

THE FIRST STAGE OF THE OPEN.

"RECORD" EQUALLED BY COMPSTON AND DIEGEL.

"BOBBY" JONES TAKES 73 AT HOYLAKE.

The Americans took a prominent part in the first stage of the qualifying competition for the Open Championship over the Hoylake and Wallasey links yesterday. The course of the Royal Liverpool Club will be the scene of the actual championship, and the play there naturally attracted most attention, as the returns afforded an indication of what may be expected when the struggle begins in earnest to-morrow.

By then the record entry of 296 will be reduced to the first one hundred scores, and all who tie for the one hundredth place.

Hoylake proved a much more searching test than Wallasey, which is some miles up the Mersey towards Birkenhead, and is being used for the first time as a qualifying course. There were more scores under 80 over Wallasey than at the neighbouring links, and W. T. Twine, with 68, returned the lowest score of the day at Wallasey, against the 70 by Leo Diegel and Archie Compston at Hoylake.

In merit, however, the golf of the American professional champion and Compston represented the greater performance. Diegel has not been driving well since coming to England six weeks ago, and he resorted to the use of a brassey off the tees. He drove so far and straight with that club that complete confidence was restored, and he played his driver from the fourteenth.

The American finished with a burst of "fireworks," three "birdies" being recorded for the 16th, 17th and 18th. Compston was driving enormous distances. He was never off the fairway for the first nine, which he holed in 35. He was in his first bunker at the twelfth, but he recovered well enough to get a 3.

There was tense excitement amongst the largest crowd of the day which followed Compston, as the Englishman was below 4's at this point, and leading Diegel by three strokes. However, Compston could not overhaul Diegel, but he finished level at 70, which equalled the professional record.

ARCHIE COMPSTON.

Mr. "Bobby" Jones had a round of 73, his golf being of a high level of steady excellence.

Mark Seymour, who finished in 71, received notification of the death of his father, and withdrew from the championship.

Among those who scratched were Mr. Harrison R. Johnston, the U.S. amateur champion; Gene Sarazen, T. D. Armour, and Aubrey Boomer.

IRISHMEN DO WELL.

The Irish representatives who played their first qualifying round at Hoylake did extremely well, only one of the five endangering his chance of qualification.

Mr. D. E. Soulby, who entered from the Fortwilliam Club, Belfast, had a very fine 73, and gained a place amongst the leaders at Hoylake. It was a particularly good round, because, like "Bobby" Jones, who has a similar score, he took 6 for one hole. This was the third, where he took three putts. He started with a 5, having sliced his drive, holed an approach for a 3 to make amends at the second, and after his disastrous 6 he played extremely well, never making an error, to be out in 38 and home in 35.

Major C. O. Hezlet (of Portrush) had a very good 76, and was quite safe for a qualifying place it seemed. Except at the third, where he found a bad lie from his second shot, and then putted indifferently to take 6, he played well going out to reach the turn in 38. He dropped a stroke at the tenth, but had the next three holes in 3 each, his 3 at the twelfth (400 yards) being the reward of a great second shot. He finished indifferently, however, with three fives, which were hardly in keeping with the standard of his earlier play, although there was nothing very bad about such figures.

Sid Fairweather (Malone) had a good round of 75, and played golf which deserved this reward. Once or twice, when he just missed the green with his approach shots, he paid heavily for it, for the rough is extremely difficult. He did not have a bad hole going out, although he twice missed holeable putts. In his homeward half of 37 he made his only error at the short thirteenth, where he was bunkered and took 4.

W. Nolan (Portmarnock) had 77. He played well for this score, as, indeed, he had to, for this is one of the longest championship links in the country. He went out in 37, which represented almost faultless golf, except for a slipped putt or two which he unluckily failed to drop. At the fifteenth he was only two over fours, but he got into difficulties at the long sixteenth, and took 6. This spoiled an otherwise excellent round, his homeward half being 40.

Dr. J. D. MacCormack (Hermitage) had a very indifferent 86, and will have a tremendous struggle to get a place amongst the qualified players. He was not playing with his usual accuracy, and, as he was also putting poorly, he had some bad holes. The worst was probably the terrifying 7th, where, short with his tee shot, he used his putter four times before holing out, and took 5. Out in 40, he played steadily enough until he came to the 16th, where he was bunkered, took two to get out, and down went a 7. At the 17th he again was bunkered, took six, and finished with a similar figure, the last three holes costing him 19 strokes and the homeward half 46.

P. Stevenson (Royal Portrush) had a first round of 80 at Wallasey. He was driving well and never off the line, and finished equal with Macdonald Smith (his partner). He missed putts, however, on six greens, but the only serious mistake was at the ninth, where he was bunkered with a bad second and took 6.

Mr. F. McConnell (Royal Portrush) failed to produce his best form. He played well on the outward journey, reaching the turn in 40 in spite of an 8 at the eighth. He was, however, unsteady coming home.

Hugh McNeill (Royal Portrush) had an excellent 75—out in 39 and back in 36. His only error was a missed putt at the second, which cost 6. Otherwise he was steady, reeling off par figures at each hole.

MISS ENGLAND II.

Soundings of the position of Miss England II. were taken last evening by Mr. J. Borwick, a member of the firm entrusted with its salvage. He was accompanied by a salvage expert from Lloyd's. As a result of these soundings Mr. Borwick now thinks that the boat lies upside down on the bottom of the lake. In view of this theory, an attempt will be made to place a wire rope round the propeller shaft of Miss England and then to lift her to shallow water. Special wire ropes capable of lifting a load of three tons are to be used in this operation. The weight of Miss England is between three and four tons.
